DAVILA WANTED AS CHILE WARS ON BANK DRIVES

Martial Law Declared in Effort to Quiet Unrest.

SILVER SPECULATORS ARE ORDERED SEIZED

Former Ambassador Among Leaders Facing Charge of Subversive Acts.

Santiago, Chile, April 8 (U.P.).—President Juan Esteban Montero called upon the armed forces of Chile tonight to maintain order under a decree of martial law, authorized the arrest of prominent political figures on charges of subversive activities, and promised that the new government would do all in its power to solve the nation's grave financial and economic problems.

The public remained restless but camparatively calm in the face of a panicky situation caused by a run for silver on the Central Bank. The run was almost over today, although there was still some demand for silver coins. The police department ordered the arrest of all persons discovered speculating in silver and heavy military guards continued on duty at strategic points.

The arrest of Carlos Davila, former ambassador to Washington, Merine Benitez, former undersecretary of aviation under the deposed Ibanez regime, and Alejandro Lazo, former cabinet minister, was ordered.

Previously Arrested.

Davila was arrested several months ago during a revolutionary flurry, but later released.

"The new cabinet will pursue a policy of frank national cooperation," Victor Robles, the new government leader, a prominent member of the Radical party, said in reference to the political and economic crisis, which observers believed would not be solved without great difficulty.

"We will maintain order at all costs. We will give work to the unemployed and will cut the budget expenses to the Government's income."

Students Back Regime.

Although it has been believed that strong factions of the army will oppose the government under favorable circumstances, the progovernment factions have displayed great strength in public demonstrations.

The university students have been particularly active in supporting the government and preparing to put down any insurrection.

Long Illnes Fatal To Alice Edwards

Art and Singing Instructor Will Be Buried Tomorrow.

Miss Alic E. Edwards, niece of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Somers, the founder of Mount Vernon Seminary, died yesterday afternoon after an illness of several weeks.

Miss Edwards graduated from Mount Vernon Seminary in 1893, and later studied music and art in Europe and America.

She studied at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and at the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts. She was a pupil of Charles Lasar, of Paris, and later of Charles W. Hawthorne, of Provincetown, and Whistler. She had been associated with Mount Vernon Seminary both as a teacher of singing and of art.

Farm Board Is Voted Million After Fight

Members Leave House Victorious and Praised Despite Foes' Attacks; Several Salary Slashes Effected in Battle.

(Associated Press.)

Belabored and eulogized for more than three hours, the Farm Board yesterday emerged from the House with an allowance of $1,000,000 for its work next year and an overwhelming expression against its abolition.

Its supporters lost by only three votes an attempt to appropriate $1,380,000 for it, and then, on a standing vote, defeated, 152 to 23, a move to end the board's life at the close of the present fiscal year and have the Agriculture Department liquidate its affairs.

Meanwhile the board was dickering with Germany for the sale of ten to fifteen million bushels of its stabilization wheat. The success of its efforts depended upon the arrangement of credits.

The vehicle of yesterday's debate was the abolition resolution offered by Representative Vinson, a Georgia farmer. Representative Buchanan (Democrat), Texas, led the effort to increase the board's operating funds. The appropriations committee had recommended $1,000,000, slicing $880,000 off the Budget Bureau's figures.

Chairman Byrns, of the appropriations committee, and Chairman Woodrum, of the subcommittee, that drafted the bill appealed for economy and insisted the board would not need more than $1,000,000. The House refused, 123 to 120, to grant an increase.

Before the board's appropriation had been approved, however, the chairman of the agriculture committee, Representative Jones (Democrat), Texas, attempted to met criticism of salaries paid officers of cooperatives by stipulating that neither the board

REVENGE SUSPECTED IN LINDBERGH CASE

Hopewell Police Official Sees Connection With Two Brush Fires.

Hopewell, N. J., April 8 (A.P.).—Vengeance as a possible motive for the kidnaping of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., 38 days ago, was the subject of an investigation tonight by Assistant Chief of Police Charles Williamson, of Hopewell.

While efforts to effect the return of the lone eagle's infant son were apparently at a standstill, Williamson announced his suspicion of the brush fire which on Tuesday swept two square miles on Sourland Mountain and crept up to within 20 feet of the Lindebrgh white mansion.

Williamson's suspicion of the nature of the fire was partly borne out by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commanding officer of the New Jersey State police, who, in his midafternoon bulletin to the press, said:

"We are investigating the fire at the Lindbergh mansion."

Williamson revealed that the fire last Tuesday was the second since last autumn. At that time, he said, some of the mountaineers, who fought the blaze, complained that they had not been paid for their labors.

"Some of these characters," said Assistant Chief Williamson, who is also chief of Hopewell's fire department, "have questionable reputations. One of them is a gambler of sorts.

"They were pretty sore at not being paid for their work in fighting the first fire, and maybe had a hand in the kidnaping from a vengeance motive. They may have even set the second fire out of spite.

"Having seen the ransom note left in the nursery, I am inclined to believe that the prime purpose of the kidnapers was to obtain money, and not vengeance," continued Williamson. "But there are certainly many

City Workers' Salaries Are Cut in Minneapolis

Minneapolis, April 8 (A.P.).—The city council today ordered salary reductions for nearly all employes under its jurisdiction. The cut was 10 per cent in most cases.

City officials estimated municipal outlay would be reduced $350,000 this year by this and other curtailments.

FASCISM URGES WAR DEBTS CANCELLATION

Council, Headed by Mussolini, Favors Reparations End in Resolution.

Rome (Saturday), April 9 (A.P.).—The grand council of Fascism came out flatly in favor of renunciation of reparations and cancellation of war debts in a resolution adopted at a session presided over by Premier Mussolini, which lasted until early this morning.

The settlement of the reparations-war debt problem is the first necessary step toward the economic recovery of the world, the resolution declared.

The council, which is the government's official advisory body, took this position after a detailed discussion of the entire international situation.

A statement handed to the press at the conclusion of the meeting said the cause of the business depression was more political and moral than economic.

The statement contained five principal recommendations These were: 1. Settlement of the question of reparations and war debts 2. Removal of the shackles on international trade. 3. Solution of the economic difficulties of the Danubian and Balkan countries. 4. Revision of the peace treaties. 5. An end to too frequent international conferences.

Something must be done to restore international commerce before a condition of "total anemia" has been reached in the trade of all countries, the council's statement said

The communique did not go into the details of any of the recom-

4 Seized in Tennessee For Alleged Terrorism

Dresden, Tenn., April 8 (A.P.).—Four farmers were arrested here today on charges of resorting to terroristic tactics in efforts to drive Negroes from their work and replace them with white men. Sheriff Will Dunn said an investigation of "night riding" in a nearby rural community revealed evidence on which the charges were based.

Robert McAlister and Floyd McAlister, brothers, are accused of burning the homes of two Negroes and Allen Vance and Charley Rachael are charged with writing threatening letters to others.

Italy Asks Smaller Ships; Stimson Sees War Curb

Secretary Sails for Geneva to Assist in Parley on Disarmament.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Optimism over the possibility of "limiting the chances of war" was expressed tonight by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, as he sailed for Geneva to attend the disarmament conference.

Optimism over the possibility of a world economic recovery was expressed by Secretary Stimson's predecessor, former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, who sailed on the same liner for the spring session of the World Court.

Sailing also on the Ile de France were Thomas W. Lamont, financier, going abroad for a vacation, and Norman H. Davis, a member of the American delegation to the disarmament conference.

Secretary Stimson would not see re-

Rome Suggests Uniformity of 10,000-Ton Cruisers in All Conflicts.

Rome, April 8 (A.P.).—Italy filed a long memorandum at the offices of the disarmament conference at Geneva today outlining a sweeping program for confining the wars of the future to sharply limited armament.

It is a definite program which strikes at the German "pocket battleships," the 22,000-ton French cruiser, and the battle fleets of England and the United States. It would bring all the navies in the world down to Italy's own standard of 10,000-ton cruisers.

The memorandum does not mention ratios between countries or parity with France, but it reaffirms the four points which Italy laid down at Geneva last February, and it treats those four points as a unit.

They are provisions for the abolition of heavy artillery and tanks, bat-

SENATE CHIEFS WANT TO DEFER TALK ON TARIFF

BIG REVENUE LOSS FORESEEN IN DELAY

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Referendum Demands Balancing of Budget.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

Postponement of consideration of tariff amendments until after action on all other provisions of the billion-dollar tax increase bill was under study yesterday by Senate leaders anxious for quick passage of the budget-balancing measure.

Unable to prevent offering of tariff amendments to the tax bill, because the House put in its import levies on coal and oil, leaders are fighting to stave off a flood of tariff proposals which would plunge the Senate into a long-drawn-out tariff fight and delay enactment of the tax bill.

Postponement of consideration of tariff amendments until the last, they believe, would permit fairly speedy consideration of the tax provisions of the measure and materially reduce the likelihood of a resort to filibustering tactics by tariff advocates to force acceptance of their proposals.

Would Place Delay Blame.

With all of the rest of the bill acted on and ready for the House the tariff advocates would be compelled to accept full responsibility for whatever delay they might cause in final action. At the same time postponement of the tariff fight would permit consideration of the tax provisions without the added difficulties incident to antagonisms aroused in the course of the tariff disputes.

A resolution introduced by Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, would have the Senate "instruct and direct" the finance committee "to strike from said revenue bill all tariff matters pending therein and to report the bill to the Senate with no tariff rates or embargoes included therein whatsoever."

The prime purpose of the bill, the resolution said, is to raise quickly sufficient revenue to take care of Government expenditures and to offset the impending deficit. Inclusion of tariff rates and embargoes would mean, judging by past history, "many months of interminable debate and delay" and the loss of $90,000,000 in revenue per month because the contemplated excise taxes would not be in effect, it said.

Tydings to Press for Action.

Senator Tydings said he would press for immediate consideration of his resoluion and predicted that there would be enough votes to adopt it. Some, however, thought he was optimistic in view of the possible combination against it of the various groups seeking tariffs. In addition to oil and coal already in the bill there are proposals to include copper, lumber, wood pulp, manganese and jute. The last two are not now conceded to have much chance.

Stemming of the tariff tide would not mean that the bill would have serene sailing through the Senate. There is certain to be a fight over the stock exchange taxes, and the outcome of that may be affected somewhat by facts disclosed in the stock exchange investigation which is to be begun on Monday by the banking committee.

The income tax rates will be fought over. There is a belief on one hand that the House rates are

Finger-Terror Plot Traced to School

Weird $3,000 Demand on Ohio Sportsman Held Student's Work.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 8 (A.P.).—A weird extortion plot in which a severed human finger was mailed as a "sample" of what might happen to the victim, was seen by police tonight as the gruesome work of some medical student. Detectives said the finger, sent to John B. Wilberding, Cleveland Heights financier and sportsman, together with a demand for $3,000 has been traced to a northern Ohio medical school which they declined to name.

Police Chief W. G. Barrows, of Cleveland Heights, said the finger was traced to the medical school through an analysis of the preservative used.

He expressed the theory the plot was conceived by a student who had access to the autopsy room of the school. The finger had been partially hacked and partially torn from the left hand of a dead man, physicians said after an examination today.

FOREIGN MONEY DROP IS FACING DOUBLE INQUIRY

Tariff Commission and Senate Group to Make Investigations.

EFFECT ON NATION'S TRADE TO BE STUDIED

Democrats Charge Move to Further Increase U. S. Import Duties.

(Associated Press.)

After five hours of old-fashioned tariff debate, the Senate yesterday agreed without a record vote to have the effect of depreciated foreign currencies on American trade investigated by both the Tariff Commission and a special Senate committee.

The action represented a compromise between Republicans and Democrats.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, had urged the Tariff Commission inquiry, while Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, advocated a committee of senators. Combining the two plans was proposed by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, who remarked that the most reliable information might be obtained by having both reports and comparing them.

After the vote, Senator Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, president pro tempore, ordered the resolution back to the committee on audit and control to pass on a provision for paying the expenses of the special Senate inquiry. After the committee reports it back the Senate must again approve the inquiry before it can be begun.

Statements on Gold Standard.

During the debate, Senator Harrison said that the argument advanced by Senator Reed that depreciated foreign currencies have increased imports to this country to the detriment of American industry might give the impression abroad that "this is the first step in this country" toward leaving the gold standard.

The remark brought Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio to his feet with an expression of concern lest the words "be interpreted as meaning" Senator Harrison "is commending what has been done in Great Britain as being an example that we should follow."

"I assume," he said, "that such a statement would have a tremendously injurious effect in the country tomorrow if that were his meaning."

"I like to be lectured by the senator from Ohio," Harrison replied, adding that he had confidence in the gold standard and the early recovery of prices.

Harrison, Democratic Leader Robinson, of Arkansas, and other Democrats charged the Reed resolution was an entering wedge for higher tariffs.

See Higher Tariffs as Aim.

"The object of getting this information," Harrison said, "is to write new tariff rates into the law. They would be temporary, yes, but when you get increased rates in there, it is sometimes hard to get them out. Be not deceived. This is a movement to get increased tariff duties."

Holding higher tariffs largely responsible for present economic conditions, Robinson said: "The effect if not the purpose of the resolution would be to give notice to mankind of a movement in the Congress to increase the existing rates which on the whole are so high as to have provoked retaliatory measures on the part of our foreign competitors."

Reed replied the object was merely to get information. He contended that imports to this country have greatly increased to the detriment of the American working man since Great Britain and other countries went off the gold standard.

In proposing a committee of seven senators to be appointed by Vice President Curtis, Harrison explained it would have access to the Tariff Commission or any other source for its information and expressed the view that would be the most effective inquiry.

$10,000 Balm Verdict Is Given Former Artist

Cleveland, April 8 (A.P.).—A $10,000 verdict was given Miss Grace Priehs, 30, of Pittsburgh, by a Federal court jury today in her $100,000 breach of promise suit against A. H. Geiger, 43, retired, Alliance, Ohio, merchant.

Miss Priehs, a former pottery decorator and beauty parlor operator, had testified she was "seduced by arts and flattery and the promise of marriage" only to have Geiger inform her he had no intention of matrimony. Counsel for Geiger, who characterized Miss Priehs as a "gold digger," aware that he did not intend to marry her, indicated an appeal would be filed.

STOCK MART PLUNGE BRINGS SENATE BEAR PROBE HOOVER ASKED

Hoover to Get House Economy Plan Today

$200,000,000 Program, Including Pay Cut of $67,000,000, Will Be Laid Before President for His Views at Joint Conference.

A $20,000,000 economy program, embracing threescore retrenchment proposals and a $67,000,000 Federal pay cut plan, will be laid before President Hoover this morning by the Democratic House economy committee.

The program will be taken up item by item with the President when he meets the House group in joint conference at 11 o'clock at the White House. Mr. Hoover will be asked for specific supplementary proposals.

The Democratic curtailment platform was announced from the floor by Economy Chairman John McDuffie. A few minutes earlier a Senate appropriations subcommittee plunged the McKellar 10 per cent knife deep into prohibition enforcement funds, slicing $1,000,000 from the total.

That the Federal pay-cut issue will be placed squarely before the President was made clear by Chairman McDuffie. The $67,000,000 plan incorporated in the economy program involves an 11 per cent cut in the salaries of all Government workers, with $1,000 exemption.

Regardless of the outcome of this morning's conference, the economy chairman indicated his committee will report the pay bill next week as a rider to the next appropriation measure—legislative supplies.

Expenditures Chairman John J. Cochran, sole economy committee opponent of Federal wage slashes, said the matter has not been discussed by the group for nearly three weeks. Chairman McDuffie was to give him "ample" notice before reporting the bill, said Mr. Cochran. Late yesterday he had received no word from the Democratic House whip.

Mr. Hoover never has formally made known his position on Federal salary cutting, although for months after the stock market crash he stressed the need for maintaining industrial wages.

Those close to the President early this session said he was opposed to

AL SMITH ATTACKS WHISPER CAMPAIGN

Hotly Denies That He Is Stalking Horse for Another Candidate.

New York, April 8 (U.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith denied today in typically vigorous language that he is "a stalking horse" for another candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination and stamped "the whispering campaign" against him as "unfair, untrue and un-American."

In messages to friends in three States Smith insisted that his campaign for the nomination is bonafide, sincere and directed only in his own interests.

His declaration was regarded as an answer to critics who have expressed a belief that Smith's candidacy was for the purpose of blocking the chances of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt or of "trading votes" at the convention next June.

It also was regarded as widening the cleavage between the Smith and Roosevelt factions in the New York

Salaries of Philippines Employes Ordered Cut

Manila, April 8 (A.P.).—Salary cuts of from 2 to 10 per cent for all employes of the Philippine government were ordered today in an executive decree issued by Governor General Theodore Roosevelt.

The slash, imposed in an effort to help meet an estimated deficit of $8,500,000 for the current year, will affect 25,000 persons. The decrease is effective May 1. Gov. Roosevelt, the territorial auditor and others whose salaries are fixed by Congress took a voluntary cut of 10 per cent, as did members of the cabinet and legislative leaders.

ECUADOR WILL USE PLANES ON REBELS

Revolting Navy of 2 Vessels Stays Near Friendly Fort; Troops Moving.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, April 8 (A.P.).—Strong detachments of troops left Guayaquil tonight for the fort at Punta Piedra with orders to launch an attack at dawn to dislodge the naval mutineers who have seized the fortress and Ecuador's entire two-ship navy.

Army units moved in during the day by train from Rio Bamba and Latacunja took part in the expedition.

Apparently for the purpose of hindering any attempt to get at them by water, the rebels extinguished the lighthouse at Punta Piedra.

An airplane squadron was prepared to blast 60 or more rebels out of the fort and the port at Guayaquil was closed in order that steamers bound for Punta Piedra might be shunted elsewhere.

The government took the latter step as a means of starving out the sailors, who seized both ships of the navy yesterday and forced the master of the British tanker Buaro to help them start machinery on one of the Mount Clements, Mich., April 8 (A.P.).—Two Army airplanes, flying in an eighteen-plane formation, collided at a height of 2,000 feet between here and Selfridge Field late today.

The pilots, Lieut. Louis R. Black, 24, of Chicago, and Lieut. Benton W. Davis, 29, St. Charles, Ill., jumped with their parachutes and landed safely in an open field. Both are reserve officers.

Post Essay Contest Prizes Awarded by Vice President

Checks Presented to 98 Winners by Curtis on Capitol Steps as Crowd Witnesses Ceremony; Ten Others to Be Mailed Today.

Even the weather man smiled upon the conclusion of The Washington Post-George Washington Essay Contest yesterday by withholding threatening showers until a few moments after Vice President Curtis had presented the last one of 98 checks to as many boys and girls, who received them as rewards for the excellence of essays entered in this great competition.

Only 10 of the 108 winners of cash prizes totaling $1,000 were unable to attend the brief ceremonies and several of these had previously telephoned The Post to tell of whooping cough or some similar ailment that would prevent their attendance. Checks will be mailed to these young people this morning.

Informed that he was only expected to present the eight largest awards, the Vice President said: "Possibly the other youngsters expect it. Let's not disappoint them."

This is not intended as a eulogy of Charles Curtis, but no one could fail to recognize the courtesy that has endeared the Vice President to persons of all political faiths in his voluntary assumption of the task of personally presenting the prizes with a word of congratulation to every one of the prize winners.

Although the occasion was definitely stated to be a private ceremony the event attracted hundreds of spectators who grouped on the Senate steps of the Capitol in such numbers that the representatives Post suddenly thought of the ruling against public assembly on the Capitol Grounds. Such meetings require Whitney, Exchange Head, Summoned for Quiz to Begin Monday.

SHORT SALES CURB "FAILURE" IS FACTOR

Records of Transactions in Which Billions Were Lost Will Be Studied.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

With the security and commodity markets tottering for ten days on the verge of utter demoralization, following the tax debacle in the House of Representatives, the Senate banking and currency committee moved yesterday to act on the now moss-covered proposal of President Hoover that something be done to curb distressing bear raids on the New York Stock Exchange.

After having allowed the inquiry to be sidetracked for four weeks for the attempt to force the drastic Glass banking reform measure to the floor, the banking committee decided suddenly yesterday afternoon to proceed with the investigation.

Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange and stanch defender of short selling, will be the first witness. The inquiry will begin next Monday.

Average at New Low.

The committee's action came as the 90-stock average on the big board in New York hit a new closing low for the eighth successive day. The market has been in a semidemoralized down-swing for four weeks and yesterday's average closing price of Standard Statistics' 90 leaders was $48.90 compared with $70.30 a month ago.

The minor security and commodity markets, always largely influenced by sentiment on the Stock Exchange, have to a great extent followed the blue-chip stocks disregarding for the most part the essential controlling factors in their own trade in favor of the overshadowing selling in securities.

As a result the last ten days have brought new low quotations for the year in such widely scattered commodities as wheat, cotton, copper, butter, sugar and eggs.

United States Steel broke the 1908 low on the stock market Wednesday when it sold for $34.50 a share, but even this price was shattered yesterday on a dip to $34.25.

New Drive on Dollar.

On the heels of the persistent nose-diving performance of stocks and commodities, French interests unleashed in Paris early this week a new drive on the dollar, with the result that heavy gold withdrawals began once more to move out of New York. Yesterday's official reports showed that more than $10,000,000 in gold was booked to sail on the Ile de France last night.

The French drive on the dollar attained its most insidious character on Thursday, when a Paris newspaper reported one of the leading American banks had suspended payments.

Although an apology was promptly forthcoming from semiofficial quarters in Paris, there was no cessation of dollar selling in the French market until New York began to talk seriously yesterday of asking all French institutions to withdraw at once their entire balances. By thus removing the leverage for the French propaganda against the dollar, banking opinion held, the complete withdrawal of the Paris balances would eliminate completely the recent disturbing effect of the inspired French cables to America.

Huge Value Losses.

The wave of selling which began in mid-March when the House went into oratorical convulsions over the tax bill wiped more than $3,000,000,000 from the market value of New

INTRASTATE RATES UNDER I.C.C. PROBE

Inquriy Into Emergency Freight Situation in 11 States Ordered.

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday exercised its power to act when intrastate freight rates may be unfair to interstate shippers and ordered an investigation into the emergency freight rate situation in eleven States.

The action was taken after carriers operating in the States complained that State commissions had refused to approve increases in rates between points within their borders similar to those the Federal commission approved and which became effective January 4. Idaho, Montana, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, Arizona, Oklahoma and Nebraska are the States concerned.

The petition on which the commission acted has not yet been made public, but the carriers allege that some commissions have refused approval of any increases while others have withheld approval of increases on specigc products.

A series of hearings starting in three sections of the country on May 2, were ordered with Examiners W. J. Disque, G. H. Mattingly and R. N. Trezise in charge. Disque will hold hearings at Boise, Idaho, May 2; Helena, Mont., May 10; St. Paul, Minn., May 13, and Madison, Wis., May 17. Mattingly will open at Frankfort, Ky., May 2; New Orleans, May 6; Austin, Tex., May 13, and Phoenix, May 17. Trezise will be at Little Rock, Ark., May 2; Oklahoma City, May 6, and Lincoln, Nebr., May 11.

The case is an outgrowth of the 15 per cent rate case filed nearly a year ago by the railroads. The commission, after several months of study, refused to grant a general 15 per cent increase. It approved, however, a series of temporary surcharges with the provision that the railroads pool the money and loan it to carriers unable to earn their fixed charges.

At the same time the petition was filed with the Federal Commission, the railroads handed similar petitions to all of the State commissions asking increases in rates between points within the States. Most of the State commissions took action similar to that of the Federal tribunal, keeping the general level of rates within the States the same as interstate rates.

LEADERS IN SENATE SHY AT TARIFF TALK

too high and an effort will be made to lower them in certain instances. On the other, there have been various proposals to increase the taxes on large incomes.

Chamber Favors Balancing.

Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, has advocated an increase from 40 to 50 per cent in the maximum surtaxes on incomes over $100,000, and Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, also is planning to propose the wartime tax schedule on large incomes.

Senator Park Trammell (Democrat), of Florida, introduced an amendment which would give greater tax exemption to the smaller incomes. Senator Trammell would allow an exemption of $1,500 for single persons and $8,000 for married persons. The House bill allows $1,000 and $2,500 exemptions.

Demand for a prompt balancing of the Federal budget was made by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in announcing the result of a nation-wide referendum among its membership.

"Twelve hundred associations of business men, from coast to coast, have declared through this referendum in no uncertain terms their desire that the Government take immediate steps to produce a balance of expenditures," Silas H. Strawn, president of the chamber, said.

Federal Costs Reduction.

"The referendum, combined with daily communications from all parts of the country, gives an emphatic verdict from business men's organizations that the first step in the fiscal program should be reduction in the cost of the Federal Government."

The chamber, Mr. Strawn said, favors increased taxation for a limited time, moderate increases in normal and surtax rates, a decrease in personal credits, "some" increase in corporate income tax "if unavoidable" and "a broad range of taxes upon articles of wide use but not of first necessity."

The chamber said that the tax on capital gains and deductions allowed for capital losses should be reduced to a low rate. It opposed retroactive taxes or any increase in inheritance taxes and urged "reasonable allowance" for shrinkage in estate values between death and date of tax payments.

"The country," Mr. Strawn emphasized, "awaits a convincing demonstration that expenditures will be pared sufficiently to avoid a disastrous load of new taxes. The country can not maintain the present basis of appropriations without a drastic revision of taxes. Attention should be directed toward balancing the budget by a sharp revision in expenditures."

Watch In-Laws' Arteries, Is Advice for Lovelorn

By JOHN J. DALY

SCIENCE, always romantic, offers a suggestion for improving the race. This can be done merely by a change in the time-honored method of courtship.

In a paper read before the American College of Physicians, a learned doctor deplores the diseases associated with the aging—as who does not? He claims most of these troubles could be eliminated if the young folks went about their love-making differently.

The idea is to rid the world of heart diseases—though what is love but heart disease?—and high blood pressure, which is another form of love. Also listed to go is that arch-foe of the human race, vascular degeneration, or arterio sclerosis; in plain, ordinary English, hardening of the arteries.

AN important phase of all these dread scourges is the "hereditary basis," as the College of Physicians agreed after hearing the doctor's dissertation. If the hereditary basis is stopped at its source, as the Germans were stopped at the Marne, society's warfare against high blood pressure and other human ills would soon be ended and an armistice declared.

How to bring about this boon? Easy!

Young men and women during the period of courtship should measure the blood pressure of their prospective mothers and fathers-in-law. Not only that—which would increase business in the medical profession—but the youngsters should know what condition the old folks' arteries are in; whether they are hardening or in a state of flux.

* * * *

AS the report puts it, "Hypertension in one or the other parent is commonly associated with hypertension in the offspring, and hypertension and arterio sclerosis in both parents in a large majority of cases leads to the same condition in many of the children." The obvious method of dealing with this problem of hypertension is to put the question fairly and squarely up to the prospective grandparents.

You can imagine, easily, what would happen to a young fellow courting a girl if the lad, following the advice of the medicos, took it upon himself to go and feel the arteries of his prospective father-in-law.

"This is so sudden," the old gentleman undoubtedly would reply.

Even if he did not have hardening of the arteries, it is by no means certain that the old fellow would not develop acute hardening of the heart—in which case the ardent suitor would have to seek elsewhere for love's young dream.

Oh, these doctors, these scientists!

ECONOMY PROGRAM OF HOUSE WILL BE LAID BEFORE HOOVER

Government pay cuts, but hardly had this word gone out before Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, original Federal pay-slash advocate, quoted the President as favoring his program.

Should the 11 per cent pay cut scheme be brought out next week, Representative Cochran has an alternative proposal for retiring superannuated employes, cutting annual leave and nonfilling of vacancies. He may submit this to the House as a compromise.

Chairman Cochran called a meeting of his expenditures committee for 10 o'clock this morning to vote on the Williamson bill, giving the President blanket reorganization authority. If the Williamson measure is defeated he may substitute his own bill authorizing Mr. Hoover to consolidate activities within the departments. Then Williamson and Cochran will make a flying trip to the White House to attend the economy conference.

The $200,000,000 Democratic retrenchment program was announced by Representative McDuffie when he arose to report four retrenchment bills turned out by the economy committee. The bills, almost identical with those on which an agreement was announced by the committee last week, would save $6,000,000 annually.

Various Savings Planned.

One of the measures would reduce annual Federal expenditures for printing, binding and supplies from $14,000,000 to $9,000,000, with $2,000,000 allocated to legislative work; a second would abolish the International Water Commission; another would strike plans for a $750,000 auxiliary heating plant in West Potomac Park; and a fourth would merge the Steamboat Inspection service with the Commerce Department Bureau of Navigation.

The committee has agreed also to abolish the Army and Navy transport service and the Panama Railroad Steamship Co., but as yet has reported no bills to bring this about.

Chairman McDuffie assured the House all partisan considerations will be cast aside at this morning's session; that the need for cuts is too vital a problem to inject into politics. He said the committee is sincerely "glad" to gain the cooperation of the President.

Withholding full details of the nearly 60 proposals to be considered this morning, Representative McDuffie said the President may release them if he desires to do so. He said he did not want to lay the committee open to criticism by announcing the outline in advance of its scrutiny by the President.

Any specific proposals suggested by Mr. Hoover, but not incorporated in the plan, will be laid before the House immediately, Mr. McDuffie said.

Seeks Immediate Savings.

He reiterated his objections to the President's recommendation for appointment of a joint economy body to make curtailment studies and report.

"We are after immediate savings," said the Alabama Democrat. "A comprehensive reorganization survey would take more than a year. We are striving for savings we can put out hands on right now."

He claims a joint commission would throw into the discard six weeks of hearings conducted by the House economy group. There is no necessity for the Senate repeating this inquiry, he insisted, adding:

"Our hearings will be printed and available to them."

President Hoover yesterday was represented as still persuaded a joint committee should do the work, even though he, too, wants the savings reflected in the 1933 budget.

Department heads were pressed for fresh economy facts at yesterday's cabinet meeting. Members left the session carrying "economy yardsticks." These depicted this year's Government operating expenses, contrasted with revenues, showing a $2,200,000,000 deficit.

Budget Director J. C. Roop, who conferred with Mr. Hoover Thursday, yesterday called at the White House. There were other evidences that Mr. Hoover plans to counter the Democratic program with recommendations as "specific" as anyone could wish.

Department heads likewise bent their shoulders to the economy wheel. Secretary Adams announced further cuts in naval establishments, amounting to more than $36,000. Key West and New Orleans naval stations were hardest hit, remaining barely on an operating basis.

Hines Favors Consolidations.

Veterans' Administrator Frank T. Hines suggested changes in compensation provisions expected to yield between $55,000,000 and $60,000,000. He favors consolidation of hospital and other veterans activities. Reorganization of the rural mail carriers system was suggested by Postmaster General Brown; abolition of a number of agricultural experiment stations, by Secretary Hyde; closing certain embassies and legations, by Secretary Stimson.

"We hope to evolve a real economy program," Secretary of the Treasury Mills declared, following the Cabinet meeting. Both Mr. Mills and Director of the Budget Roop will attend today's joint conference.

The recommended reduction of dry law enforcent appropriations from $11,000,000 to $10,000,000, proposed by a Senate appropriations subcommittee, will be acted on this morning by the full Senate appropriations committee.

An ardent dry, Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, is chairman of the committee. Altogether $12,400,000 was cut from the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor bill, under the McKellar 10 per cent mandate. Senator Robinson, Arkansas, Democratic leader, indicated he would support it "so long as reductions were made in other provisions."

The Senate expenditures committee today will take up President Hoover's proposal of a joint committee on economy, outlined in a bill introduced by Senator Jones. A scheduled meeting yesterday on the bill was postponed.

BACHMANN ELECTED G. O. P. HOUSE WHIP

West Virginian, Serving His Fourth Term, Succeeds Vestal, of Indiana.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Carl G. Bachmann, of West Virginia, yesterday was named Republican whip of the House to succeed the late Representative Albert H. Vestal, of Indiana.

Mr. Bachmann was designated by the Republican committee on committees at an executive session in the office of Representative Snell, of New York, party floor leader. He was promoted from first assistant whip. Since Mr. Vestal's death last week he has been acting whip.

The West Virginian is serving his fourth term. His activity in party organization of the House led to his being given the post despite his comparatively short career in Congress.

As a result of the action, Mr. Bachmann ranks next to Snell in House party organization. He is 42 years old and is former prosecuting attorney in Ohio County, W. Va. His home is at Wheeling.

circumstance that indicate that vengeance might have been the motive."

Williamson was one of the first officers on the scene after the Lindbergh baby was snatched from his crib on the night of March 1.

An automobile owned by Charles F. McCord, of East Orange, said to be a banker, was admitted to the Lindbergh estate late today. An unidentified man got out and entered the house, where he remained about 30 minutes. The nature of his visit was undetermined.

Schwarzkopf anonunced that Henry (Red) Johnson, seaman suitor of the Lindbergh baby's nursemaid, had been turned over to Federal immigration authorities on a charge of illegal entry.

Norfolk, Va., April 8 (A.P.).—Maintaining a complete silence as to their plans, three Norfolk men serving as intermediaries since March 9 in efforts to recover the kidnaped Lindbergh child, tonight were apparently awaiting some further word before making their next move.

Firemen, aided by newspapermen and Col. Lindbergh himself, beat out a brush fire that approached menacingly within a few feet of the Lindbergh home near Hopewell, N. J. The fire hazard made it necessary for the colonel to postpone for a few hours his personal efforts to bring about the return of his kidnaped son.

SUICIDE PACT SEEN AS WIFE FIRES HOME

Scientist Reports Agreement Made on Wedding Day; Woman Near Death.

El Paso, Tex., April 8 (A.P.).—An attempt by his wife, Ludinilla, 43, to burn both of them to death was ascribed today by Dr. Dimitry F. Sinitsin, 63, to a suicide pact made in Moscow, Russia, 25 years ago when they were married. The Sinitsins formerly lived in Washington, D. C.

Sinitsin said his wife yesterday poured gasoline over their bed and ignited it, clutching him tightly in an attempt to prevent his escape. He broke away and dragged her from the intended pyre. She was in a hospital today, not expected to live.

"My wife and I love each other very much," officers quoted him as saying. "About six weeks ago she began to have the idea I was insane and would be taken away from her by authorities.

"She became suspicious of every one and said it would be better for us to die together now.

"My wife thinks we have lived long enough," the doctor said, "but I do not agree with her. There are many years for us yet. We agreed on the day we were married to die together.

"I have written five scientific books. I do not want to die before I know how my work is accepted by the scientific world."

Dr. Sinitsin, who came here from Russia eight years ago, discovered "flukes," a parasite attacking sheep livers and killing the animals. He had been employed in the United States Bureau of Animal Husbandry at Washington.

SPEEDY FINISH DUE IN FORTESCUE TRIAL

Defense Expresses Hope for Directed Verdict of Acquittal.

Honolulu, April 8 (A.P.).—A swift conclusion of the trial of Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three Navy men, accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai, was in prospect tonight as the result of hopes and plans of both prosecution and defense.

Although the possibility that alienists would be brought into the case appeared in the offing, John C. Kelley, public prosecutor, announced he would present his case in three days.

Hopes of the defense for a directed verdict of acquittal were voiced by Montgomery Winn, associate of Clarence Darrow, noted criminal attorney, leading the fight for the society woman and her three codefendants. They are charged with abducting and slaying one of five men suspected of attacking Mrs. Fortescue's daughter. Mrs. Thalia Massie. Other defendants are Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, enlisted naval men.

A directed verdict would make it unnecessary for the defense to present any testimony.

Both Winn and Darrow declined to confirm or deny reports that Dr. Edward Huntington Williams and Dr. James Orbison, Los Angeles alienists, who arrived here yesterday, would be associated with the defense.

"We are not even prepared to admit," Winn said, "we know they are here."

Prosecution attorneys had been conferring with Dr. Robert Faus and Dr. Stanley Porteus, local psychologists, despite previous statements by Kelley that he was not planning to call alienists into the case.

Under orders of Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis the jurors will spend the week-end in their homes with the judicial admonition against discussing or reading about the case. The jurors will be segregated Monday, however.

Final Arguments Finished by Heflin

Senate Elections Body to Hear Bankhead Counsel Today; Vote Near.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate elections committee neared a vote yesterday on the Heflin-Bankhead contest, as counsel for former Senator Heflin made their final arguments in an effort to unseat Senator Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama. Counsel for Mr. Bankhead will make final arguments today and a vote is expected within a few days.

In their concluding arguments, Mr. Heflin's attorneys reviewed the evidence which was accumulated by a subcommittee in its year-long investigation of the election, but stressed particularly their contention that the primary which nominated Mr. Bankhead was illegal.

Democratic members of the committee challenged evidence presented to the subcommittee by its agents, saying it was "hearsay" because they had not been sworn and cross-examined. Senator Glen (Republican), Illinois, contended the committee agents were available at all times for cross-examination if any one wanted it.

war vessels. The tanker later was released.

The minister of public works said the Guayaquil port was closed to international traffic only temporarily to prevent steamship passengers from "being bothered." He said that the revolutionary movement seemed unimportant, that it was bound to fail and that the rest of the country was quiet.

The newspaper El Telegrafo published an extract from a rebel manifesto which was intercepted by the government.

Commander Ildefonso Mendoza was named as the revolutionary leader and the movement was called "a resolution in defense of the principles of liberty which are threatened by the Conservative party."

The manifesto declared a blockade of the Port of Guayaquil a few miles away from Punta Piedra, and announced that the rebels expected to get enough volunteers among the civil population to put up a stiff resistance to federal attacks.

Gen. Leonidas Plaza Guiterrez, former president, whose arrival here according to some authorities, brought the revolt, was on his way to Quito, the capital, by rail today. Previously he said he would engage in no political activity while in the country.

mendations. In reference to the Danubian question, concerning which Italy, Germany, France and Great Britain failed to reach an agreement at the conference in London this week, it was merely pointed out that 70,000,000 people reside in the countries affected.

The peace treaties "carry in themselves the causes of inquietude and of a new war," the council declared. It recommended that these treaties be revised through the League of Nations.

Too frequent international conferences, the statement asserted, instill false hopes in the people which are "followed by always graver disillusions."

3 Prison Fugitives Captured.

McAlester, Okla., April 8 (A.P.).—Trailed nearly 60 miles, three convicts who fled from State's penitentiary with two captives whom they later freed were recaptured without resistance today near Dustin, Okla. The trio apparently had hiked all night after the motor car in which they fled was disabled 20 miles from the prison.

The Senate's Opportunity.

There was a time when people had some faith in Congress—a lot of faith in some of its members, no faith in the few "bolshevists" who always were there. Today the situation has entirely reversed itself. Only a few members have the confidence of the people, and the great majority have the confidence only of the admirers of Stalin and Trotzky.

Never before in the history of our country have the great majority of the members of Congress shown their ignorance and their lack of understanding of what the country needs to help readjust it from the unfortunate economic condition it is in. They have passed a bill which is to tax the rich, when there are but a handful of them left, a bill that is to tax business men and corporations when there are but few left making more than living profits. They have put a high tax on automobiles, which will not only harm that business but also all those industries helped through automobile sales. They have placed high taxes on radios, mechanical appliances and stock sales because in their ignorance they believe that only the rich purchase or possess these things.

They would not pass a manufacturer's sales tax which would have been just to our entire citizenship.

They would not pass a law for a change in the Volstead act even though they should know that a change would improve the morals of the country, help reduce crime and provide funds to help balance the budget. They would not pass such a law even though the majority of the men who voted against the change are personally wet but politically dry.

Congress! Congress! How shameful that most of its members should be representing us!

There is but one chance left to save the country from the added depression which this Congress desires to bring about. That chance lies with the Senate if it has the judgment and courage to correct the recent bill passed by the House, to fight for changes in it, and to help us out of the misery in which the great majority of our citizens are in, whether employed or unemployed.

WITHDRAWAL PLAN APPROVED BY JAPAN

Accord Is Believed Near in Negotiations for Peace in Far East.

Shanghai, April 8 (A.P.).—Japan today accepted provisionally a general plan for withdrawal of its troops as suggested yesterday by Sir Miles Lampson, the British Ambassador and one of the neutral negotiators for Sino-Japanese peace.

Although the Chinese objected that the proposal did not set an absolute time limit on Japanese troops' withdrawal in the Shanghai area, and characterized the plan as "hardly acceptable," they showed a definite willingness toward conciliation on this point.

As a result the main conference will be called into session tomorrow to discuss Japanese withdrawal.

The proposal which Japan provisionally agreed to was one of three alternatives presented by Sir Miles. Although its details were not made public, it was understood to provide for a Japanese retreat further toward the International Settlement than they heretofore had been willing to accept.

The acceptable plan applied particularly to the "Woosung area," which occasioned major differences between the Chinese and Japanese earlier in the week. The Japanese had objected to withdrawal from Woosung on the grounds that they needed it as a landing base, since neutral powers objected to the use of the International Settlement.

Harbin, Manchuria, April 8 (A.P.).—A Rengo (Japanese) news agency dispatch today said that police in eastern Kirin had arrested a number of Chinese, including Communist organizers of Chinese Eastern Railway employes, and charged that they planned to undermine the new administration in Manchuria.

The police said grenades and bombs had been found in several buildings in Harbin.

The Soviet consul general immediately lodged a strong protest against the arrest of the Communists.

Business Rows Blamed For Murder and Suicide

St. Louis, Mo., April 8 (A.P.).—Bitter feeling engendered, police say, by business difference, was the motive given tonight for the murder of Leo Meistrell, 42-year-old real estate man, at Boonville, Mo., last night and the subsequent suicide today of his former business partner, William W. Kingsbury, 55, in a St. Louis cemetery.

The body of Meistrell was found in his Boonville office in a locked vault. He had been shot to death last night, apparently by Kingsbury, whom he had met in a business conference. An hour and a half after the body was found, Kingsbury, former Boonville bank president, walked into Valhalla Cemetery, on the highway between St. Louis and Boonville, and shot himself to death.

VICE PRESIDENT CURTIS PRESENTS ESSAY PRIZES

Charles Curtis, Vice President of the United States, hands a check to one of the group of boys and girls, ranging in age from 6 to 10 years, who shared in the distribution of $1,000 in cash awarded by The Washington Post for best essays on George Washington. Prizes ranging in value from $100 down to $5 were equally awarded in four distinct age-groups, composed of pupils in public, private, and parochial schools, in Washington and adjacent counties of Maryland and Virginia. The Vice President personally presented each award.

the permission of the Speaker of the House as well as of the Vice President, so a hurried trip was made to the office of John N. Garner. Informed of the circumstances, Mr. Garner readily acquiesced and asked that his congratulations also be extended to the contest winners.

Divided into the four age-groups that were represented in the competition, the boys and girls were formed in the order that their names appeared in the published list of prize winners in last Sunday's Post.

Following the award of $100 prizes, each group filed past the Vice President, with the children from 6 to 10 years of age in the lead and the boys and girls from 16 to 18 years of age bringing up the rear of the procession.

As the final check was presented to Miss Esther Hopkins, a pupil at Western High School, drops of rain began to splash on the Capitol steps. Mr. Curtis gave a final word of general congratulation, and, to the accompaniment of the youngster's handclapping, returned to the Senate chamber.

A moment more and private cars and taxicabs had swallowed the crowd. A final glimpse of Miss Mary Lusby showing her $100 prize to a group of friends—then—the Capitol steps were left to the rain, and The Washington Post-George Washington Essay Contest was over.

JURY FIRED IN ROW OF CHICAGO JUDGES

Second Panel Is Ordered to Probe Alleged Plot of Capone on Election.

Chicago, April 8 (A.P.).—A special grand jury was hired and fired in short order today in a war between judges, but it began, nevertheless, an investigation of an alleged Capone terrorist plot to run Chicago's primary election next Tuesday for gangland's benefit.

Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, a candidate for State's attorney on the Republican ticket, disregarded the edict of his brother jurists who had voted 18 to 2 for a transfer of the grand jury inquiry to another court.

He impaneled the special jury and gave it a wholesale order: To investigate "vice, gambling and prostitution—terrorist tactics by racketeers against labor union members—kidnapings, bombings and payroll padding—a bipartisian alliance between public officials and criminals."

Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher speedily retaliated.

He ordered the venire to come to his court instead of Judge Feinberg. He refused to permit a criminal court clerk to attend Feinberg. But the latter impaneled his jury anyway and appointed his own clerk.

Judge Fisher then peremptorily quashed the Feinberg jury panel and declared void the appointment by Feinberg of Louis Hart as special prosecutor. He decreed null and void any action the jury or Hart might take.

Chief Justice Fisher directed that a new venire be summoned Monday in his own court, to have broad and unlimited powers "to investigate any conspiracy to bring about fraudulent voting and also anything of an unlawful nature in connection with the primary." He said he would appoint Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Supreme Court of Illinois, as special prosecutor.

Meanwhile Judge Feinberg stood by his opinion that any circuit judge might call a special grand jury, and he told the jurors to disregard anyone's orders but his own. He instructed them to make a full inquiry into the charges of State's Attorney John A. Swanson, his election opponent, that Feinberg had conducted receivership matters in his court for the benefit of political friends and relatives.

Judge Feinberg charged an attempt was made overnight to keep the venire from appearing before him. His bailiff found his keys missing after leaving his desk for a time. The judge ordered all locks changed. His courtroom lock was jammed this morning, and a bailiff had to force the door.

League to Study Danube Problems

"Big Four" Parley Ends in Disagreement and Now Looks to Geneva.

London, April 8 (A.P.).—The "big four"—Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany—ended their conference on southeastern Europe's commercial crisis today in disagreement, but decided to continue the effort through the League of Nations Council at Geneva next week.

Thus ended two speedy parleys within the week to solve the urgent financial impasse among the "little five"—Austria, Hungary, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Roumania. Premier MacDonald said it would be a mistake to call the conference a failure; Dino Grandi, of Italy, said the conferees did the best they could; Herr Von Buelow, of Germany, said three days were not enough for a conference, and Pierre Flandin, of France, continued to pin his faith on a preferential tariff project.

The British view was that the success of negotiations depends on group negotiations among "helping and helped" nations.

Rail President Urges Merger.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 8 (A.P.).—Consolidation of railroad systems or Government ownership were the alternatives outlined for the railroads today by Ralph N. Butt, president of the Burlington lines, in an address before the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce.

Grubstake Firm Formed For Alaska Gold Search

Seattle, April 8 (A.P.).—A cooperative gold-seeking expedition to Alaska in June was announced today by Seattle men who, organized as the Alaska Grubstake Co., have purchased the four-masted barkentine Conqueror to use in the project. Bob Wark, Seattle aviator, is president, and will fly miners from the ship to their claims.

"We hope to organize an expedition of 250 prospectors into a cooperative company," said Raymond Howie, vice president. "No stock will be sold and all of the miners will share equally in the profits. The company will furnish all equipment and clothing for the miners. Airplanes will carry the men to remote sections of the gold countries where they will be placed on claims and grubstaked."

KENTUCKIAN ATTACK CIVIL LIBERTY UNION

Coal Area Official Dares It to Send Delegation for "Relief."

Frankfort, Ky., April 8 (A.P.).—A challenge to the American Civil Liberties Union to carry out its announced intention of sending a delegation to the Bell and Harlan County coal fields in Kentucky was issued today by Walter B. Smith, Bell County attorney, in an open letter to Arthur Garfield Hays, of New York, attorney for the union.

"We dare you to come under the veiled camouflage of your pretense of 'constitutional rights,'" wrote the youthful prosecutor, who two weeks ago directed the ejection of 80 Eastern College students from southeastern Kentucky. He termed the union a "meddler" and "un-American."

Smith made public his letter while at the capitol to arrange with Gov. Ruby Laffoon for the annual Mountain Laurel and Rhododendron festival near Pineville in June.

Outline Relief Mission.

He was a silent observer in the office of the governor's secretary when a delegation of five representatives from Commonwealth College, of Mena, Ark., left a statement for the governor outlining their relief mission to Bell and Harlan counties.

The governor was ill and the delegation continued its journey without interviewing him. Smith went to Concinnati for a visit without revealing what his attitude would be towards the Arkansas delegation.

In his letter to Hays, Smith attacked the American Civil Liberties Union as communistic and atheistic.

Attack on Union.

"You are a godless, self-appointed, non-de-script, iconoclastic minority of grandiloquent egotists who arrogate to yourselves the right to meddle in courts, in legislature, in educational institutions, and in other people's business everywhere with a pompous air of immunity for your insolent conduct," he wrote Hays.

Mena, Ark., April 8 (A.P.).—The Mena Chamber of Commerce wants the world to know it is not sponsoring the trip of Commonwealth College students to the Kentucky coal fields.

Directors of the chamber adopted a resolution saying the trip "was not undertaken at the suggestion nor by the encouragement of the people of Mena, or the Chamber of Commerce; that Commonwealth College is not supported or patronized by the residents of Mena; and that the college is not located in Mena, but in a rural section twelve miles from town."

Hurley's Plane Is Forced Down in Big Rainstorm

Waynesburg, Pa., April 8 (A.P.).—An Army plane, landing to avoid a pelting rain, nosed over in a field near Waynesburg today, injuring the pilot and a passenger. Staff Sergt. Howard Miller, 27, of Gettysburg, was removed to a hospital with a badly sprained back and suffering from shock. Lieut. W. G. Bowyer, 24, a West Point graduate, suffered cuts and bruises. The plane was badly damaged.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, en route from Washington to Indiana, also was forced down in the storm.

PART AS DEBT ENVOY IS DENIED BY MELLON

Takes Up Duties at American Embassy in London; Spars With Reporters.

London, April 8 (A.P.).—Andrew W. Mellon took charge of the American Embassy today, and lost no time in quietly informing Europe that he did not come to solve the war debt and reparations problems.

Receiving American and British correspondents as one of his first acts, the new ambassador and former Secretary of the United States Treasury plunged into a word tilt with his guests.

It was all incidental until a reporter for a large London daily told the new envoy that Europe regarded him as a special ambassador on war debts and reparations.

"Who did you say invented that story?" asked Mr. Mellon in his usual quiet tone. "I have no special instructions to deal with financial questions.

Relations Are Cordial.

"I realize I am fortunate in coming here at this time. Relations between our governments were never better, and while we both face problems of a most serious nature, arising largely out of the war, these problems are not insoluble and must disappear if we approach them frankly with an effort to understand each other's difficulties and a firm determination to be of assistance when we can.

"It will be the greatest satisfaction to me if I can be of any help in promoting such a working understanding between this country and my own."

In response to other questions Mr. Mellon said he had not devoted much thought to the matter of court dress. He said he would wear whatever was appropriate.

As for serving liquors at the embassy, Mr. Mellon said he had none as yet, but would follow the customs of the country.

Late Leaving Majestic.

"I suppose it (liquors) is obtainable," he added, "which is not the case in my own country."

The former Treasury Secretary arrived off Southampton last night and remained aboard the Majestic until this morning, when a civic welcome was tendered him. These over, he boarded a train for London, and on arrival at the railway station was given an ovation by a considerable crowd. Mr. Mellon was welcomed by representatives of the prime minister and Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, and attaches of the American Embassy.

The British press paid great attention to the ambassador's arrival, publishing more about him than it had about any American Ambassador since the World War. Many papers featured his great wealth, and interpreted his long business and political career in great detail.

Democratic Voters Increase on Coast

Registration in California Shows Gains for May 3 Primaries.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

San Francisco, April 8 (A.P.).—Making deep inroads in heavily populated or industrial centers, the Democratic party has rolled up a record registration in California for the May 3 presidential primary, with the Republicans still holding a big lead but showing a decline of about 10 per cent from the 1930 registration.

Tabulation today by the Associated Press of complete and official registration returns of 54 of the State's 58 counties gave the following totals, as compared to full registration for 1928 and 1930:

	1932.	1930.	1928.
Republican...	1,368,928	1,638,575	1,254,514
Democratic..	828,210	456,096	465,793
All others...	118,055	150,597	129,872

From the backwoods sections of northern California to the Imperial Valley in the south the Democrats scored gains.

Milan, Italy, April 8 (A.P.).—Two officers and five men were killed today, when two army bombing planes collided during a practice flight near here.

JACK GUZIK TRAVELS TO PRISON IN LUXURY

Rides in Drawing Room From Chicago to Leavenworth for Tax Term.

Leavenworth, Kans., April 8 (A.P.).—From the luxury of a drawing room coach in which he traveled from Chicago, Jack Guzik, Capone lieutenant, was transferred today to a bare cell in the Federal prison here where he began a 5-year income tax evasion sentence.

With his expensive dark gray suit and dark blue topcoat exchanged for coarse prison denim, Guzik will occupy his new quarters for two weeks during physical and mental examinations which will aid officials in determining his assignment to duty.

The stocky-built former business manager of the Capone syndicate displayed no emotion when he walked through the gates of the prison where his brother, Sam, had nearly completed a sentence for tax dodging. He was taken immediately to the receiving clerk for an issue of prison garments.

Although Ralph Capone, brother of Chicago's gang leader, rode to the prison several months ago in company with a dozen narcotic peddlers, addicts and other small-time violators, such company was not to the liking of Guzik.

He was allowed to escape such traveling companions by chartering a special car for himself and two "guests," United States deputy marshals. The car was attached to a Santa Fe train routed through Kansas City. There the gangster hired a cab to complete the last 30 miles of his journey, scorning a jolting interurban car.

Guzik, upon whom the Government served a tax lien of $382,000 just as he was about to leave Chicago, was "very liberal with his money," trainmen said.

Chicago, April 8 (A.P.).—Gene G. Oliver, former county assessor, will not ride to Leavenworth with the usual carload of Federal prisoners. He wired from Hannibal, Mo., today he would meet the deputy marshal at the prison gates tomorrow morning.

Oliver was under eighteen months' sentence for violating the income-tax law. The Government officers, receiving Oliver's wire, decided they could do nothing about it and would pick him up tomorrow.

Capone's Armed Guard Will Be Freed Monday

Chicago, April 8 (A.P.).—Philip D'Andrea, the bodyguard, who was sentenced to six months in jail for carrying a loaded pistol into the courtroom during Al Capone's income tax trial, will be released Monday, United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer said today.

The marshal said he had been informed by Assistant United States Attorney General G. A. Youngquist that contempt of court was classed with other criminal charges so that D'Andrea will get five days a month off for good behavior. He has been in the county jail where his scar-faced chief is awaiting the appeal of his conviction and 11-year sentence.

Tax Strikers Lose By Illinois Opinion

Court Holds Discrimination Does Not Invalidate Assessment.

Springfield, Ill., April 8 (A.P.).—The Illinois Supreme Court ruled today that discrimination in favor of personal property did not invalidate assessments against real property. The court, so ruling, upheld the 1929 assessment of taxes in Chicago and Cook County and probably dealt a death blow to tax strikers who have refused to pay realty taxes.

The case, brought by taxpayers, sought to enjoin the collection of taxes, charging the board of assessors omitted to assess or underassessed personal property.

The supreme court has pending another appeal affecting the Cook County tax situation, this from the court of Cook County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who held invalid both the 1928 and 1929 tax rolls. Judge Jarecki's ruling held that no attempt was made by assessors to place millions of dollars in personal property on the tax lists.

Youth Injured by Train Was Warned by Father

Memphis, Tenn., April 8 (A.P.).—Joe Savach, jr., 17, of Chicago, told hospital internes today that his father warned him if he left home and tried to "hobo" his way, he probably would get run over "and be an invalid the rest of my life."

A few minutes later doctors amputated his left leg above the knee and his right leg at the ankle. His hands slipped as he tried to board a freight car here.

Mississippi River Is Rising.

Memphis, Tenn., April 8 (A.P.).—The Mississippi River is rising at all points between St. Louis and Memphis, but Government engineers say main levees are not endangered. They predicted no serious damage would result from the high water, which is expected to continue for several days as a result of melting snow in the North and recent rainfall. The river is out of its banks at places and has covered some lowland.

Street Orator Chains Self To Post as Police Defiance

New York, April 8 (U.P.).—A sandy-haired gentleman, hatless, but garbed in a rubber coat, stood at the corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-second street late today and extracted from some mysterious recess in his garments a stout chain, with which he bound himself to a lamp post.

He padlocked the ends of the chain where they met over his thin middle and threw the key down a convenient manhole. Thus equipped to withstand the assault of the police, he proceeded to harangue the throng.

"The Gov'ment and the working man," he said. "The Gov'ment and taxes, my friends. Taxes and Gov'ment and workers * * * taxes * * * my friends * * * and the workingman * * *" and so forth.

Thousands stopped, jammed the steps of the adjacent public library, blocked traffic and caused the appearance of six policemen. The police surrounded him and he debated over some easy method of removing him.

It was suggested (a) that signs reading "Men at Work" be placed around him, while workers dug a trench beneath him, or (b) that the lamp post be uprooted and both gentleman and lamp post be carted to the station, or (c) that all available lockamiths be fetched to try their keys on the padlock.

Finally, after half an hour of debate, one of the brighter policemen rushed into the public library and emerged with the janitor's cold chisel and hammer, with which the shackles were broken.

At the police station the insistent orator said his name was Peter Schmitz, and that he was an inventor.

Mrs. Cannon testified her husband had been cruel to her, asked her to leave home and had said he did not love her. She asked for no alimony.

PARADERS PRESENT APPEALS FOR BONUS

Thousand Veterans March to Capitol; Petitions Are Signed by Millions.

(Associated Press.)

To the martial tunes of military bands, over 1,000 veterans marched on the Capitol yesterday and left on the congressional doorstep a truckload of petitions demanding cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Their personal appeal was received by Senate and House leaders and they departed with assurances that consideration will be given the issue, beginning with hearings Monday before the powerful House ways and means committee.

The marchers formed at Peace Monument at the foot of Capitol Hill and paraded to the top, halting in the broad Capitol plaza. On the steps under the dome their leaders were received by Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader; Representative Snell, the Republican leader, and Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant Republican leader of the Senate, and other legislators.

Trucks Bring Petitions.

Just before the parade, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, a truck drew up to the steps and deposited twenty packing cases of petitions bearing 2,240,030 signatures from every State and many foreign nations.

These were presented to Mr. Rainey, Mr. Snell and Senator McNary by Paul C. Wolman, past commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, as they stood surrounded by massed color stands and faced by a battery of photographers and movie cameramen.

Senator McNary and Mr. Rainey replied, speaking into sound recorders for the films.

"On behalf of the Senate of the United States, I am happy to receive these petitions," Senator McNary said.

Mr. Rainey made a like statement, adding:

"These petitions, I take pleasure to say, will be considered by the ways and means committee at its initial meeting on the bonus Monday."

Cries for Cash Heard.

Several times during the brief ceremony cries of "give us cash" and "to the White House" were heard. President Hoover has given notice a veto awaits the bonus legislation and leaders of both parties in the House are bending every effort to block its passage.

Several yesterday expressed the belief a discharge petition will be needed by advocates to force a House vote. Proponents contend more than the necessary 143 names already are pledged for such a petition.

So far only fifteen persons have filed with the ways and means committee requests for a hearing on the bonus bill. Seven were House members and the remainder drawn chiefly from veterans' organizations. Included, however, were Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C., retired, and Administrator Hines, of the Veterans' Bureau.

Mr. Wolman said that in addition to the petitions presented yesterday, others containing approximately 2,500,000 signatures have been forwarded directly to Congress.

Rankin Questions Stevens.

After the ceremony, Representative Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, said in a statement that "the American Legion convention can not close the mouths of legionnaires throughout the country and dominate that organization from the top."

The Mississippian added:

"If Commander Stevens, of the American Legion, made the statement quoted in the press this morning to the effect that all legion posts throughout the country are bound by the mandate of the national convention against the movement to inflate the currency and pay off the soldiers adjusted compensation certificates, then he is exercising the most flagrant attempt to browbeat individual legionnaires and individual American Legion posts that has ever been made by any one presuming to speak for the legion."

Marlboro Judge Unable to Give Time to Get Money, but Accommodates.

Admitting that he was guilty of operating an automobile on expired license tags when he was arraigned in Marlboro police court yesterday, Wilford Grove, of Silver Hill, asked that his case be continued for a week.

"A week's continuance," mused Judge J. Chew Sheriff.

"Yes, sir, judge; I'll have the money for the fine by then," Grove answered. Judge Sheriff explained to him that cases could not be continued to give defendants time to raise money for fines, but consented to the postponement as a matter of convenience to Grove.

Aloysius Jones was fined $50 for shooting Percy Wilson in the arm at a dance in Woodmore. He was also fined $25 for carrying a concealed weapon. Jones' brother Henry was fined $25 for assaulting his wife, Grace, and $10 for carrying a concealed weapon. Henry Jones pleaded that his wife had tried to get the gun to shoot him, but his excuse was discounted.

Frederick County Cuts School Teachers' Pay

Winchester, Va., April 8 (A.P.).—Frederick County public school teachers and officials today accepted a 10 per cent salary cut, made by the school board in an effort to balance the 1932-33 budget.

The cut affects all teachers with the exception of a few in the elementary branches whose scale of pay had been increased to conform to the minimum State schedule.

Alcoholism Held Cause Of Death of Woman, 45

After an autopsy by Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday on the body of Mrs. Katherine Garner, 45, of 200 Eleventh street southwest, a certificate of death by natural causes was issued. Acute alcoholism was given as the cause of the woman's death.

Mrs. Garner was brought to Casualty Hospital Thursday afternoon in a serious condition. She died a short while after being brought to the institution.

DRUG CARGO TAKEN FROM ILE DE FRANCE

$300,000 Rum Supply Is Seized in Collier From Norfolk at New York.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Smuggled liquor and narcotics worth over $500,000 at prevailing prices were seized by Federal agents today aboard two recently arrived ships.

The liquor cargo—estimated to be worth $300,000—was under tons of coal in the cargo holds of the collier Maurice Tracy, just in from Norfolk, Va. The ship was seized and her crew of 27, including the skipper, arrested.

The narcotics—variously estimated as worth from $126,240 to $833,005—was brought in by the Ile de France and labeled "toys."

Prohibition agents said the liquor "find" was the result of a blanket decision to search all incoming coal ships. Inspectors boarded the Maurice Tracy and kept close watch while 20 tons of coal were shoveled out. Then they found the first bags.

The collier was built in 1916 at a cost of $700,000.

Joseph Frankel, a toy importer of West Ninetieth street, to whom the narcotics seized were assigned, was released in $5,000 bail in connection with an alleged plot to remove goods on which no duty had been paid from a bonded Government warehouse.

Narcotic agents said they had a tip from abroad that a shipment was coming in on a French Line boat and that they spotted the five cases of toys because the weight of 300 pounds each seemed excessive for playthings.

Another Parade Set for April 30

Safety Patrols and Cadets Will March in Event of Bicentennial.

A second mammoth parade, part of the George Washington Bicentennial Celebration, is scheduled for April 30, it was announced yesterday by the District Bicentennial Commission. More than twenty units, composed of schoolboy safety patrols and Washington high school cadets, will form the line of march from the Capitol to the Ellipse.

Lieut. Milton D. Smith, second in command of the Traffic Bureau, will act as grand marshal. Led by a motorcycle escort schoolboy safety patrols from each precinct in the city will march up Pennsylvania avenue, accompanied by a number of military bands. Companies of cadets will intersperse the line.

Policemen detailed to schoolboy patrol duty will report to Lieut. Smith as to the number of patrols from each precinct that will take part in the parade.

Oregonian Invents New Type of Motor

Portland, Oreg. (U.P.).—A gas-steam automobile motor has been built by Mark M. Clayton, mechanical engineering instructor at the Oregon Institute of Technology here.

The motor is identical to an ordinary gas motor, except that one side of the cylinder head has been replaced with a motor head, into which injectors have been built.

These injectors force water into the cylinder immediately following ignition, the force of the gas explosion making the injection.

Thus the cylinder is forced downward a second time without expenditure of gas.

Bladensburg Duels Will Be Reenacted

Portrayals Will Be Part of Colmar Manor's Fourth of July.

Reenactment of famous duels which occurred on early Washington's "field of honor," near Bladensburg, will feature the Fourth of July celebration of the Colmar Manor Citizens Association, it has been announced by John A. Johnson, president of the organization.

The scene of meetings between gentlemen who had incurred another's ire was along the Eastern Branch about 250 feet from the Baltimore boulevard. The flat meadow is now in the limits of Colmar Manor. Search of Government files is being made for details of some of the duels, and persons having definite information are asked to communicate with G. A. Wood, in Colmar Manor.

Prominent citizens of the town are expected to take part in portrayal of the duels, which will be followed by a more usual ceremony on the nearby athletic field. The association also hopes to mark the site on which more than 300 disagreements were settled. A committee composed of Mr. Wood, town treasurer; Mrs. George Cox, and Mr. Johnson is arranging for the celebration.

FARM BOARD VOTED $1,000,000 BY HOUSE

nor the Reconstruction Finance Corporation should make loans to groups which pay employes more than $20,000 a year in salary and bonus. His amendment was ruled out of order.

Representative Summers (Democrat), Washington, also tried to remove a limitation of $8,500 on all salaries to board employes except members and the general counsel. His motion was defeated. As the bill now stands, the general counsel, Stanley F. Reed, must take a reduction from $20,000 to $12,000 annually.

Before it voted down Vinson's amendment the House heard him arraign the board for having contributed to the depressed price of cotton and wheat.

"When the Farm Board went to work in 1929 cotton was selling for 18½ cents a pound," he said. "Now it brings 3 cents."

Turning to salaries paid officials of cooperatives, he referred to E. F. Creekmore, of the American Cooperative Association, and his annual pay of $75,000 and said:

"It takes 250 farmers working from January to December to earn the salary of Mr. Creekmore. It takes 2,500 bales of cotton to equal his salary."

Warning Against Abolition.

Mr. Jones warned that if the board were abolished, "it would produce wreckage, not only of agriculture, but of the rest of the country as well."

A vigorous opponent of the board when Congress passed the law to establish it, Mr. Jones reiterated yesterday he was not defending it as economically sound, but as necessary because of the fact that it has been in operation.

The board now owns 1,250,000 bales of cotton and 148,000,000 bushels of wheat, which would be dumped on the market if it were abolished and further harm the farmer, he said.

If credit can be arranged the German wheat deal may be consummated soon. The board can not extend the credit because of its encumbered treasury. Private bankers probably will be called upon to finance the sales.

Germany as Buyer.

Ever since it bought 7,500,000 bushels last September, Germany has been a potential purchaser of additional amounts. Conversations have been held on several occasions.

George S. Milnor, general manager of the Grain Stabilization Corporation, now touring Europe, talked with German officials in Berlin Thursday. Thus far no definite proposition is before the board.

Many offers from foreign governments have been received by the board, but it has been unable to accept any of them because its low funds dictate that it sell for cash only.

The administration has suggested that Congress appropriate $100,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance Corporation agricultural funds for financing export sales, particularly to the Orient. This has found favor with Chairman Stone, who believes that large quantities of stabilization supplies could be moved out of the country.

Farm Troubles Meeting.

Farm troubles and possible ways of offsetting them will be taken up around the conference table within a few days by leaders of agricultural, governmental and congressional agencies.

Chairman McNary, of the Senate agricultural committee, announced the conference idea was decided upon by the committee because of disagreement among the various agricultural agencies over the great number of relief measures pending before the committee.

Officials of the following organizations will be invited to take part: Federal Reserve Board, Federal Farm Loan Board, Agriculture Department, Federal Farm Board, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers Union and the National Grange.

They will be asked their opinion on pending proposals and for specific suggestions for a relief program upon which all could agree.

Chairman McNary said the program would be nonpartisan and indicated that aside from seeking immediate relief steps plans for future relief action might be included.

Milnor Goes to Brussels.

Berlin, April 8 (A.P.).—George Milnor, of the United States Grain Stabilization Corporation, left tonight for Brussels after having conferred with numerous representatives of the government and German wheat interests, but he did not sell any wheat.

"I didn't come here to sell wheat," he told the Associated Press. "The German Grain Trade Corporation suggested that we confer about a possible sale and we did. I told them the wheat which Germany undoubtedly will need in the next few months is available in America, and I named our terms.

"I think she will need 400,000 to 500,000 tons and if she wants it from us it's there. Of course, she can get it elsewhere, from the Argentine or Canada, for instance. They also told me they needed 150,000 tons for fodder, but I said we had only milling wheat."

RADICAL CONVICTED IN POLICE ASSAULT

Man Who Took Part in Parade at Japanese Embassy Plans Appeal.

The first of four persons to be arrested for alleged assault upon policemen in the demonstration in front of the Japanese Embassy two weeks ago, yesterday was tried and found guilty in Police Court.

Albert Suskin, of Philadelphia, charged with assault upon Sergt. John T. Langley, was the man who was convicted, despite the testimony of a reporter and of Walter Gellhorn, secretary to Justice Harlan F. Stone, of the United States Supreme Court, that Suskin did not seem to them to be resisting the officer.

The reporter from an afternoon newspaper said that Suskin was in line with others, but Sergt. Langley testified that he had been struck by Suskin and that he had had a lively battle with the man. No sentence was given, as Charles Ford, defense counsel, signified his intention of filing a motion for a new trial.

Others who remain to be tried on charges of assaulting policemen in the demonstration are Joan Hardy, James L. Kennedy and Ivan Kostrow, all of whom will be tried later.

Nebraska Farmers Plan Machinery Repair Bees

Lincoln, Nebr. (U.P.).—Unfavorable farm prices are reacting to increase the ingenuity of Nebraska farmers.

Instead of buying new machinery, farmers of Lancaster, Cass, Hamilton and Douglas counties have organized machinery repairing bees similar to the old-time husking bees.

Two experts in repair of farm machinery, representing the University of Nebraska Agricultural College, will have charge. Farmers will cooperate to repair their own and their neighbors' machinery and gain as well.

RISQUE MAGAZINE DEALER CONVICTED

Third Case Won by Keogh in Drive Against Improper Periodicals.

Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh yesterday scored his third victory in the campaign launched several weeks ago to drive indecent literature from newsstands here when a jury in Police Court, composed of ten men and two women, brought in a verdict finding Frank Amato, 59 years old, of 467 G street northwest, guilty of offering for sale an indecent publication.

Each one of three alleged humorous magazines has now been passed upon by a Police Court jury and in each case Mr. Keogh has secured a conviction. The jury yesterday deliberated slightly more than two hours before agreeing upon a decision.

With the three test cases, one for each of the magazines out of the way, others of the 138 dealers who were arrested in the surprise move on the part of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover are expected to pay small fines or to have their personal bonds taken. There has been no disposition on the part of the Government, as represented by Mr. Keogh, to insist upon substantial penalities for the reason that the drive here was a novelty.

Attorney S. McComas Hawken, representing Amato, made a spirited defense of the charge against his client. He pointed out that Amato could hardly read, and that the man handled 150 magazines in his shop. He said that Amato was not acquainted with the contents of the magazine.

The contention of Keogh that the knowledge of the contents of the magazine was immaterial was upheld by Judge Isaac R. Hitt. The information papers in the case were made out so that "scienter" or knowledge of what the magazine contained did not have to be proved by the Government. Amato's attorney immediately filed a motion for a new trial, which will be argued next week.

25-Year Sentence Given Jilted Killer

W. L. Tilburg Slew Woman When She Told Him Affair Was Ended.

A sentence of 25 years in prison was given Warden Lowe Tilburg, 50 years old, in Justice F. D. Letts' courtroom at the District Supreme Court when Tilburg was brought up to face sentence following a plea of guilty to second degree murder.

Tilburg had been indicted for first degree murder in connection with the slaying of Jeanette Hendricks, 43 years old, of 2318 Eighteenth street northwest, on the morning of January 8.

The woman was found beaten to death in the furnace room of her rooming house, her head battered in.

Tilburg, arrested several hours later, confessed that he had beaten her to death in a fit of jealousy, aroused when the woman told him that she no longer cared for him.

Man Guilty of Stealing Music.

Charged with stealing sheet music from the music room of the St. Andrew's Church, New Hampshire avenue and V street northwest, Edward W. Worthington, colored, yesterday entered a plea of guilty when he was arraigned before Judge Robert E. Mattingly in Police Court. He will be sentenced April 13.

STOCK MART DROP LEADS TO SENATE BEAR INQUIRY

York Stock Exchange securities alone, before the end of the month, and since that time the leading issues have broken through ten-year record lows of the 1921 depression.

Authentic word of foreign pressure on New York stocks, as well as of unprecedented sales by some great names in United States politics, has passed between New York and Washington for more than a month.

It was hoped for a time that the new stock loan rule, which became effective on the New York exchange on April 1—having been announced several weeks in advance—would drastically reduce the bear pressure. It required brokers to secure the written permission of owners before lending stocks for daily short settlements.

For a day or two after April 1 the premiums on loaned issues advanced to almost prohibitive levels, but when the official tabulation of outstanding short commitments as of April 1 was published by the exchange this week, it showed a slight increase in the short position over March 1.

Begins Move for Action.

This revelation apparently was the crushing blow to Senator Frederick C. Walcott (Republican), of Connecticut, and other administration supporters who led the movement a month ago—when the markets were out of the woods following enactment of the Glass-Seagall bill—for a studious inquiry into the effects of unrestrained short selling.

Early yesterday morning Senator Walcott began negotiations looking to some action to avert the newly threatened demoralization of the market. A special meeting of the banking and currency committee was assembled in the Senate cloakroom after the Stock Exchange had closed for the day, and when the session adjourned it was announced the investigation had been determined upon by a unanimous vote of the committee.

In the absence of Chairman Norbeck (Republican), of South Dakota, the meeting was presided over by Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, of Iowa.

In view of previous stubborn resistance to the investigation by some committee members, yesterday's unanimous decision to proceed was regarded as carrying special significance.

Thus far, President Whitney is the only witness under summons to appear for examination, but John J. McGrain, deputy sergeant at arms of the Senate, who carried the subpena to New York last night, was armed also with authority to command all books, papers and records necessary to disclose the short position of every brokerage house and influential trader as of the close of business on April 8.

It is expected that after a perfunctory examination of President Whitney on the technique of the market and the trade sentiment behind recent price movements, the committee will devote itself to careful study of Wall street's records.

The primary purpose of the inquiry is to determine to what degree bear raids were responsible for the distressing collapse of the stock values during the latter half of 1931. The Senate's resolution authorizing the investigation, approved about a month ago, carries $50,000 for the bear hunt.

No "Sacrifice" Planned.

Although Senator Brookhart was panting a bit when he tried to tell the Senate after yesterday's committee meeting what he intended to do, there were ample assurances from the more informed committee members that there is no disposition to make a Roman holiday for Mr. Whitney's coming on Monday.

Some of the vocal big shots on the committee are all for making of the entire stock exchange and all its heirs, executors and assignees, a sacrificial offering to the angry gods of the great depression, but those in authority were able to send Mr. Whitney sincere promises of safe conduct through the insurgent sections of the Senate Office Building.

"We are going into this stock market from top to bottom," Senator Brookhart roared in magniloquent ecstacy. "We are summoning Mr. Whitney because we think he knows the facts. We aren't going to stop with the bears. We are going to find out about the bulls, too. We want to find out everything about these sales this week, whether they are liquidation sales, short sales, long sales, or wash sales, or whatever they were."

But the inquiry will be conducted by the entire committee, rather than by Acting Chairman Brookhart.

Claude R. Branch, of Providence, R. I., formerly an attorney in the Department of Justice, has been selected as committee counsel.

Records Subpenaed.

The resolution adopted by the committee in subpenaing Whitney ordered him to produce the following:

"1. A list of all corporations in whose stock there is a short account in excess of 10,000 shares at the close of business on April 8.

"2. The total number of shares of such stock in which there is a short interest in each such corporation.

"3. A list of all Stock Exchange members through whom such stock was traded.

"4. The names of clients for whom such stock was sold; the numbers of such shares sold for each client in excess of 200 shares.

"5. A list of all persons from whom such stock or stocks were borrowed and the amount or amounts so borrowed in numbers of shares."

SENATOR ARTHUR VANDENBERG.

ARTHUR H. VANDENBERG had never held public office when he took his seat in the Senate early in 1928. Nevertheless, he showed a remarkable familiarity with what was going on. He entered into the parliamentary swirl like a duck gliding into a pond.

Had he followed custom, he would have kept quiet for a while and listened to his elders. Instead he undertook at the very outset to put through a major piece of legislation—the reapportionment bill. Ultimately he won his fight, and, as a result, Michigan gained four additional seats in Congress.

The fact is that when Vandenberg came to Washington he was thoroughly posted on national affairs. He had to be. Vandenberg was a newspaperman, and had been ever since he was a kid. Evidently he was a good one, too, for at the age of 22 he was made editor and publisher of the Grand Rapids Herald.

Throughout his career as an editor, Vandenberg made it a point to read the Congressional Record every day. This accounted for his familiarity with a congressional procedure when he got here.

His friendship with the late William Alden Smith had a lot to do with it, too. Smith represented Michigan at the Capital for 24 years, part of the time in the House and part in the Senate. From him Vandenberg learned much that was to help him when he left the editorial desk and moved to Capitol Hill.

Vandenberg is 48 years old, and, therefore, is a comparatively young man in the Senate. His wife was Hazel H. Whitaker, of Fort Wayne, Ind. They have three children—Arthur, jr., Barbara and Elizabeth.

One hears talk that Vandenberg may be selected as the "keynoter" of the Republican national convention.

porters, but he sent out the following statement:

"I am going to Geneva for the purpose of conferring with the other members of the American delegation to the arms conference. From information which has been brought to me, it appears that there is prospect that the conference may be able ultimately to agree upon a number of useful measures designed to limit the chances of war.

"I hope to be able to be of some assistance in helping forward this program. My stay in Geneva will necessarily be brief. The other members of the delegation, including Mr. Davis, who is returning to Geneva with me on this ship, will carry on the work under the chairmanship of Mr. Hugh Gibson."

Mr. Davis said he was quite hopeful of some practical results.

Speaking of the reparation question, he added:

"The settlement of the reparation problem not only will give stimulus to business recovery, but will restore world-wide confidence in the future, will increase employment, will enable the world to move its goods and will have a good effect on everything, including the disarmament problem."

Former Secretary Kellogg said he was not pessimistic about economic conditions.

"I don't believe business can remain 25 to 50 per cent below normal, as it is at present," he said.

"What we must do is to get down to the basis of doing business on a normal scale—from the Federal Government to the smallest governmental unit.

"Business men are doing it, but the Government has not yet done it. The American people are cutting their own expenses and now it's up to the Federal and State governments to do likewise.

"Nobody objects to taxation to balance the budget, but I think a cut of 25 per cent in the expenditures of every Government department could be made without impairing efficiency."

ITALY ASKS LIMITED ARMAMENT IN WARS

tleships, submarines and airplane carriers, bombing aircraft and chemical and bacteriological warfare. The memorandum demands government control of civil aviation, and it explains how the Italian program could be put into effect.

Italy suggests publication of the number of naval units to be abolished and then either destruction of those units or dismantling to render them unfit for combat. The program would permit heavy coast defenses, and it defines heavy guns as anything over 4 inches. The memorandum leaves the matter of limits, weight and horsepower of bombing planes for future settlement.

Disarmament, the memorandum says, ought to be accompanied by revision of the laws governing warfare and by adequate measures for the control of civil aviation, this control to be exercised through a maximum of publicity and by the establishment of definite ratios between the parties agreeing to the program.

Provisions for the suppression of chemical warfare include prohibition of the manufacture and import of war chemicals and the training of men to use them.

The disarmament conference resumes on Monday.

Texas Woman Candidate Denounces Prohibition

Fort Worth (U.P.).—Mrs. Ida M. Darden, Texas candidate for congressman-at-large, has denounced prohibition and declared she will campaign only to those who believe as she does.

"I shall expect no support from the fanatical class of citizenship which believes all questions involving the welfare of the human race were automatically settled with the adoption of the eighteenth amendment," she said.

"Prohibition is a ghastly failure and it should be removed from the basic structure of government before the private and political morals of the Nation are destroyed."

AUSTRALIA DEFIED BY PREMIER LANG

Locks Up Tax Records of New South Wales to Balk Seizure.

Sydney, New South Wales, April 8 (A.P.).—The state government of Premier J. T. Lang ordered most of the tax records locked up today and, in effect, defied the commonwealth government to proceed with the seizure of state tax moneys to pay foreign obligations of New South Wales.

The counter-thrust was taken by orders of the Labor premier himself, and follows by less than a month the withdrawal of £1,000,000 (normally about $5,000,000) in state funds from New South Wales banks by the commonwealth authorities under police escort.

Then the commonwealth announced on April 1 that £1,000,000 interest on defaulted New South Wales securities had been paid to New York and London banks under the financial agreement enforcement act.

Power to Seize Revenue.

This law was passed by the commonwealth Parliament on March 8, and empowered the commonwealth government to seize the revenue or bank deposits of any state defaulting in debt payments. The measure was immediately challenged by Premier Lang.

Two days ago the Australian high court upheld the legality of the act, and today's action by Mr. Lang was another step in his battle against the commonwealth government, which became bitter last December when the Federal Labor party was beaten in commonwealth elections by the United Australian party.

The commonwealth has proclaimed New South Wales in default and ordered income-tax payers to pay their assessments to the commonwealth, but Premier Lang's order today padlocked the assessment papers, stopped future issue of assessment papers, and sent part of the staff off for a holiday.

Stops Other Sources.

The premier's action affects the commonwealth even more directly, for under normal arrangements the state later in the year will collect taxes directly due to the commonwealth. Thus Premier Lang not only interrupted collection of State income taxes but also stopped most of the commonwealth's direct revenue from New South Wales.

It was understood the premier had the tax office keys in his own pockets. An opposition newspaper suggested that he could be fined $500 or imprisoned for six months if he refuses to reopen the tax department.

Slain Bandit's Auto Released to Estate

But Car of Man Killed in Holdup Is Still Held for Storage Charges.

The automobile used in the holdup of the First National Bank of Southern Maryland in Marlboro just a year ago today was yesterday released to the estate of one of the slain bandits, but is still being held for storage charges.

Since the holdup, in which Tracy Cartright, alias Joe Hayes, was killed, his car has been held in a Forestville, Md., garage. Sheriff W. C. Hopkins yesterday gave permission for its removal, but Avery Engle, administrator of Cartright's estate, was unable to pay storage charges at once.

The car was abandoned shortly after the holdup by the bandits who fled after Cartright was shot by the assistant cashier. It was held for some time while police sought the remainder of the bandit gang, but was not claimed after Cartright's widow returned to Chicago.

U. S. ATTORNEY POST RESIGNED BY TALLEY

Gives Ill Health as Cause; Paper Says He Is Cited in Shortage Case.

(Associated Press.)

Robert H. Talley has tendered his resignation as United States attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia.

Assistant Attorney General Sisson received notice from Talley yesterday and said he believed the resignation would be accepted.

Talley is suffering, Sisson said he understood, from nervous and physical disability. He is in the Tucker Sanitarium, at Richmond.

Talley was given a recess appointment March 31, 1931, and a regular appointment for four years beginning last January 31. His letter, addressed to Attorney General Mitchell, said:

"Having been advised by my physician that it is necessary to undergo medical treatment for some time, I hereby tender my resignation as United States attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia."

Reported Cited in Shortage.

Richmond, Va., April 8 (A.P.).—The News Leader today said Robert H. Talley, who has resigned as United States attorney for Eastern Virginia, had been cited to appear in United States court here Monday in connection with an alleged shortage in a receivership account, but that by order of Judge Luther B. Way all papers in the case have been sealed.

The paper says the money which it is charged Mr. Talley can not produce is in connection with the receivership of the Virginia Mortgage & Finance Corporation, for which he became receiver on June 23, 1927. In February, the paper said, he was ordered to file an accounting and was at that time able to produce only $33,000 out of $82,000 alleged to be in his hands.

Mr. Talley entered the Tucker Sanitarium here yesterday. Dr. Beverly D. Tucker, who examined him, said he found "definite objective medical evidence of organic physical and nervous disease." The examination is not complete but if preliminary findings are confirmed, Dr. Tucker said, the impairment is sufficient "to render him irresponsible for his actions, and in my opinion incompetent to continue his work as long as his condition remains unchanged."

Judge Is Reticent.

Norfolk, Va., April 8 (A.P.).—Judge Luther B. Way today declined to meet newspapermen who sought to question him about court action in Richmond against Robert H. Talley, who today sent his resignation to the Attorney General of the United States. Judge Way's secretary reported that he jurist would speak to no one on he subject and that Judge Way ould make no comment of any kind the matter.

Mr. Talley's resignation came as a rprise to his associates in Norfolk. Maj. Paul W. Kear, former district torney and now a special assistant the United States Attorney Gen- al, is regarded as a probable suc- sor to Mr. Talley.

Maj. Kear indicated he would ac- t the post if it were offered him, but that he would not by any means seek the job which he resigned about a year ago.

"If they see fit to want me," said Maj. Kear, "there would be nothing else for me to do but accept."

State party and as a bid for this State's 93 delegates to the Chicago meeting.

It was also viewed as a challenge to the Roosevelt forces to hold in line the preponderantly influential Tammany votes which will be necessary to the present governor if he wants to go to Chicago with his own State behind him.

Smith went much further than he did in his original announcement, when he said he was willing to be the party's standard bearer once more if the convention so willed. This time, in reply to Senator Key Pittman's urgings of yesterday that he withdraw, Smith said he was in the race to the finish, and that he would not heed the advice or importunities of friends who asked him to retire for the good of the party.

Gov. Roosevelt's name entered directly into the exchange of notes today, when a letter from California, signed by P. M. Abbott, of the "Al Smith for President Club," said:

"Speakers for the candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt are stating that you are not in reality a candidate, asking why vote for Smith and throw away a vote, and that if you were nominated you could not be elected because of your religious affiliations."

In his reply, Smith said:

"I resent any whispering campaign that I am working in the interests of any other candidate. That is false and would be a betrayal of friends. I thank you for the way you have dealt with the un-American and undemocratic propaganda for the purpose of interfering with my friends in California."

Two other letters, in reply to notes received from Connecticut and Pennsylvania, dealt with the question of Smith's "availability." Smith said he "failed to understand" why he should not be available, since "there is no difference between me today and four years ago when I was nominated * * * and secured for the party the largest popular vote ever polled by a defeated candidate."

Political observers believed today that the Smith tactics were the result of precampaign successes achieved by the Roosevelt forces in New England, the South and the Middle West, and that Smith's present position required a clear-cut declaration.

Senate Group Approves Equipment for Reunion

SMITH HELD VICTIM OF FRIENDS' WORK

Pittman Asserts Pressing of New Yorker's Candidacy Is Unfair to Him.

(Associated Press.)

A statement that supporters of Alfred E. Smith were being unfair to him in pressing his presidential candidacy when he "is not a candidate for the nomination and will make no campaign" was made in an interview yesterday by Senator Pittman, of Nevada.

The interview was granted before publication of letters by Smith to Connecticut, Pennsylvania and California supporters reiterating he would accept the nomination and denying he was a "stalking horse" in the interest of another candidate.

But in expressing his views, Pittman described the 1928 standard bearer, of whom he is a great admirer, as a man "who loves and is loyal to his friends" and said, "You can not expect him to do anything that will interfere with them using his name for any Democratic purpose."

How Aspirants Stand.

Smith has been leaving the movement for him in the hands of his friends in various States. He has repeatedly said he would not personally campaign for delegates. To date, Smith has but one delegate pledged to him—that one from Wisconsin—while his successor in the New York Governor's chair, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has 174 instructed, pledged and claimed convention votes. Aside from Smith's one and one for Gov. Murray in North Dakota, none of Roosevelt's opponents has won delegates outside his own State.

Pittman said he was "far more interested in obtaining the strongest candidate than in the ambitions of friends of any candidate." He added:

"The strength of candidates is a developing proposition. Until this development has gone far enough it is only a question of guess and prophecy."

Discusses Two-thirds Rule.

The Nevadan, who notified Mr. Smith of his nomination four years ago and who is an influential member of the Democratic party, said he was inclined to favor the majority rule in nominating candidates, although he realized the "danger of hasty action" was eliminated by the existing two-thirds rule.

"The only real objection to the two-thirds rule," he added, "is that it may be used by a majority to prevent any action except for a less popular candidate.

"I would never participate in any such obstructive tactics, and I think this is the overwhelming sentiment of more than two-thirds of the Democrats in the United States.

"Knowing Gov. Smith as I do and his love and loyalty for the Democratic party, I am confident he holds the same views that I do and that he would never permit his name to be used for purely obstructive tactics.

Vermonters Turning Wet.

"I am equally satisfied that none of the favorite sons who have been mentioned and who may be indorsed for candidacy by the Democrats of their State will permit their names to be used for such purpose."

Pittman's views were expressed as word was passed that the Republicans might have some prohibition referendum platform agitation from New England.

Earle S. Kinsley, Republican national committeeman from Vermont, told newspapermen he thought the wet and dry question should be brought up at the Chicago convention. He said there was a "general feeling" in his State for "some change from existing conditions under the eighteenth amendment."

Asked if the Vermont delegation would press for a referendum plank, Kinsley said there were varying opinions and he did not believe the idea had reached the stage of a "concerted movement."

Kinsley also called on President Hoover during his visit here. He said he informed the President that conditions in his State "could not be better" for the Republicans in the presidential campaign.

Four Will Miss Banquet.

Four Democratic presidential possibilities, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be absent from the party's Jefferson Day rally here next Wednesday.

The others who have declined invitations include Melvin Traylor, of Chicago, and Gov. Murray of Oklahoma, who said they had prior engagements. Murray is campaigning in the West. Former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, is recovering from an operation, but will be unable to attend.

Roosevelt's notice had not been received at the Democratic national committee yesterday, but his friends here said they thought his duties at Albany would prevent his coming.

Among the speakers at the rally will be Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Senate leader; Alfred E. Smith, Newton D. Baker, Govs. Ritchie and White, James M. Cox, former Gov. Byrd of Virginia, John W. Davis, Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the House leader, and Nellie Taylor Ross.

Speaker Garner is expected to attend, but he will not deliver a speech.

GEORGIA G. O. P. RIFT TO FACE CONVENTION

White Domination of State Opposed by Savannah; Hoover Supported.

Atlanta, April 8 (A.P.).—President Hoover will get the sixteen Georgia Republican votes at Chicago, but a contest from the first (Savannah) District challenging white domination of the party's affairs in this State will be taken before the national convention.

Negro leaders warned the whites in the Fifth (Atlanta) District convention today that failure to elect a Negro delegate would weaken the party in States where the Negro vote is a factor.

They also said the leaders under State Chairman Josiah T. Rose, of Atlanta, collector of internal revenue, had not carried out their agreement to give the Negroes adequate representation in the Chicago delegation. This was denied by Rose, and the convention proceeded to elect Clint W. Hager, United States district attorney here, as a delegate, over A. T. Walden, a Negro lawyer, of Atlanta.

Fourteen of the sixteen delegates selected for Chicago by conventions supervised by the white controlled wing are white men. Two delegates at large—Ben J. Davis, of Atlanta, former national committeeman from Georgia, and Dr. W. H. Harris, of Athens—are Negroes.

A faction in the old First District opposed to the present State central committee held a convention in Savannah today and elected J. G. Lemon, a Negro lawyer, a delegate to Chicago. He was also appointed chairman of a committee to consider calling a new State Republican convention after several delegates had said there was discord over the membership of the State central committee set up by the convention in Atlanta March 26.

A previous convention of the First District, under the supervision of the State central committee, had selected a white man as delegate.

State Is Not Liable For Road Damages

Blame Shifted to Highway Group by Ruling of Appeals Court.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 8.—The State of Maryland can not be sued directly when any of its agents unlawfully proceed in the exercise of the power of eminent domain, the Court of Appeals ruled today in an opinion prepared by Judge W. Mitchell Digges, of Charles County.

The decision was rendered in a test case that originated in Montgomery County. The plaintiff was Ann Bartsch Dunn, who claims damages of $53,578.54 done her property in the work of widening the Brookeville-Colesville pike. It was claimed that the State Roads Commission failed to conform to provisions laid down in law in appropriating lands to consummate the work, and the contention was upheld in the Circuit Court for Montgomery County. The roads group admits the extent of the claim.

Sustaining the ruling of the lower court, the Court of Appeals says that the unlawful usurpation was done by individuals, and was not an act of the State. The effect of the decision is that an action against the roads commission, as an agent, is the proper proceeding. This is expected to follow, and the eventual liability of the State is conceded, it is understood.

College Editor's Ousting To Bring Investigation

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Oratory, with a few eggs to provide color and variety, today marked a rather passive day in the Columbia University students' dispute over that big question: Was Reed Harris, student editor, unfairly expelled?

There were two meetings. The one to discuss the matter in the affirmative drew the larger attendance and brought from John Donovan, graduate student, the statement that university officials had promised a bipartisan investigation of the Jay Hall dining room. Editorials in the Spectator before Harris' expulsion charged the personnel of the dining hall with operating it for personal profit.

Police Speeding Scored By Judge in Lynchburg

Lynchburg, Va., April 8 (A.P.).—Judge F. P. Christian, in corporation court here today, asserted that officers who race after automobiles suspected of being liquor laden violate the law as much as the driver they are chasing, and that officers' guilty of such violations are entitled to be punished.

The opinion was expressed in disposing of two speeding cases. The reference was particularly made in the case of Walter Witt, who was dismissed on a speeding charge, but fined a total of $15 ($5 each) for passing three arterial streets without stopping.

11-Year "Mental Fog" Of War Veteran Lifting

Philadelphia, April 8 (A.P.).—The mental fog which for years has clouded the memory of a World War veteran, lifted somewhat today and he identified himself as Tobias Burke, of this city, and recognized several members of his family.

Burke disappeared from his home here in 1921 and wandered in various cities for years, unaware of his true identity. A chance meeting with a friend resulted in his being located recently in Berwyn, a suburb of Chicago, where he was living as "Joe Bond."

Roosevelt Vetoes Bill To Reclassify Workers

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (U.P.).—The Hewitt bill, over which proponents and opponents battled furiously, providing reclassification of 13,000 of the State's 30,000 employes as to salaries and titles, was vetoed tonight by Gov. Roosevelt.

The measure, which resulted in a division of State employes over their merits, was one of the most controversial passed by the recent Legislature. The legislation provided appointment of a classification director in the civil service commission, who would have had powers to determine the classification of the State employes.

BUSY DAY IN COURTS IS PUT IN BY LEVINE

Ocean Flier Finally Held on Indictment Charging Grand Larceny.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—It was just one tilt with the law after another for Charles A. Levine today. He appeared in Tombs Court, heard a grand larceny charge dismissed, was rearrested and arraigned, held in $10,000 bail and then arrested and arraigned a second time and held in $1,000 bail on a new charge.

Levine, who gained fleeting fame and a New York ticker-tape reception five years ago after riding as Clarence Chamberlin's passenger in a nonstop flight to Germany, hobbled into Tombs Court early in the day to answer a grand larceny charge.

His air of confidence gone, he heard Magistrate Michael A. Ford dismiss the charge which resulted from his posting of $22,000 worth of stolen American Telephone & Telegraph Co. stock as part collateral for a $25,000 loan from the Manufacturers Trust Co.

Then, while still in court, a process server for the Manufacturers Trust Co. attorneys served him with a summons in a civil action for $30,000, naming the Columbia Airlines, of which he is president, as codefendant. The litigation was said to have grown out of Levine's failure to pay the $25,000 loan.

After the one grand larceny dismissal, Levine was rearrested, fingerprinted, and late in the day taken to General Sessions, where he was held in $10,000 bail by Judge Max S. Levine on an indictment for the same offense. The dismissed charge, a technical one, had been filed by authorities of the hospital where Levine was found recovering from a broken leg. It had been filed in order to obtain removal of a policeman stationed to guard him. The fracture now is virtually healed. .. ..His second arrest of the day was on a charge of violating the State workman's compensation law in connection with the death of a mechanic at Roosevelt Field in 1929. The mechanic was hit by a whirling propeller. Levine was charged with failure to provide proper insurance. He was held in $1,000 bail for Nassau County authorities on that charge...

Second Leprosarium Sought in House Bill

(Associated Press.)

A bill looking to the addition of a second leprosarium to the work of the Public Health Service was introduced yesterday by Representative Parsons (Democrat), Illinois.

The legislation asks investigation of the disease in Hawaii, with a view to hospital establishments. It also asked consideration of possible purchase of the present Kalihi Receiving Hospital.

The public health service has made what science considers a remarkable record for arresting the disease at the only leprosarium within the confines of the United States, at Carville, La.

Bill Favored to Force Wage Rate Regulation

(Associated Press.)

The House labor committee yesterday favorably reported a bill by Chairman Connery to compel payment of prevailing wage rates on rivers and harbors projects and to place wage disputes on these War Department projects under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Labor.

The legislation was drafted following complaints by Minnesota members that Army engineers had let the contract on the Mississippi River lock at St. Paul to a company which paid for below the prevailing wage rate for that locality. The measure would apply to all contracts in excess of $500.

CHURCH FEDERATION SESSION NETS $1,877

More Than 300 Women Attend Ingathering Held by Council.

Between 300 and 400 women attended the annual ingathering of the Woman's Council of the Washington Federation of Churches yesterday afternoon at the National City Christian Church. The meeting was the occasion of the bringing in of the offerings of the churches for the financial support of the work of the council and of floral offerings for distribution among the hospitals of the city.

Mrs. John Ferguson, of New York, president of the National Council of Federated Church Women, gave the address of the afternoon. "It is the spirit of helplessness which is threatening America today," Mrs. Ferguson stated as she analyzed the social and religious situation of the Nation. "Too many people are sitting idly by and saying, 'What can be done?' We must show the Nation what can be done through a united Christendom."

Mrs. H. M. Kendrick, first vice president of the local council, presided. A devotional period was conducted by Mrs. F. E. Beatty, after which a word of welcome was brought by Dr. Earle Wilfley, pastor emeritus of the hostess church. Justin Lawrie sang "The Ninety and Nine." The Ingathering service followed, in which representatives of seventeen denominations and three nondenominational organizations brought offerings totaling $1,877, and many baskets of flowers.

The closing prayer and benediction were given by Dr. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Federation of Churches.

The work of the Woman's Council includes the support of a juvenile court worker who works with the homes of the children who come before the court, and a share in the maintenance of a hospital worker. The council also conducts an annual missionary institute.

GOV. ROOSEVELT SIDESTEPS.

Gov. Roosevelt's first campaign address was a disappointment. He spoke in glittering generalities and indulged in unwarranted criticism without suggesting any specific remedies. Inasmuch as this is his first speech of national importance since he became an active candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, and since his time was limited, the governor may be excused for being so vague. But it would be well for him to take note of the fact that the public expects something more than party platitudes from men who aspire to leadership in these perilous times.

In spite of his promise not to speak as a partisan, Gov. Roosevelt accused the President of ignoring the welfare of the people. One of his three chief points of criticism was that relief for small banks and home owners "seems to be beyond the concern of the national administration." Has Gov. Roosevelt never heard of the credit extension act which President Hoover engineered through Congress? Small banks were the direct beneficiaries of this measure, which opened to them the resources of the Federal Reserve system. Bank failures have been virtually stopped since this act and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation came into being.

The only direct measure that has been brought forward to aid home owners is President Hoover's plan of home loan banks. This has not yet been acted on by Congress, but the administration has urgently requested the Democratic House to support this movement for the benefit of distressed home owners. Can this fact be unknown to Gov. Roosevelt?

The second vital objective which the governor sets forth as essential to prosperity is restoration of the farmer's purchasing power. No one will deny that agriculture is in distress because of the collapse of prices. But what does Gov. Roosevelt propose to do about it? Would he give the Farm Board a few more hundred millions to squander in a fresh attempt to peg prices? Would he have Congress enact arbitrary prices for farm products and thus accentuate the dilemma of overproduction? To make a political issue out of agriculture's plight without offering any constructive suggestions does not add to Gov. Roosevelt's prestige.

In discussing the tariff, a third evil that must be corrected, the governor fell into the traditional Democratic habit of evading the issue. He would revise the tariff on the basis of "a reciprocal exchange of goods, allowing other nations to buy and to pay for our goods by sending us such of their goods as will not seriously throw any of our industries out of balance." That is substantially the formula on which the present law is based. Will Gov. Roosevelt specify what rates could be reduced without "throwing our industries out of balance?" He points out that American factories are capable of producing more than the domestic market can consume. How, then, can he justify a movement to let competing foreigners strengthen their hold on the domestic market? Certainly, the governor would not advocate reduction of the agricultural duties after saying what he did about the purchasing power of farmers. The public will need a good deal of enlightenmnet as to just how the feat of increasing imports without injuring domestic industry can be accomplished.

Generalities are always disappointing in times like the present. The public is in a mood for serious thinking and candid expression. General denunciation of tariff protection by Democratic speakers while the party is conducting a drive in Washington for duties on special items is not calculated to inspire public confidence. Reaction to this address may encourage Gov. Roosevelt to meet the issues more squarely next time.

THE POST ESSAY CONTEST.

The Washington Post George Washington Essay Contest, designed to promote study among school children of the life and work of the first President, passed into history yesterday afternoon with the presentation of prizes to the 108 boys and girls whose efforts were judged most worthy. Assembled on the steps of the Capitol, the winners made an attractive picture as Vice President Curtis congratulated them upon their success. They were a living contradiction to the pessimistic notion that American youth is decadent.

If anything had been needed to demonstrate the enduring appeal of Washington's noble career, the contest itself would have served to prove beyond all cavil that his deeds and character remain a magnet for the imagination of the people. Widespread and enthusiastic interest in the competition among adults as well as children was reported by librarians and school teachers from the moment of the first announcement to the close of the contest.

The Post extends its thanks to the Vice President for his courtesy in presenting the awards which made the occasion memorable to all the young contestants. To all who participated, and to the parents and teachers who aided the essay writers, The Post tenders its thanks. If the contest has had the effect of impressing upon the young the ideals personified by George Washington, this newspaper will feel amply repaid for its own efforts.

MORE RAILROAD RELIEF.

An important reconstruction measure has been reported favorably by the House interstate commerce committee. It would release the railroads from liability for the payment of about $361,000,000 to the Government under that clause of the transportation act requiring the surrender of excess profits. Congress can strengthen the railroads and bolster up the stability of life insurance companies and banks by passing this bill.

Even more important than the repeal of the recapture clause is the new rate-making basis that is laid down in the committee's bill. The existing rate-making formula has failed because it requires adjustment of charges in accordance with the earnings of the railroads. The tendency is to reduce rates to a minimum in times of heavy traffic and to raise them during a depression when little freight is moving. Obviously, the effect of these fluctuations ought to be reversed. The new formula would allow the Interstate Commerce Commission to consider in fixing rates their effect on the movement of traffic, "the need for adequate and efficient railway transportation service in the public interest," and "the need of revenues sufficient to enable the carriers, under honest, economical and efficient management, to provide such service." It is difficult to judge how this formula would work out in actual practice, but it would doubtless be an improvement upon the present method.

Students of railway economics realize that the carriers must be allowed to earn sufficient revenue in prosperous times to carry them through a slump. In the present depression the railroads have been one of the weak points, because most of them had no reserves. By law they were not allowed to accumulate enough surplus to put them in a position of stability. As a result the railroad companies are in a deplorable financial condition. The least the Government can do is to forego its attempt to collect the $361,000,000 estimated to be due under the recapture clause.

It is unfortunate that this legislation did not get an earlier start in the House. The transportation act needs a thorough overhauling. Whether that can be done before Congress adjourns remains to be seen. It seems certain, however, that Congress is determined to change the existing law in line with the recommendations of the Interstate Commerce Commission. If it can possibly be done at this session, so much the better.

FARM FIRES.

Thirty-six thoroughbred horses and a barn on the estate of Lewis E. Lambert, near Lutherville, Md., were destroyed by fire on Wednesday night. The news must have touched the hearts of all who love animals and are concerned over their welfare.

A burning barn or stable is a fearsome thing to see. The mind holds the memory; it is difficult to shake off. The flames, the smoke, the roar of tortured timbers and falling rafters, the trampling and cries of the imprisoned beasts, and then the piteous silence which succeeds the tumult—all make deep impressions which do not fade with passing years.

Thousands of fine horses and valuable cattle perish annually in conflagrations of this sort. The loss in dollars and cents is great, and the effect on the morale of farmers and stockmen who suffer such losses is deplorable.

There is but one remedy for this state of affairs. Barns and stables for the housing of expensive animals, machinery and harvested farm products should be constructed of fireproof materials. There is no economic reason in modern times why this should not be done. Concrete is little, if any, more expensive than lumber. Asbestos roofing costs no more in the long run than wooden shingles.

The fire loss in cities is too high. The rural sections have the added difficulty of inadequate protection. Fireproof farm buildings is the logical answer to the threat of sudden blazes in farming regions.

POWER OF ADVERTISING.

The Nation's Business, a journal of independent character, holding no special brief for advertising, is distinctly worth quoting on the subject when it says: "The history of business during the past twenty years shows that it is the manufacturers who continue to advertise year in, year out, in good times and bad, that hold top place in their respective lines. And many of these stronghearted, consistent advertisers will tell you that most of their prestige has been built, not in times of prosperity, but in periods of depression. The reason is simple. When every one is advertising it is difficult for any single advertiser to dominate the field. But when the volume of advertising dwindles, then it is easier for those advertisers who remain to command the attention of readers, to dominate the pages of magazines and newspapers—to burn their name and their sales points into the public consciousness. Today, it takes lots of courage for a business man to spend his good iron dollars for advertising. But courage in business, as in war, has its reward. It is safe to predict that, when this period of readjustment is ended, when American industry enters once more upon prosperous times, it will be the courageous manufacturers who advertised right through the lean years that will lead the parade in good years."

The subject might be developed further. For example, it is in hard times that competition is keenest, and it is the business man who uses newspaper and magazine space who is at an advantage over his rival. Again, it is in hard times that the public expects most for its money, and the business man who has quality goods to sell and advertises the fact has an opportunity to win new customers of the steady, thrifty class who, once won, will stay on as purchasers when good times return. Finally, it is in hard times that rapid turnover is most to be desired, and the business man who advertises keeps his goods moving faster.

Careful students of business economics are familiar with these facts. According to their judgment, a firm or an individual business man might just as well shut up shop altogether as to fail to advertise at a time when business must be sought, when profits are not to be had for the mere asking, and when authentic value is an imperative necessity in goods offered in exchange for the money of inordinately cautious purchasers.

One of the hopeful signs of the times is the cooperation of business people, advertising agencies and publishers in promotion of renewed prosperity.

TRADE WITH TRAITORS.

Col. Hugh L. Cooper, chief propagandist to the United States for Soviet Russia, is broadcasting a new flood of nonsense about prosperity hanging on the red end of the rainbow. At a time when American citizens are demanding more effective regulations against the pauper labor of Communist Russia, he suggests that the Government send a trade delegation to Moscow.

Col. Cooper and other friends of the red dictatorship in Moscow are entitled to their opinions, but when they base their propaganda upon bald misstatements the source of the propaganda ought to be exposed. One of the most frequent points of misrepresentation is that the Soviet is buying from the United States five times as much as the United States buys from Russia. Recent figures from the Department of Commerce show that the trade balance between the two countries is in favor of the Soviet. American sales to Russia fell off sharply last year, while the Soviet increased its exports to the United States by about 100 per cent.

So long as American exporters were willing to gamble on Soviet credit, and the Moscow government was disposed to favor Americans with orders in the hope of obtaining official recognition from Washington, trade with Russia increased. But American firms have already burnt their fingers in extending long-term credit to the Reds, and the chances that the Muscovites will be recognized have been shattered. Hence, the Soviet has turned its attention to other fields.

Another argument which Col. Cooper advances to show that prosperity lies in the direction of Moscow is that Russia has no tariff barrier. What simplicity! A dictatorship which controls all purchases, all imports, all exports and domestic trade has no need of tariff barriers. By one stroke of the pen it can cut off imports from the United States or any other country. Trade with this commercial traitor is the most insecure and dangerous business venture upon which an American could embark.

The basic idea that commerce between the United States and Russia would bring prosperity could have no foundation even if forced labor were abolished and Communism completely abandoned. Russia is an agricultural country. Its great staple crops come into direct competition with American wheat, cotton, &c. Russian coal and lumber are dumped in this country at the expense of important American industries. What important articles could the Soviet with its forced labor sell to the United States without demoralizing home industries?

The thought of prosperity springing out of trade that would put American farmers and workingmen into competition with the Soviet's conscript labor is too preposterous for serious consideration.

BOMB-DROPPING SEA GULLS

From the Vineyard Gazette.

Some six or seven years ago the Vineyard Gazette published its first story of the sea gulls, which, having discovered that the hard-surfaced roads serve well as a substitute for a rock, shatter scallops and quahaugs to bits by dropping them from the air to the surface of the highway. Since that time the Gazette has carried further stories, detailing the uncanny skill of these birds, who make allowance for wind velocity with the accuracy of an expert rifleman or airplane bomber, never missing the narrow road or failing to drop the shellfish from a height sufficient to shatter the shells. All of this may be verified.

Other newspapers have made similar discoveries about gulls in various places, and it has become quite the seasonable thing for them to carry an account of the activities of these natural sky riders whenever the shellfish are easily obtainable and attract the birds. But the Gazette now presents a new angle on the Vineyard seagulls, together with the solution of a mystery that has for long been a puzzle to islanders.

For several years it has been noticed by passersby on the Edgartown-Oak Bluffs road that in the vicinity of Anthiers Bridge there are apt to be found the mortal remains of large rats at very frequent intervals. Where they come from, or what causes their death, has been a subject for discussion, as in many cases the carcasses are found where the wheels of passing cars could not have struck them, and moreover, they always bear the appearance of having been more or less mangled and torn. It has remained for Capt. Chester Robinson to solve the mystery, which the Gazette now publishes.

According to the captain, who is well versed in natural history, and has spent much time in observing the activities of sea birds, the ordinary sea gull is fond of rats and mice. The remains of shellfish, scattered along the road in this locality, act as bait, attracting these rodents from long distances. They hide in the beach grass when cars or pedestrians approach, but when the highway is clear they will scamper about the road, eating the fragments of scallop or quahaug that they find in the emptied shells.

At this juncture the highly efficient gulls get in their skilled and deadly work. Soaring aloft with a heavy quahaug in their beaks, they mount to an unusual height, and hovering and shifting their position, gauging the wind and drift to a nicety, they drop the shellfish with a precision that almost never fails to connect with the rodent below, knocking it unconscious or killing it outright on the spot, whereupon the gulls descend and feast on fresh meat.

The Vineyard may justly claim the first actual bomb-dropping gulls ever to be reported to date, and Army aviators may pick up some valuable hints by studying these birds and their methods.

If Congress can still use both feet it should step on the bonus and the gas.

Will the Senate realize what every one else understands, that the prompt passing of the tax bill is more important than its details?

"Delays have dangerous ends." Uncertainty over budget balancing has already frightened reviving business, caused billions of loss in security values, and precipitated a new raid abroad on the dollar.

PAUL HUDSON.

NO REGRETS.

On a certan occasion George Washington had as a guest in his house Louis Philippe, Duke of Orleans, a great prince of France. The duke, on coming down to breakfast one morning, politely inquired: "How did you sleep, general?" Washington, with a smile, replied: "I always sleep well, for I never wrote a word in my life which I had afterward cause to regret." There was no boasting or pretense in this remark. Washington meant that throughout his career he had consciously sought to win by honorable conduct the peace of mind which has for its basic foundation an easy conscience.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE—When you and your crowd were discussing the show last night, I overheard a remark that gave me a distinct pain. The young lady who made the remark belongs to our class—the class commonly called hicks—and the remark was an effort to conceal her common clay.

The show was good. Book and music were above the average, and there wasn't a ham actor in the lot. The audience applauded generously. Yet this young lady, eager to appear metropolitan and sophisticated, pretended to think it an awful bore.

There are millions like her—all of them hypocrites—and all of them advertise their provincialism by attempting to conceal it.

They have an idea that New York and London sophisticates, having seen many shows of many kinds, are pleased by none. And they think they can prove themselves worldly-wise by elevating their noses and pretending to be unmoved by any performance they witness.

It is a silly pose, peculiar to hicks, and I hope you will have enough common sense to avoid it.

Do you know why people hide behind a pose?

Now as always men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil.

People pretend to be what they aren't because they are ashamed of what they are.

Their taste is vulgar and untrained and they haven't intelligence enough or courage enough to form opinions of their own. They are afraid of making themselves ridiculous by cheering the wrong thing. So in order to play safe they "high hat" everything and sniff at the universe.

Their punishment is swift and sure. Posing becomes a habit, and they lose the ability to be sincere. Pretense becomes second nature to them, so that in the course of time they lose faith in their own emotions and can no longer tell how much of their love or grief or joy is real and how much is sham.

Be real, dear. If you like ham and eggs better than caviar, say so and let the heavens fall. Love, DAD.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Obstacles to Economy.

New York Times.

It will be a pity if the differences between the President and Congress in the matter of reducing Federal expenditures should blind the country to the facts. Mr. Hoover recalls the many times, even before he became President, when he has explained the only way in which economies can be effected.

The truth is that Government organization, or proliferation, has got badly out of hand during recent years. Start up a new bureau, and it silently draws to itself added authority, an expanded personnel and increased appropriations. In all these things members of Congress have a direct political interest. They are concerned with the way in which the enlarged bureaus spend the public money, and in many of the official establishments they have friends or proteges whom they feel bound to protect in holding office and drawing a salary. It is not strange that efforts to reform this vicious and expensive system should meet with marked inertia in Congress. It is all very well to make speeches in favor of economy, but if it means cutting off the perquisites of congressmen the struggle becomes almost hopeless.

White Heat.

Los Angeles Times.

Former Gov. Al Smith may run for Mayor of New York in 1933, heading a fusion ticket. In view of the conditions existing at present in New York's Democratic circles, use of the term fusion, which means a union brought by intense heat, seems quite appropriate.

Just Between Friends.

Kansas City Star.

Gov. Roosevelt can not understand, explains the governor's son in Massachusetts, why Mr. Smith is not supporting his candidacy for the Democratic nomination. And Mr. Smith, it might be said, can not understand why Gov. Roosevelt is not aiding his candidacy, at least to the extent of refusing to wage a contest in Massachusetts. But these little misunderstandings will arise in politics, even among the best of friends. They can be explained away, however, if the friends themselves will just speak up and tell the people what it is that they like best to talk about when they get together for frequent chats. Or it could be left to Mr. Raskob to do the explaining, in his own tactful way.

Not a Catching Proposal.

Kansas City Times.

The positive opinion of Newton D. Baker that Congress ought to be in session all the time, "representing the people," perhaps is not shared widely. That may be due either to the fact that the people do not want any more representing than they have been accustomed to getting, or else that they have some reservations with regard to the quality of the representation. Either way, the prospect would not be bright for continuous sessions. These might have the one obvious merit of enabling the members of Congress to earn their full pay; yet the cost to the country still would be heavy. Perhaps the best solution of the problem is for Congress to reduce its pay to the amount actually earned. Then the country could have its cake and eat it, too, although the slices would remain thin.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Baseball the Modern Fountain of Perpetual Youth—Uncle Sam Not as Old as He Looks—Play Ball!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The first baseball game of the season always stirs my heart with good cheer and starts me to ruminating in a way which to some of my too sober-minded friends may seem trivial. This spring an idea strikes me which I can only account for by the old rattle-brained excuse that "it just popped into my head."

When, on Easter Sunday, March 27, 1513, old Ponce de Leon set foot on the shore of Florida in a vain quest for the Fountain of Perpetual Youth, he might at least have been cheered by the feeling that here was a land the potentialities of which were well suited to his mood; that is, if it had been possible for him to visualize its rejuvenescent baseball activities 400 years later.

The delusion of a Fountain of Youth has gone the way all delusions are finally bound to go. But here and now in our national game is an influence which keeps the spirit of boyhood alive in every rank of the populace. And, at the risk of seeming more serious than I feel, it may not be out of place to opine that the American people have no need to worry over the ailments by which all nations are occasionally afflicted so long as baseball's atmosphere of youth emanates from our sandlots and stadiums.

Of its salutary effect on the body politic there can be no question, and to fully appreciate its beneficial results I feel sure there can be no better time than at the opening game of the season in the Griff ballyard.

It is a truly national event. With the country's Chief Magistrate on hand to throw out the first ball, and hundreds of high functionaries and political notables mingled with the embattled fans, it makes me more optimistic than usual. Fiscal deficits and scrambled taxes are forgotten. In overlooking the eager, red-blooded, vociferous democracy of fanhood, it is indeed pleasant to reflect that, after all, Uncle Sam is very far from being as old as he looks.

HENRY WARD BLEACHER.

Reader Calls for Investigation of Death of Marion Stanley, Student Flier Killed in Crash.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The death of Marion Stanley, son of former Senator A. O. Stanley, raises an issue of a particularly poignant kind. The young man was killed in an airplane crash at Lexington, Ky., a victim of a mistaken policy of untutored practice flying. Roy E. Osborne, State air board inspector, has issued a warning that unauthorized training is endangering precious lives, not to mention valuable property.

Young Stanley had had only three hours' instruction and a half hour's solo flying before making his second solo flight. His plane stalled at 50 feet, went into a spin and crashed. Inspector Osborne attributed the accident to insufficient flying time. Stanley did not have a student's permit. He was permitted to take a foolish chance, and he paid with his life for his mistaken courage.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says: "It is bad enough to have hundreds of thousands of motorists driving over roads and streets without restrictions other than punitive, but subjecting adventurous youth to the perils of the air is an enterprise which must be safeguarded in every possible way."

It seems clear that in Stanley's case some one was at grievous fault. Who was it? Who is responsible for the supervision of student flying? Is it the aeronautics branch of the Federal Department of Commerce? The State authorities? The municipalities? The public does not know. Perhaps commercialism is to blame. Perhaps persuading young men to risk their lives in this particular way is just another racket—a cruel trick to make money. Let us get the facts. Let us discover how this waste of brave young enthusiasts can be stopped.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE HUSTLER.

Bill's out early and stays out late,
Hustling just as though times were good;
Doesn't lose heart when customers state
They'd gladly buy from him if they could.
Sort of discouragin', keepin' on
When scarcely a dollar's in sight to earn,
But he says to me, "I want to be
First on hand when the tide shall turn.

"I've figured it out, and it seems to me
That nobody knows when this thing will end,
But first at the door I want to be
When the man with money decides to spend.
So I keep on working night and day,
And I keep on trying from eight to five,
For when clears the sky and they start to buy
At least they'll know that I'm still alive.

"You can't just tell when a boom will start
And they'll need the goods that I have to sell,
But if I grow weary and faint of heart
And I crawl into my hiding shell,
They may all get going a month or two
Before what's up in the world I learn,
So just watch me, on the job I'll be,
All ready to go when the tide shall turn."

Expert Answers Questions of General Interest.

MISS MARY: Dry skin and diet are related. Just as too many fats, sweets and starches may cause excessive oiliness of the skin, so lack of nourishing foods may cause dryness. Try adding a little more cream, butter and particularly milk, to your diet, drink more water, be sure you are getting sufficient sleep, rest and fresh air and see to it that your bowels move regularly. Are you sure you are not nervous or worried? The external care you are giving your skin is excellent. Keep up the good work. The oil and cream should help that "parched" look, providing your diet and general health are right.

MISS G. M.: A teaspoonful of salt added to a pint of boiled water makes a good mouth wash and gargle. To neutralize mouth acids, you can use a half teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda to a glass of boiled water, or use a teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of lime water.

MISS K. M. E.: (1) Since the cream you have been using seems to cause blotches I would advise you to discontinue it for a while. Before retiring, wash face and neck with a good bland soap and warm water, rinse in cool water, pat with cool water or a very mild astringent until the color is up. Over the blotches apply a little antiseptic cream. This would be splendid for the small pimples, too. (2) It is certainly bad business to wear tight brassieres at all times, particularly at your young age. Do change to the right kind now, the uplift, form-fitting, but not tight brassieres should be good. Also do some firming exercise. Join a gymnasium if you can. Otherwise do arm flinging exercises. Any exercise that moves arms and shoulders is good for bust, too. During the summer salt-water bathing is splendid. Swimming will help as an exercise, and the salt water has astringent and firming effects.

B. H.: You are fortunate to have found a hair waving expert who told the truth and had your interest at heart instead of the cash. Do go back and have your scalp treated as she suggested before having the permanent wave. If after the treatments she still advises that your hair will not take a good wave, or that it were better to continue to postpone having one, follow her instructions. From your letter I judge that the operator knew her business. I congratulate her, and you, too, for not "yielding to temptation and going to the shop across the street."

DRINK MORE WATER.

"THE dietetic error that has killed more patients than any other is the neglect of administering enough water." This statement, written by Dr. E. F. Dubois, is quoted in an editorial of the Journal of the American Medical Association, based on a bulletin of the New York Academy of Medicine.

Physicians learned, generations ago, that when in taking care of a case of acute, severe illness, such as pneumonia and typhoid fever, they must never let the patient's tongue get dry and red edged. If this symptom developed trouble was brewing. Most of them knew that a way out was to have the sick one get more water, in one way and another.

Dr. Dubois goes a step further and says the urine must not be allowed to become concentrated and heavy. That, too, is a bad sign, and calls for more water. If, for instance, a person who had an acute rheumatic fever excretes urine that is dark, thick, concentrated, scant and highly acid, a wide awake physician will insist that the sick one get more water. If he will meet this earlier symptom promptly and effectively, brown, dry tongue with red edges will not follow.

He has one more suggestion for physicians and their patients. It is that whenever the food intake is materially decreased the water intake should be increased enough to compensate. A person resting quietly needs about two and a half quarts of water a day. If he is doing moderate work he requires nearly four quarts.

Exercising violently in very dry, hot air, the requirement may mount to ten quarts. If working fairly hard he will need about five quarts. About three-fourths of a quart is lost from the body by perspiration that is merely sufficient to keep the skin comfortably moist. If hard work is being done, the amount that rolls off may reach as much as a gallon. Much water is lost with the breath. The excretions account for the remainder.

When the body is throwing off 5 quarts of water a day and keeping in water balance, 2 quarts are consumed as drink and 3 as an ingredient of the food, or is produced by burning of the food.

All foods are rich in water, even those we call solid. Nearly 90 per cent of milk is water. Butter contains all the water the law permits. Nine-tenths of fruits and vegetables is water. Even drier foods, such as meat and bread, have a large water content.

In the utilization of foods by the tissues considerable water results from the required chemical action. We know that in burning coal in a grate gases are made and watery vapor, as well as carbonic acid, is a constituent part of these. The air we expel from the lungs contains both water and carbonic acid made in this way.

The editorial says when the body burns sugar it make one-half an ounce of water for every ounce of sugar used.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

A. B. writes: I am 35 years old. During the early spring each year since 1927 I suffer from backache, but this year—or rather last year—I began to suffer in October. At times there is a sharp, shooting pain, and other times a dull ache and weakness. The pain is located about 3 inches left of the spinal column and about the same distance from the bend of the hip joint. Sometimes I feel a twinge in leg, midway between body and knee. I feel in a state of collapse if compelled to stand long—even 5 minutes—in one place.

Examination of your spinal column would probably show a chronic arthritis on the left side of some one or more back bones and pressing on some nerves at times.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

I HAVE a honeysuckle which has become, due to neglect, badly matted. What do you suggest? It looks badly and unfortunately is in a conspicuous place.

MRS. GEORGE A. H.

All you can do is to cut it back. It will soon recover. You will have to prune it several times during the season. Honeysuckles grow both fast and thickly, and require constant training.

Please tell me the names of one or two perennial alyssums.

HATTIE McC.

There are a number of perennial alyssums. You will be sure to like the following: Alyssum rostratum, alyssum saxatile compactum and alyssum serpyllifolium.

Doe leopard's bane require much sun? ANNE W. L.

Will you please print in your column the formula for the lead arsenate spray you mentioned last season? I made some and it surely banished the bugs. Now I want to make some more and forget how I did it.

MISS JESSIE F. W.

Am glad you found the spray so efficacious.

Arsenate of Lead Spray.

Three teaspoonfuls of arsenate of lead powder.

One ounce of any liquid soap.

One teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate.

A gallon of water.

As this formula contains poison, it must be kept out of the reach of children or other irresponsible persons.

I am about to plant some golden butterfly weed (asclepias tuberos). Will this plant prove hardy in this location? HERBERT F. K.

Yes, the golden butterfly weed is hardy in all parts of the United States or Southern Canada.

We have seven peony plants all eight years old. They form buds which never develop into flowers. We transplanted them, thinking that might cause them to bloom, but it seemingly has no effect on them. Please tell us how to treat these plants to induce them to bloom.

MRS. R. D.

As you have failed to tell me anything about the treatment you are giving your peonies, I can not point out any mistakes you may be making. Many peonies which do not seem able to mature their buds are affected with a disease known as pernicious bud rot. It can be prevented by avoiding manure about the crowns of the plants and by spraying weekly from the first signs of spring until some time in May. Bordeaux mixture is the proper spray to use. Peonies should only be transplanted once in eight or ten years. We have prepared a circular on the care of peonies which we shall be glad to send you if you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Please tell me when to prune two shrubs which bloom each year in the late fall. Unfortunately, I do not know the names of either variety.

MRS. EARL O. W.

The fall and summer flowering shrubs are pruned in the early spring.

Interpreting the Mode

Secrets every lovely lady should know are easier to know these days, says Dah-Ray!

NEW YORK, April 8.—"She can wear anything!"

How often have we heard that one How often even have we said it, enviously, perhaps, or complimentarily.

And in the next breath some one is sure to say "Well, if I had her money——"

Always a convenient excuse, that. But when we see that the little typist who makes $15 a week and supports her mother on that is the last word in chic, a delight to the eye and the mind, and the matron who patronizes the poor little wolking goil is always a frump, our remarks just don't hang together. So what to do?

Well, some of us let it go at that. Others try to make heads and tails out of this strange, elusive animal called chic, elegance, sartorial art, and other kindred names. That's what French women as a whole did and do, and that is why they have the reputation they have for elegance.

And today the modern lovely lady in every country in the whole world studies the art of dressing well, of chic and elegance, as she studies any other modern requirement and need. And, fortunately for the world's taste and intellectual and artistic progress, usually achieves what she sets out to do. It just takes a little thought, and conscious application.

And a helping hand, I might add—which your Dah-ray is all ready to hold out to you right this minute! "Secrets Every Lovely Lady Should Know," is the title of the new leaflet, and 'tis the new leaflet itself which is the helping hand. All you have to do to take the hand that is offered, and let it haul you miles and years ahead in elegance and chic, is to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of the Washington Post. Then the secrets will be yours, and you will have joined the ranks of lovely ladies the world over!

Longer, slender skirts, decorative sleeves and delightful touches on collars and in belts, characterize the summer note. Fewer prints, and those only in smaller design which assume fabric like surfaces. And in general, a simplicity which is equally youthful and sophisticated, and altogether charming.

What Today Means

"ARIES."

IF April 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:20 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:35 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:40 p. m.

There are no outstanding indications, good or bad, from an astrological standpoint, for April 9. The history of the day lies in your own hands, and it is up to you whether it be good, bad or indifferent. More invigorating influences will come in force late in the day, and any social functions for the evening should go through with a bang.

Children born on this April 9 will have exacting natures, from which they will reap more discontentment than comfort or happiness. Impetuosity will mark the disposition, and they will easily fly off the handle. They will be difficult to influence and will stubbornly resist interference.

Born on April 9, you have a firm character, but are naturally quiet and not in the least pugnacious. You are a natural born leader, although you do not try to impose your will upon others. You can work equally as well with others as alone. You are easy-going, until your toes are stepped on, and then the fur flies. Your insight into human nature is well developed, and you are an excellent character reader. Guilty, self-conscious people feel uncomfortable under your penetrating gaze. You are capable of abstract reasoning, and you are left untouched by the crowd's moods.

Change of any kind is foreign to your nature, and once you have found a congenial channel in which to work, you do not easily forsake it unless compelled by circumstances to do so. You are faithful and sincere in both your business and family life. Planetary aspects are favorable to you in the way of friends and social and public relations generally.

With a good education, you are fitted for almost any occupation calling for intellectual ability, acuteness and mental resource. By choice you prefer a scheduled life, but circumstances will probably prevent you from slipping into any ruts or from retiring from the world. You may meet with psychic or occult experiences.

Successful people born April 9:

Fisher Ames, statesman and orator.

John Overton, pioneer and jurist, founder of Memphis, Tenn.

Charles Proteus Steinmetz, electrical wizard.

Chatham R. Wheat, soldier, "The Murat of America."

Olin Levi Warner, sculptor.

Robert Garrett, president of Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

DRAWING CORRECT INFERENCES.

EACH step in the bidding of a hand at Contract Bridge should be constructive. Every bid should convey some additional information, either affirmative or negative. It is a corollary of this principle that a player at Contract should not expect his partner to do something that he can do himself.

A very fine example of the drawing of correct inferences and the reaching of the correct final bid was given in a recent team-of-four match between The Bridge World team and the team captained by Mr. P. Hal Sims in the board below:

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Mr. Von Zedtwitz.

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1♡	1♠
2◇	Pass	3NT(1)	Pass
6◇(2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Two notrump on this hand would show merely a minimum bid. Three notrump shows a very strong hand and is a mild Slam try.

2—A very beautiful bid, based on knowledge that his partner holds 4½ honor-tricks without valuable distribution. The long, solid diamond suit, with the outside King of clubs and singleton spade, practically assures Mr. von Zedtwitz that the combined hands will produce six-odd.

In the other room, where the positions of the players were reversed, the same final contract was reached, but North only bid five diamonds on the third round of bidding, leaving it to his partner to bid six. As a matter of fact, this bidding required the stretching of South's hand to the utmost in order to justify bidding the Slam.

Obviously, on the bidding, the Slam would appear to rest upon whether or not more than 1 spade trick is to be lost. As to that, South can only guess, but North definitely knows. After two passes, South opened the bidding with one heart. West's Overcall bid of one spade followed, and North made the regulation Takeout of two diamonds. South had shown a hand above average strength by opening the bidding Third Hand. She then jumped at once to game at notrump, and, when West passed, North had an opportunity to correctly picture the hand. All that South had a right to expect in the North hand on the bidding thus far was a five-card, or better, diamond suit and something better than an honor-trick in the hand.

As a matter of fact, North held a hand very rich in playing tricks, if diamonds were trump, and this had not been shown by his regulation Takeout. South's strong bid showed not only double stoppers in the spade suit, but, by inference, an honor-trick in the unbid club suit as well. The hand, North reasoned, must contain either the Ace of spades or the Ace of clubs. The hearts may even be stronger than was actually the case. It was apparent to North that the hand should be played in diamonds, the abnormal distribution making the play at notrump a doubtful course. The only question was whether North should bid five or six. Mr. von Zedtwitz rightly solved this question by his bid of six. He could reason that South's spade holding might well be something very similar to what it actually was, and if he bid five diamonds, South might quite easily pass that bid. A good Contract player should not ask his partner to make a bid which he is prepared to make, and thus the bid on North's hand was not five diamonds, but six, because the chances of making the Slam were more than even and the additional bonus for that result was well worth the slight risk.

TODAY'S POINTER.

A good Contract player should not ask his partner to make a bid that is justified by his own holding.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

The Adopted Child.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I read your advice to others every day and like them very much. So maybe you can help me. I am a married woman, 30 years old, and my husband is 46 years. We are married nearly 12 years. we have a very nice home and a car. My husband is a carpenter and works away from home as he can make more money there. He is in a city 100 miles away. I take him Monday morning in the car and go again Friday afternoon. They work five days a week so he is home every week-end. And we are real happy. But what I want to know: We can't have children of our own, and I am very fond of baby girls. What do you think about adopting a baby girl from some home and if so what age? And would we be as happy then as now or happier. I have been thinking about it ever since I knew I could not have my own. I think I could love it as my own if I took it real small. That was my one hope to have babies. So I have come to you for advice as I am anxious for your opinion. What do you think about it? Thanking you.

BABY LOVE.

If your husband shares your wish to adopt a child, by all means do so. You have no idea of the joy that will be yours. The fact that you bring a child into the world has nothing to do with your love for it. Recently when two children were mixed up in a hospital, the parents concerned were ready to move heaven and earth to keep the child each had brought home! Despite the telltale tag accidentally discovered which proclaimed the shocking error that sent one man home proudly, if unconsciously, carrying another man's son and heir, both sets of parents fought to prove that the child they had was theirs. They claimed they knew the way they loved it! No proof there. Who could withhold love from a baby? Who can gaze into the clear eyes of childhood and not thank God for life?

You will love your little girl and she will love you. She will watch for her wonderful daddy with every bit of adoration that would characterize her childish love and worship if he were really her own father. What does childhood know of these things? Childhood knows only love.

Consult your clergyman about homes where children await adoption. The age makes little difference if you find one whose heart speaks to yours. A friend of mine started out to adopt a child "two years old and pretty." She came home with a lanky girl of 10, all eyes, legs and arms. But you should see that girl now. Still sad looking. Ten years in an orphanage are not soon forgotten. But she is lovely beyond words. Not pretty—lovely. And to her no fairy princess in a book compares with her "mother" for beauty and all the wonders that are not found in orphanages. Three years is an ideal age, but if a child answers the call of your heart, that child will do. May you find just the one, and may God guide you to the little heart that was made just for you.

Priceless Relic of French Louisiana Rule Destroyed

New Orleans, April 8 (A.P.).—France's original record of title to Louisiana has been melted into bullets and used to kill wild ducks by an illiterate hunter near the mouth of the Mississippi River.

Destruction of the great lead plaque erected on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico in 1682 by La Salle was disclosed today by Frank W. Waddill, civil engineer of New Orleans.

He is preparing a report of the vandalism to be made to the Louisiana Historical Society tomorrow night at exercises commemorating the 250th anniversary of La Salle claiming Louisiana for France.

Times were hard down by the Mississippi's mouth, the hunter told Waddill, so he melted the plaque and made therefrom a dollars' worth of bullets.

King Louis XIV had it erected in claiming title to territory extending from the mouth of the river to the Canadian border and from the Mississippi River westward to the Rockies.

All of that area was included in the territory President Jefferson bought from France for $15,000,000 in the Louisiana purchase.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

GREAT BRITAIN won everlasting fame by broadcasting a nightingale's song. Uncle Sam may attract attention along similar lines if an experiment proves successful next Thursday, of broadcasting to different parts of the world the whirr of the wings of 1,000 carrier pigeons which are to be released from the Ellipse as a spectacular feature in honor of Pan-American Day.

It is a Franklin P. Adams idea.

"We tried this once before, but had a hard time getting the pigeons out of their boxes," Mr. Adams, who is the counselor of the Pan-American Union, explained. "However, at Philadelphia recently we accidentally discovered a remedy for this defect. We had some carrier pigeons there. Without giving them any particular thought some one suggested that we fire a salute in honor of the Pan-American Union. This so thoroughly aroused the birds that when their boxes were opened they were away like a flash.

"At the Ellipse a salute will be fired by the artillery from Fort Myer to each of the Pan-American nations as their flags are raised—21 in all. It is safe to say, judging from our Philadelphia experience, when we turn the pigeons loose the radio audience will not be disappointed in hearing them fly away."

WHILE it is expected the broadcast Thursday will be heard in South America and other parts of the world, it seems that Germany, in particular, is on tip-toe in anticipation of the event. Heretofore, the Pan-American broadcasts have reached there about 4 o'clock in the morning, but a special program of Latin-American music which the United States Army Band, led by Capt. William J. Stannard, will play in connection with the Pan-American ceremonies at the Ellipse here at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, will be heard in Germany, weather permitting, at 8:30 o'clock at night.

Through an arrangement made with Kurt Sell, about 72 continental stations are to be included in the network which will tune in on the program made up entirely of Latin-American music. Both NBC and Columbia will carry the program.

A portion of the concert given by the United Service Orchestra at the Pan-American Union Thursday night will be broadcast by the Blue Network of the NBC and the entire concert will be heard over Station NAA, Arlington.

Alfred E. Smith, Cardinal Hayes and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will speak over the WJZ network this afternoon at 2:30, during the Catholic Charities luncheon in New York, in an appeal to directors of Catholic Diocesan Charities throughout the country.

All three speakers will plead for the advancement of social welfare work. Gov. Roosevelt has been especially active in this field in New York. The radio program is scheduled to continue for 45 minutes.

POSTMASTER GENERAL Walter F. Brown will open a Nation-wide network in the first three-way plane to radio broadcast ever attempted from mail planes speeding over New York, Chicago and San Francisco on a night schedule tomorrow night (WRC, 11:30).

The radio audience will hear the announcers, one of whom will be in each plane, as they describe operations on the ground and aloft and listen in while they call to one another over the 3,000 mile mail route. It is expected that the roar of the motors and the actual flying operations will be distinctly heard.

The world would go crazy, according to New York University scientists, if the human ear were sensitive as the microphone. In proof of their point, they will attempt to broadcast the roar of bursting soap bubbles, explosions of a glass of ginger ale and music as relayed by a bath towel.

These and other phenomena will be broadcast and explained from the laboratory bench of the General Science Department in the School of Commerce (WMAL, 8:30 p. m.).

The Glee Club of the Bliss Electrical School will sing a 15-minute program on WMAL at 9:15 o'clock tonight. The program includes "Prayer of Thanksgiving," "Old Man Noah," Kipling's "Recessional," and "Close Harmony," a novelty number.

The air will be filled with discussion of the bonus tonight. Representative Wright Patman, of Texas, will speak on the subject, "How the Adjusted Service Certificates can be Paid Now, and Promote the Welfare of the Country" over WRC, at 6:30 o'clock.

Both sides of the question will be presented over WMAL at 10:15 p. m., when Representative Royal C. Johnson (Republican), of South Dakota, will defend the negative view of the question, "Shall the Adjusted Service Certificates, Known as the Soldiers' Bonus, Be Paid Immediately in Cash in Full?" Representative John E. Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, will support the affirmative.

CATHOLIC MARRIAGE DECREE IS DEFENDED

Archbishop Hanna Declares Federal Church Council Statement Erred.

(Associated Press.)

In an interview made public yesterday by the National Catholic Welfare conference, the Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna said the recent statement on intermarriage of Catholics and Protestants that was issued by the Federal Council of Churches and signed by a number of prominent persons misrepresented the position of the Catholic Church.

The archbishop of San Francisco, who is chairman of the administrative committee of the Catholic Welfare Conference, said that while the statement did not voice the definite teaching of any of the Protestant churches, for he understood the federal council had no such responsibility, he was glad to see that the statement took the same stand as the Catholic Church had always held, that mixed marriages were to be discouraged and that discord and differences almost inevitably arose in marriages wherein there was not oneness of faith between husband and wife.

"The church," Archbishop Hanna said, "regards marriage as a sacrament committed to its custody. On this assumption, there can be no doubt that the church has both the right and the duty to determine under what conditions a sacrament shall be administered.

Insists on Agreement.

"This is the noble concept of marriage which the Catholic Church teaches as the very mind of Christ. For this reason the Catholic Church, while it tolerates under certain circumstances marriage between Catholic and non-Catholic, always insist that a solemn agreement shall be made antecedently, by the contracting parties, that the children of the marriage shall be brought up in the Catholic faith."

"Since the church holds that she alone is the custodian of the sacrament of marriage," Archbishop Hanna declared, "she can take no other position."

"She must urge her children not to enter into mixed marriage," he said. "And the Catholic Church will be grateful to all other religious groups if they urge their people not to enter alliances of mixed marriages. The statement of the Federal Council of Churches asks this attitude of its people.

"But, strangely enough, when the Catholic Church insists its children take this wise course, the Federal Council of Churches objects. This is owing, no doubt, to the growing idea among non-Catholics that a church has of itself no authority."

Says First Reports Inaccurate.

Archbishop Hanna added that the first reports concerning the recent decree of the Holy See on the importance of securing definite and sincere promises from the non-Catholic party to a marriage with a Catholic were inaccurate and were in some quarters misrepresented.

"The decree, while universal in its application, was not issued to meet, especially, conditions of this country," the archbishop said.

"A very wrong impression has gone abroad that all mixed marriages can be declared null by reason of the recent decree when the promises are not kept. The decree deals with the security and good faith of the promises made by the non-Catholic party and the practical certainty that the church must have under all circumstances that they will be kept before a dispensation is granted."

Oil Price Struggle Is On in Oklahoma

Independents Unite Against Major Firms' Stand to Keep Level Down.

Tulsa, Okla., April 8 (A.P.).—Independents were arrayed against major oil firms today in a struggle over crude oil prices that found the mid-continent area tense and attentive.

The voice of E. B. Reeser, independent spokesman and former head of the American Petroleum Institute, was added to those from Kansas and Texas that urged conformity of all purchasers to the independents' new price schedule of 76 cents to $1 a barrel—an advance of 15 cents.

Meantime, executives of major firms held rigidly to an announced intention to keep the lower price in effect, or refrained from committing themselves to any set course. The three companies who, with their subsidiaries, have held that the 85-cent top level is proper are the Standard of Indiana, Standard of New Jersey and Gulf.

Dental College Faculty Facing Charge on Ethics

Memphis, Tenn., April 8 (A.P.).—Faculty members at the University of Tennessee's Dental College, located in Memphis, were charged with unethical practices in a petition filed with the State board of dental examiners today by 118 Memphis dentists. Dr. George L. Powers, president of the board, said legal action is contemplated.

The dentists charged the faculty members with spreading propaganda in the public schools of Memphis as a means of securing paying patients at the college's dental clinic and for the private practice of the professors. Dr. Powers said he has tried repeatedly but in vain to discuss the complaints with university authorities here and in Knoxville.

Eustace Short, Aviator, Found Dead in Airplane

Rochester, England, April 8 (A.P.), Eustace Short, famous aviator and a partner in the firm of Short Bros., airplane manufacturers, was found dead in the cockpit of a seaplane he was piloting here today.

The ship had descended after a normal flight. Occupants of a launch which came alongside found Short had collapsed and died in his seat at the controls. The airman, who was 42 years old, learned to fly in 1928. Previously he had made hundreds of balloon ascents.

Campbell Declared Suicide.

London, April 8 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury decided today that the Hon. Cecil Arthur Campbell, who was found dead yesterday with a bullet wound in his head, committed suicide while of unsound mind. He was 63.

Taxicab of Holdup Victim Discovered

Driver Shot by Bandits in "Fair" Condition at Hospital Here.

The taxicab driven by John H. Cole when he was shot by two colored bandits Thursday night has been found in Carmody Hills, Md., near the scene of the crime, it was announced yesterday by Constable Earle Blackwell. Meanwhile Cole's condition was said to be "fair" at Casualty Hospital.

Cole was shot in the left chest by one of the men after they had robbed him of $12. He told police the pair hailed him at Seventh and P streets northwest and told him to drive to Seat Pleasant, Md. There they produced guns and robbed him. As they prepared to drive off in his car they shot him and started away, threatening to shoot again if he attempted to follow.

Cole was found lying in the road by a passing motorist, who took him to Casualty. At the hospital he gave an address which does not exist. Persons at the address he filed with the hack inspector said that he does not live there.

CHARITIES PLAN AID FOR MORE FAMILIES

Walter Ufford Makes Plea for Supprot in Heavy Relief Demands.

The Associated Charities, which took care of 3,874 families in 1931, faces the prospect of caring for 5,000 or more families this year, due to the unemployment situation, Walter S. Ufford, general secretary, said at a Community Chest staff meeting yesterday.

Reduction of efforts by the District of Columbia Employment Committee is making itself felt among all the family welfare organizations, he said, 58 per cent of the applications for aid last month being traced directly to unemployment.

Relief disbursed by the citizens Relief Association and the Associated Charities last month, Mr. Ufford said, showed an increase of 143 per cent over the same month in 1931. This included food, fuel and rent primarily, the funds of the Citizens Relief Association being disbursed by the Associated Charities organization without cost to the former.

Hoover's Plan Discussed.

Mentioning the request of President Hoover that Congress permit the District government to transfer $600,000 of its funds to be used for the relief of the unemployed, Mr. Ufford declared that something will have to be done if the situation is to be met.

"We are spending far beyond our budget," he said, "but what are we to do? When we are called up and told that a family has been evicted and must have rent money or remain in the streets, there is only one thing to do, and that is to get that family and its belongings under shelter in the shortest possible time.

When we are informed that a family is without food, and this is verified by our workers, the only thing to do is to get food to them. We can not stop to think about our budget then."

Capital as Idle Mecca.

Mr. Ufford was of the opinion that in spite of statements sent out regarding the lack of work in Washington that a large number of people still regard this city as the "promised land" and come here regardless, this accounting for the steady increase in demands for help at a time when there should be a decrease.

"There is more to this unemployment than the mere money side," he said in conclusion. "The strain of being idle, with nothing to occupy the mind, is terrific, and this, added to the worry over one's loved ones who are suffering because of the lack of a job for the breadwinner, make a terrible impress on any man.

"We are using the recreational facilities of the character building organizations as far as possible to keep up the morale of those we are helping, and try by this means to keep their minds occupied with thoughts about other things than their troubles, but after all the only thing that will satisfy people is a job, and some means to provide that work must be found."

Hypnosis Planned Through "Talkie"

Experiments Are Being Conducted by Paramount Engineer.

New York (U.P.).—Hypnosis by talking picture is the subject of an experiment being conducted by Max Fleischer, Paramount engineer, who believes he will soon be able to produce his results in public.

Fleischer has been working on the idea for several years, his theory being that a hypnotist, through words and actions on the screen, can exert his influence on persons in the audience who are susceptible to hypnosis.

His preliminary experiments have been highly successful and he is almost ready for a public test, he said. He has even had definite success by use of phonograph records on susceptible subjects, he said.

Child Prodigies' Course Limited

Only 20 of 200 Candidates Will Be Admitted by Northwestern U.

Chicago (A.P.).—So numerous are the child prodigies seeking admission to the special course next year at Northwestern University that President Walter Dill Scott announced 20 will be admitted to the class instead of the six originally planned.

Of the more than 200 candidates, President Scott said, 40 are eligible under the standards set. It was decided to admit ten boys and ten girls.

Those admitted will be under 15 years old and 1932 high school graduates. They will live in separate groups in two dormitories and their social lives as well as their studies closely supervised.

Leap Year a Failure.

The Dalles, Oreg., (U.P.).—Leap year doesn't mean a thing any more. In fact, it means less than that. Divorces this year have been twice as numerous as marriages.

PARISH SODALITIES CONVENE TOMORROW

800 Delegates Are Expected at Exercises in St. Aloysius Church.

Arrangements have been completed for the archdiocesan convention of parish sodalities in Washington tomorrow. This meeting, held under the auspices of Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, will be unique in the Eastern part of the United States. Only two or three such conventions have ever been held in this country. Some 800 delegates from the parishes of Washington and Baltimore and the neighboring cities of Maryland are expected to attend. Ample provision for the accommodation of the delegates and friends are being made at St. Aloysius Church and Gonzaga Auditorium, where the meetings will take place.

The program calls for an opening mass at St. Aloysius Church, North Capitol and I streets northwest, at 11 a. m. The celebrant will be the Rev. Francis P. Lubuffe, assisted by the Rev. Father O'Hurley and the Rev. Mr. Herbert, as deacon and subdeacon, respectively. Immediately following there will be a short session in Gonzaga Auditorium at which the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore, will deliver an address of welcome.

The general business session will convene at 2:30 p. m. in Gonzaga Auditorium. Father Lord, the national organizer of parish sodalities, will address this meeting. Following at 3:45 p. m. there will be another general session addresed by Miss Dorothy J. Willmann, the executive secretary of parish sodalities. Considerable time has been allotted at the close of the program for public discussion by the delegates of matters of interest.

The convention will close with benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in St. Aloysius Church at 5:30 p. m. The celebrant will be the Rev. James A. Dwyer with the Rev. Samuel J. Peck as deacon and the Rev. Leo J. Fealy as subdeacon.

It is expected that at these meetings a concrete program of Catholic Action as advocated by Pope Pius XI in recent encyclicals will be formulated for parish sodalities in the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

St. Albert the Great.

Tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday, at 7:30 p. m., a triduum will be conducted in St. Dominic's Church in recognition of the recent canonization of St. Albert the Great. On December 16, 1931, the Pope published a bulletin declaring Albert the Great to be not only a saint, but also a doctor of the church. This bulletin was solemnly presented to the master general of the Dominican Order on January 14, 1932.

The Very Rev. Thomas M. Schwertner, who has written a life of St. Albert the Great, which is soon to come from the press, will be the preacher on each of the evenings of the triduum. The purpose of these sermons will be to present to the public in an epitomized form the life of a great scholar, a renowned scientist, a profound theologist and a simple, holy soul, now called St. Albert the Great. All Catholics, but especially the members of the Third Order of St. Dominic, are invited to attend these exercises.

Women Seen Too Intense in Work

Dr. Namur, Who Is Lecturing at Arlington Hotel, So Declares.

Dr. Irene Case Namur, famous author and prominent clubwoman of New York City, who is giving a series of lectures in the Arlington Hotel, remarked in a recent address at one of the State Federation Club meetings:

"No matter how they complain about what they have to do women do not work themselves to death. They tense themselves to death.

"A tense woman can resolve her housework, her cooking, her shopping, into so great a trial that she finds herself at the end of the day lying in a darkened room, with cold compresses at her head, unable to eat the delicious food she has so worriedly prepared. A tense business woman, stenographer or executive, can 'fight her job' all day long until the simplest typing or merely answering the telephone twice in fifteen minutes will make her want to scream. When holiday time arrives it takes her more than the time allotted her to begin to relax the taut strings she has instead of nerves. The housewife, the professional woman or the busy clubwoman can tense herself into hysteria, nervous indigestion or nervous breakdown far more quickly than she can work herself into a similar condition."

Christian Science Churches

"Are sin, disease and death real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Psalms 68:20: "He that is our God is the God of salvation; and unto God the Lord belong the issues from death." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thou hast dealt well with thy servant, O Lord, according unto thy word. Thou art good, and doest good." (Psalms 119, 65, 68).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine logic and revelation coincide. If we believe otherwise, we may be sure that either our logic is at fault or that we have misinterpreted revelation. Good never causes evil, nor creates aught that can cause evil. Whatever contradicts the real nature of the divine Esse, though human faith may clothe it with angelic vestments, is without foundation." (page 93).

VOICES OF CHILDREN DESIRED ON RECORDS

Parents Enabled to Preserve Sayings Through Offer of The Post.

Proud parents may now preserve the clever sayings of their children, and amateur and professional entertainers can record their efforts for posterity.

Even sweethearts can now "converse" intimately, though far apart, as the result of an offer of The Washington Post, in cooperation with the RCA-Victor Company, in which 5,000 "home recording" records are now being distributed free of cost.

In addition to the thrill of hearing your own voice speaking back to you, prizes in merchandise valued at $700 will be given to those whose recordings are judged best.

No Obligation Involved.

To enjoy the privilege of making a record, that you may later have to keep, it is only necessary to visit any of the recording stations named below during regular store hours of any day up to and including Saturday, April 23. There is positively no obligation of any kind involved.

You may sing, talk, or play your favorite musical instrument. Records will be judged entirely upon the basis of registration quality whether they are of vocal or instrumental type. After they have received a rating from the judges they will be mailed to your home address. The decision of the judges will be final in every case, and in event of ties duplicate prizes will be awarded. If your record should prove especially meritorious, The Washington Post reserves the right to retain it until the conclusion of the contest.

The contest is open to every one, men, women and children. Children, of course, must be accompanied by an adult when applying for records.

Directions Are Simple.

Records and auditions are given absolutely free without any red tape. Just step into one of the recording stations listed below and under expert direction you will be allowed to record anything you may desire on the new RCA-Victor "home recording" radio combination.

Following are the list of Washington Post "home recording" stations:

Louis & Co., 713 Seventh street northwest.

Midshipmen Bill Is Sent to Senate

Naval Body Favors Plan to Make Line Ensigns of 1932 Graduates.

(Associated Press.)

A favorable report on a House approved bill making Naval Academy midshipmen who graduate this year ensigns of the line was sent to the Senate yesterday by its naval committee.

The committee modified the House bill so that a two-year probationary period would be required, and reduced from three to two the number of appointees allowed members of Congress.

The report explained this cut was made to permit stabilization within a few years of the number of officers of the line in the Navy. It cited that existing law limits to 5,499 the number of officers and that only 26 of the 419 expected to graduate this year could get commissions unless special legislation is enacted.

SAFETY ZONE STUDY STARTED BY P. U. C.

Public Hearing on Street Car Loading Devices Will Be Scheduled Shortly.

The Public Utilities Commission is making a study of modern safety devices for street car loading safety zones, and plans to hold a public hearing on the matter in the near future, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, revealed yesterday in a letter to Representative Frank L. Bowman.

Answering an inquiry resulting from the death of one man and the serious injury of another on March 22 as they were standing in a safety zone at Connecticut avenue and Devonshire street northwest, Gen. Patrick stated that during the past four years two persons have been killed by automobiles as they stood in safety zone and that two others were killed after leaving loading platforms.

Platforms Held Best

Because of the small number of platforms and the large number of safety zones, as well as the inconclusive fatality record, Gen. Patrick said "there is little to indicate clearly that the former are safer than the latter. But, as these platforms are all in the more congested parts of the city and where the automobile traffic is denser, there is no doubt that the platforms do provide a greater measure of safety than the zones."

The letter states that the street car companies, while they have not yet refused to obey an order of the commission regarding the construction of a loading platform, contend that "it is unfair to burden them with the expense of erecting and maintaining platforms" on the ground that they "are placed more for the convenience of the motorists who desire to pass standing cars than for any other purpose." The traction lines, therefore, believe that the city should bear the cost of building and maintaining them.

The commission adds: "It is also a fact that these zones and platforms are required not only by street car riders, but as can be readily noted they are frequently used by pedestrians who are merely crossing the streets and neither enter nor leave the street cars."

Absolute Safety Lacking.

Neither the loading platform nor the safety zone provides absolute safety, Gen. Patrick points out in recalling that on February 20, 1925, five were struck by an automobile while standing on a loading platform at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue and that two of them died.

The commission is now studying the feasibility of replacing the buttons at the ends of safety zones with metal standards "easily put in place and strong enough to prevent motor cars from entering these zones." It is also considering the problem of lighting these standards at night with reflectors of some sort.

A copy of the report of a committee of the American Road Builders Association on the design and lighting of safety zones was attached to the letter. Among other things, it showed that in the majority of the cities the cost of building and maintaining loading platforms is borne in whole or in part by the municipalities.

Regular and Requested Recipes.

AGAIN a Saturday, day of request recipes, and today, indeed, must we be in earnest about them, for this past week we have traveled from China to Norway in quest of the unusual, and have, said to relate, set aside four requests which today's column must find space for, and no mistaking.

Cucumber Soup.

6 cupfuls water
2 cucumbers
3 tomatoes
2 tablespoonfuls butter
2 boiled potatoes
1 onion, sliced
Salt and pepper to taste

Peel and cut cucumbers into small pieces. Put into saucepan with the water and simmer. Place in another saucepan the tomatoes, butter and onion and cook for ten minutes. Add this to the cucumber mixture and cook for a half hour. Press through a colander, together with the mashed potatoes. Return to fire for about ten minutes and serve piping hot.

Chicken en Casserole.

1 chicken, cut in pieces
1 onion
Salt and pepper to taste
½ cupful diced carrots
3 tablespoonfuls butter or drippings
1 cupful diced celery
Sliced pimento
1½ cupfuls water or chicken stock
1 green pepper

Heat the drippings, or butter in an iron frying pan and fry thinly sliced onion until a light brown. Roll pieces of chicken in flour and brown in the fat. Place the pieces of browned chicken with the vegetables in casserole dish, adding the water which has been rinsed around the pan to gather up the particles of "brown." Cover closely, place in a moderate oven and cook for two hours.

Creamed Peas and Mushrooms.

½ pound mushrooms
1 quart fresh peas, cooked
1 tablespoonful butter
Salt and pepper
1 tablespoonful flour
1 cupful cream
1 egg yolk

Peel and scrape the mushrooms. Cut the larger caps and stems in pieces, leaving the smaller ones whole. Boil in salted water for 15 or 20 minutes and drain. Make a cream sauce by melting the butter, stir in flour and seasoning gradually, making a smooth paste. Add and stir until smooth and creamy. Add the mushrooms and peas just before serving and blend in thoroughly the beaten yolk of one egg. Serve on triangles of toast.

Philadelphia Scrapple.
(For M. E. V.)

4 cupfuls raw, fresh pork (cheap parts may be used, such as the head. One-eighth of the quantity must be fat).
1½ quarts water
1 teaspoonful salt
½ teaspoonful pepper
2 teaspoonfuls sage
1½ cupfuls cornmeal

Cook the meat slowly until tender; skim the grease from the liquor and drain it off the meat. Add the salt, pepper and sage. Bring to a boil and add the cornmeal gradually. Cook until thick, stirring all the time. Grind the meat and add to the thick mush. Pour into a loaf pan to set.

Ham Butter.
(For Mrs. N. W. R.)

½ cupful cooked ham
2 hard-cooked egg yolks
½ cupful butter
Pepper to taste

Grind the ham fine and mash smooth with the butter and egg yolk. Season to taste with pepper.

Panada.
(For Mrs. Sally B.)

Place two graham or soda crackers in a bowl and add sufficient boiling water to soak well. Set bowl in a pan of boiling water and let stand for 25 or 30 minutes or until the crackers are clear, but not broken. Remove them carefully to avoid breaking and place on a hot saucer. Salt, if desired, and serve hot with sugar and cream.

Carrot Marmalade.
(For Miss Ida K. C.)

2 cupfuls carrots, cooked and mashed.
2 cupfuls granulated sugar
2 oranges
2 lemons

Grate enough of the peel of orange and lemon to make a teaspoonful (mixed). Then extract the juice from oranges and lemons. Mix all together and cook until clear and thick, stirring constantly to prevent scorching.

RECIPE FOR ORANGE SALAD WINS PRIZE

Tasty Fruits Are Employed by Mrs. G. H. Leeper, Who Receives $5.

A recipe for orange-delight salad was awarded the weekly prize offered by The Post for the best idea employing products regularly advertised on the Saturday Food Page. The recipe was formulated by Mrs. G. H. Leeper, of 3126 Monroe street northeast.

Three tasty fruits, oranges, bananas and pineapples, form the base of this delightful salad. It can be prepared easily. The winning recipe follows:

Peel oranges (Sanitary Grocery navel oranges) and remove all the white membrane. Separate into sections, removing skin and keeping sections whole. Peel bananas and cut in quarters lengthwise, then cut quarters in same length pieces as orange sections. Put the orange and banana into French dressing and let stand half an hour. Drain and arrange three sections of orange and three alternating pieces of banana to form a flower on crisp lettuce leaves. In the center put a generous tablespoonful of pineapple cream dressing made by mixing 1 cup mayonnaise dressing with ½ cup whipped cream and a 2-3 cup grated pineapple, well drained.

Chocloate Pudding.

Here is a recipe for a chocolate pudding with custard sauce which might be of interest.

4 tablespoonfuls cornstarch.
4 tablespoonfuls sugar
4 tablespoonfuls cocoa
4 egg whites
1 pint milk
1 teaspoonful vanilla

Sauce.

4 egg yolks.
½ cup sugar
1 pint milk
1 teaspoonful vanilla.

Mix cornstarch, sugar and cocoa thoroughly, put in top of double boiler with pint milk, and cook until thick. Fold in well beaten egg whites, return to fire for a minute or two, add vanilla, and set in a mold rinsed in cold water. May be made in a saucepan, provided ingredients are mixed cold and it is stirred constantly until the boiling point is reached.

For the sauce, put the egg yolks, milk and sugar to cook in the double boiler. When thickened, remove from the fire and add the vanilla.

Makes a beautiful desert molded in individual molds, served with the yellow sauce surrounding it.

Hot Oyster Ring.

3 eggs
2 cups milk
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup cracker crumbs
1 teaspoon salt

Beat eggs and add the other ingredients. Pour into buttered ring molds, set in pan of water and bake in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 25 minutes. When unmolded center may be filled with creamed celery. Serves six.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

USE CANNED GOODS WHEN FRESH ARE OUT OF SEASON.

CANNED foods, you'll notice, are included in almost every low-cost diet program. That's because besides being inexpensive, canned goods are nourishing and palatable, two requisites of any good food. Of course, there have been extreme cases where men were mighty glad to get any food—good to eat or not. They say that Dilion Wallace, the explorer, lived for several days on soup made by boiling some moccasins in water, but he was lost in a Labrador blizzard and couldn't be too finicky.

When vegetables and fruits are in season it pays to buy them fresh. When the season passes it pays to buy the canned variety. And it won't cost much more than the fresh product did at the height of the season. All winter long we can get summertime fruits and vegetables in cans—peaches and pears and plums, peas and beans and tomatoes. Tomatoes are very important in a low-cost diet. As Mr. Edgar Hay reminds me, the tomato "contains nearly half the alphabet in vitamins." "Despite its lionizing by society," says Mr. Hay, "the tomato remains its same simple, charming, alkaline-acid self."

Well—whether it comes fresh from the garden, or fresh from the can—the tomato is found in the very best social circles, and is just as much at home on the low-cost menu as on the high-cost menu.

Baked beans, too, appear on low-cost menus. Dr. Lafayette B. Mendel, of Yale, is so much in favor of baked beans that he wants them elevated to the position of a banquet dish. And I don't know but what he's right.

A good many foods are cheaper canned than fresh. Salmon is one of these. In most parts of the country canned salmon is always cheaper than the fresh—at any time of the year.

Other points in favor of canned goods are that there's no waste to them, and that, for the most part, they come already cooked, which is a time-and-fuel saving item.

I suppose the biggest point in favor of canned foods, nutritionally speaking, is that they contain practically all the food value of the fresh products. In other words, canned foods are almost as good sources of vitamins and minerals as fresh foods are. And as the dietitians remind us every now and then, the liquid in a can of fruit or vegetables is valuable—don't throw it away, but use it in soups or sauces.

The various grades of any one food are the same in food value. The fancier grades may be better looking, but the food value is the same as in the less-expensive grades. In canned peas, for example, the grading is done according to size. The smaller sizes are more expensive. So let your pocketbook be your guide.

As a general rule, if I were giving advice to the thrifty I'd say don't buy the most expensive grades of canned goods you can find. Try some of the cheaper grades until you find the brand that best fits your taste and your purse.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Small copper coffee pots, such as are used in Turkey in making real Turkish coffee—strong, black coffee, each cup poured from the small pot as soon as it is brewed—are hanging on the walls of a food importer's shop in northwest Ninth street, neighboring the Public Library. These Turkish coffee pots are quaintly shaped, with long handles projecting sidewise. Their cost is small. Genuine Turkish coffee is sold in the shop, too, of course. It is more expensive per pound than Brazilian coffee, but, as the shop's proprietor explained, Turkish coffee is used so sparingly—only one teaspoon for each cup of coffee—that it actually is less expensive than coffee prepared in American fashion. The Turkish method is to pour boiling water over the required coffee and sugar in the little pot, boil and stir until liquid is richly dark, and serve immediately. As the proprietor of the shop was living in Greece not many years ago, his word concerning such customs may be considered authoritative.

A coffee shop known to Washingtonians for 20 years adjoins the food importer's shop. Here also Turkish coffee and coffee pots sell both to foreign born and native Americans, as do the best of Mocha and Java blends, and coffee roasted in France.

Four kinds of black olives, two kinds ripened in Italy and the others from Greece and Spain, are among the food attractions the aforementioned Greek importer displays—as well as cheese that is much ripened, too, in Italy and other places. Roman cheese, aged and hard, expensive in many quarters, sells for 60 cents a pound in this shop. Feta, a Greek cheese, and mitzethra, a Servian cheese, sell for 60 cents a pound. Leaves from grape vines, preserved in cans, to be stuffed with meat or rice before serving, are among the other curious foods in the importer's shop. On the shelves, too, one finds pickled egg plant stuffed with parsley, goat butter, wild onions, Greek honey, canned hearts of artichokes, canned squash and okra.

Squids marked the most interesting spot in the fish market this week for the Meanderer. Squids are not an appealing food, in the Meanderer's opinion. They are cuttlefish, with ten long, sucker-bearing arms, and hard, parrot-like mouths. Their bodies are soft, of a gray-lavender color. As they lay in shapeless heaps, the long arms intertwining, they form a mass from which the customer would turn away, the Meanderer thought. But the fish marketer said all squids usually find a ready market, selling at 15 cents a pound. Squids are found off the Atlantic coast from the Carolinas northward.

Rock fish, roe shad and buck shad are the most plentiful of the fish now on the market. Sea bass are regularly obtainable, too, as are soft shell crabs from the North Carolina coast. Crab meat flakes, always popular, now sell for 50 cents a pound, and are available nearly all the year.

"In using canned foods the housekeeper has the assurance of scientific research that she is providing her family with the same nutritive values that are found in foods cooked by herself," was the answer given by the head of the home service department of a national organization of food canners, with headquarters in the heart of Washington, when the Meanderer asked about the relative values of canned and fresh foods. This question has been in the minds of many homekeepers as they use canned foods. This question and any others Washington housewives wish to ask will be readily answered by this home service department the Meanderer visited. Attractive booklets with menus, recipes and valuable information on diets, based on careful research, are available to every one applying for them.

The old question about keeping food in cans after the cans have been opened was also brought up in the Meanderer's interview with the home economics head of the canning organization. This home economics worker, by the way, is as friendly and charming as she is scientific and helpful. Anent the question of storing the food in the opened can, this authority said:

"There is nothing in the can, or in the tin on the can, that causes food to spoil any more quickly than if it were in contact with a glass or earthenware vessel, or the enamel on an iron pot. Bacteria, yeasts, or molds may find lodging on the vessels and get into the foods, particularly if the vessels are not properly cleansed or are handled by hands that are not thoroughly clean. The fault does not lie with the container, but with the person who takes care of the food. When a dish in which food is served is removed from the table, the food remaining is, as a matter of course, transferred to a smaller dish. This is done, partly because it will occupy less space in the refrigerator, and partly because it looks better. When a can of food is opened, its contents should be treated in the same manner, for the food adhering to the upper portion is not an appetizing sight."

American cheese of a good grade, finely grated, in a sifter can is an excellent form of cheese for general use in the kitchen. It gives delightfully appetizing touches to salads. It varies the taste of the sandwiches the school lunch box must carry. For in making cheese souffles or cheese biscuits this finely grated form is also recommended. The can of grated cheese is more economical than the small 10-cent packages of the grated cheese many housewives use. The Meanderer found the canned grated cheese in a big downtown market, amid a nice display of domestic and imported cheese. Milk, cream and eggs are also sold by this cheese marketer. He is introducing this week a new chocolate eggnog preparation, in liquid form, from an old Dutch formula. One part of the eggnog is used with 7 parts of water or milk, to make a palatable, nourishing drink, especially recommended for children.

Appealing to the buyer this week from the fresh fruits and vegetables in the large stands in a centrally located market are asparagus, plentiful and daily growing cheaper; fresh pineapple, Belgian endive, domestic endive or chicory, red bananas, Persian limes, eggplant, chives, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower and new peas. In many market places carrots and beets of the best quality were slightly cheaper than for weeks past, selling now for three bunches for 25 cents.

Veal cutlet is an outstanding value in one meat marketer's place the Meanderer visits regularly. Today in this shop one may buy the best of veal cutlet for 35 cents a pound. A veal loin roast will cost from 20 to 25 cents a pound.

Veal Hearts en Casserole.

2 veal hearts
6 slices onion
8 slices bacon
2-3 cup soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons water
Flour
2 cups stock
Salt and pepper

Wash the veal hearts and cut out any hard parts. Cook the onions with six slices of bacon until crisp, chop the onions and bacon and add bread crumbs two tablespoons water, and salt and pepper to taste. Stuff the hearts, put a strip of bacon across the top of each heart. Sprinkle with salt and flour and cook until brown in hot bacon fat, then put in casserole. To the fat in the pan, add three tablespoons flour, stir until smooth and brown, then add stock. Stir until sauce boils, add three-quarters teaspoon salt, and pour over the hearts. Cover and cook in a moderate oven (300 degrees F.) for two hours or until tender.

Chocolate Malt Cookies.

½ cup butter
2 1-3 cups sugar
2 eggs
½ cup raisins
2 tablespoons hot water
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chocolate malted milk
¼ cup cocoa
4 tablespoons hot water

Cream the butter. Add sugar, well-beaten eggs, raisins and 2 tablespoons hot water. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt, chocolate malted milk and add to the first mixture. Dissolve the cocoa in 4 tablespoons hot water and add last. Mix well and drop from a teaspoon on a greased baking sheet. Place a raisin on the top of each. Bake in a moderate oven about 15 minutes.

Stuffed Prunes.

1 pound prunes
1 pound Fondant

Wash prunes and soak one hour in just enough cold water to cover. Steam until soft enough to pierce easily. Make a clean cut in the side of each prune to remove stone. Fill cavity with Cream Fondant. Roll in granulated sugar and let dry a few hours before packing. Yield: 1½ to 2 pounds.

Chesapeake Bay's Fish Output Gains

Federal Bureau Reports 1930 Increase in Employment Also.

(Associated Press.)

Chesapeake Bay waters were reported by the Fisheries Bureau yesterday to have given employment in 1930 to a larger number of fishermen and to have yielded a greater quantity of fishery products than in the previous year.

Virginia and Maryland produced 316,392,924 pounds of fishery products, valued at $11,472,050, the bureau reported. That is an increase of 15 per cent in the catch, but a decrease of 1 per cent in the value, as compared with 1929.

These fisheries gave employment to 19,391 fishermen, or 5 per cent more than in 1929. Of this number, 2,579 regular fishermen were engaged on vessels, and 10,635 regular and 6,177 casual fishermen were employed in the shore and boat fisheries.

Oysters were the most valuable single product to the fishermen of the territory. Production was 44,959,170 pounds, valued at $4,769,077. Of the total fishery products, 199,326,534 pounds, valued at $4,391,493, were fish and 117,066,390 pounds, valued at $7,080,557, were shellfish and miscellaneous products.

The many months required for collection and compilation of the data was given by the bureau as the reason for the apparent tardiness of the statistics.

Suspect in Slaying Gets Assault Term

Charlottesville Man, Given 5 Years; Murder Charge Is Pending.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 8.—Ernest Dove, aged 30, accused of the murder of William M. Jarman, Crozet contractor, was given five years in the State penitentiary for a felonious assault upon Joseph E. Amiss, former county constable, by a jury in the Circuit Court yesterday afternoon.

The assault occurred at a filling station on the east side of Monticello Mountain last August, the same day Amiss was defeated for reelection as constable. The constable, according to the State's contention, was attacked by Dove and another man, now a fugitive, with rocks, a billiard cue and a bottle. He received a fractured arm and head injuries.

Both Dove and his accomplice fled immediately after the altercation. Dove was apprehended six months later and released on bond of $1,000. Since that time he is alleged to have killed Mr. Jarman in a fight in the home of Mrs. Alberta Virginia Smith, over whose affections the quarrel is said to have started.

VotingUpon Prohibition Demanded by Dry Paper

Charlotte, N. C., April 8 (A.P.).—The Charlotte News, long considered one of the outstanding champions of prohibition in North Carolina, called upon the State today to take the lead in move to have the eighteenth amendment submitted to a vote of the people.

In an editorial, captioned "Let North Carolina Lead," the paper demanded that candidates for the 1933 General Assembly "commit themselves or permit themselves to be instructed in the will of their constituents on the matter of petitioning Congress for a resubmission of the eighteenth amendment, repeal of it to bestow upon the States their once supreme right of dealing with this matter of public welfare as they themselves see or have seen fit."

Patterson, of Paw Paw, minister in the Church of Christ and a veteran of the Spanish-American War, has announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for the State Senate from the Fifteenth District. He is a native of Hampshire County. Morgan, Hampshire, Berkeley and Jefferson Counties constitute the district.

C. S. Musser, of Shepherdstown, publisher of a weekly paper, has also announced for the post on the Republican ticket. Two Democrats, both from Berkeley Springs, are contesting for the Democratic nomination—Col. J. A. Procter and H. E. Helsley, former Mayor of Berkeley Springs.

Montague Resigns Post On Smithsonian Board

(Associated Press.)

Representative Montague, of Richmond, resigned yesterday from the [illegible] of the Smithsonian Institution because he felt too many members of the board were from h[illegible] own State—Virginia.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, and former Representative R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, are board members. Montague was appointed a regent last December by Speaker Garner. Representative McReynolds (Democrat), Tennessee, was named yesterday to succeed Montague.

VIRGINIA CHAMBER ACTIVE IN REFORM

Hampton Roads Development and Governmental Uplift Among Aims.

Richmond, Va., April 8 (A.P.).—The achievements of eight years of active work in the interest of Virginia are listed by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce just issued for the information of its members and the public.

The document, "The Record of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce," outlines briefly the outstanding accomplishments and objectives of the body under its program of Statewide development and advertising.

"The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce since its establishment in 1924 has led the fight to break down sectional lines and free Virginia from the burden of sectionalism by making the Old-Dominion-Virginia-conscious and more intimately and favorably known throughout the Nation and the world," the pamphlet said.

Progressive Reforms.

Among the progressive reforms campaigned for by the chamber during its first five years, the paper said, were tax reform, governmental reorganization and the development of Hampton Roads, for the provision of the necessary, cheap electrical power required for the State's industrial progress, and the utilization of the State's agricultural opportunities.

"Education, the public health, conservation of the forests, extension of transportation facilities, maintenance of business ethics, and publicity of Virginia events, resources and advantages were added to the chamber's objectives in 1929," it was explained. "During the period in which the chamber has been at work in the Old Dominion, the State has progressed more rapidly than during any previous period in the history of the Commonwealth."

Studies and publications revealing vital facts concerning rural public health in Virginia, Virginia's tax system and its weaknesses and where it should be amended, advertising documents on many different topics, campaigns reaching into foreign countries seeking to widen Virginia's field of trade acceptance, and to aid her ports, promotion of the first apple export conference at Norfolk, compilation and issuance of import and export traffic studies, were among the accomplishments listed.

Forestry Promotion.

The chamber's work in promoting forestry, and to establish a system of forestry taxation that will foster profitable timber growing to supply the raw materials needed for the development of wood using industries in Virginia is outlined.

The work of the chamber in promoting aviation, in the field of tax research and in the field of civics is also explained.

Concerning its publicity work, the chamber said that today it is conducting "one of the most far-reaching and effective State publicity agencies in America, with an extensive direct document distribution system, and a State-wide service that is continually telling Virginia's story to Virginians and informing the Nation and the whole world about Virginia."

Lynchburg Postal Building Assured

Treasury Official Asserts Cuts Are Unlikely to Affect Project.

(Associated Press.)

The Lynchburg, Va., postoffice probably will be just inside the wire, if the Federal building program is curtailed.

Lee C. Martin, chief assistant to Assistant Secretary Heath, of the Treasury, said yesterday he believed the Lynchburg contract would be let before a shutdown is ordered.

He explained that only a few more contracts would be let before the department would stop to await the outcome of proposed cuts in the Treasury-Postoffice Departments appropriations.

The Lynchburg project, however, is on the market and supplementary bids are to be opened Monday. Martin said he did not look for a shutdown order to be issued in time to hold up that project.

Projects that probably will be held up until after Congress has passed the Treasury-Postoffice bill, include postoffice buildings at Bristol, Danville, Culpeper and Cape Charles and the Norfolk Marine Hospital, for which plans have been completed or are near completion.

University Gets Pescud Portrait

Painting of Former Head of Jefferson Society Given by Relative.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 8.—A portrait of Peter Francisco Pescud, a former president of the Jefferson Literary Society of the University of Virginia, was formally accepted tonight at the monthly meeting of the society, held in Jefferson Hall. The portrait, an excellently executed canvas, was given by a niece of Mr. Pescud.

Mr. Pescud, though a native of North Carolina, was descended from an old Virginia family which is connected with the Byrds, Shaws and Fields. He entered the University of Virginia in 1870 and was prominent in scholastic and extracurricular affairs. He was elected president of the Jefferson Society when it was the most powerful social organization of the university.

In 1875 Mr. Pescud became special agent for the Southern States of the Commercial Union Assurance Co. of London. He located in New Orleans in 1883 and then entered the general insurance business. He was a member of the Boston, the Pickwick and La Variete Clubs, and was the president of the Louisiana Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Berkeley Teachers May Get Pay Cut

West Virginia County's School Boards Agree on Procedure.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 8.—A 10 per cent cut in salaries of Berkeley County school teachers in this county for the coming year will be taken if it is found necessary because of anticipated reduced taxes and if the county court, its employes and the general staff of county officials elective and appointive, whose headquarters is at the courthouse here, have a similar cut.

The proposition was agreed upon at a meeting last night of representatives of all county district boards of education and was adopted unanimously. The school men indicated their opposition to any cut unless economically necessary, and made the cut hinge upon the conference with the county court, to be held later.

City school teachers here also face an unconditional 10 per cent cut following such action by the board at a recent meeting. At the meeting the teachers appeared against the cut and also indicated their conviction that any cut on the ground of economy should be applied uniformly to all city and county employes. The board, however, made its action unconditional.

License for Gas Piping Is Ruled Unnecessary

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 8.—That it is not mandatory for the Maryland Gas Transportation Co., a Delaware corporation, to obtain a license to lay piping for transportation of high pressure gas for interstate usage, is the effect of a decision handed down in the Maryland Court of Appeals here today by Judge W. Mitchell Digges.

In July of last year the public service commission sought to compel the company to obtain a license to carry out its plans for piping gas over a 79-mile route through Cecil, Harford, Baltimore, Howard and Montgomery Counties. In September an action was filed in the Baltimore City Court, which ruled that a license was not necessary. In affirming that ruling, the Appellate Court points out that the gas was not intended for use in the State, but the company proposed to transport it between Pennsylvania and Virginia. The opinion also directed attention to the fact that the piping was to be through open country of the counties named and not through any cities.

Old Boxwood Bought For Williamsburg Work

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 8.—The boxwod at the home of Mrs. V. M. Johns, near Howardsville, this county, has been purchased for the restoration work at Williamsburg. The purchase price was several thousand dollars. Workmen have been busy for six weeks removing the boxwood, which had become a vertitable landmark.

About 80 years ago Mr. and Mrs. Zack Lewis, who resided on a large plantation known as Avon Hill, situated at the confluence of the James and Rockfish Rivers, planted boxwood around a garden plot, said to be an acre of land. In the division of the estate Mrs. Johns, daughter, became the owner of the homestead and boxwood. For many years a considerable sum was realized from the sale of clippings to florists.

He planned to apply to Judge G. K. Kump for bail. Ritchie is under indictment here on nine charges of embezzlement and misappropriation of funds. Disappearing February 1, when he left supposedly on bank business in Eastern cities, he was located two weeks ago in Libby, Mont., and returned to this State.

MARYLAND FREEDOM IS CITED BY RITCHIE

Governor Talks in New York on 298th Anniversary of State's Founding.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Maryland was called the birthplace of political freedom tonight by Albert C. Ritchie, Governor of that State.

The governor was among the speakers at a meeting of the Calvert Associates in celebration of the 298th anniversary of the founding of Maryland.

A letter from President Hoover extended greetings to the associates.

"One of the proudest traditions of our history," he wrote, "is the early date at which our Nation committed itself unreservedly and permanently to the principle of freedom of conscience, and the very early action of Maryland in this respect was one of the most important influences leading to the adoption of this principle."

Cites Freedom Moves.

Gov. Ritchie called religious and political freedom "the two priceless contributions which Maryland under the Calverts made to a world solely in need of both."

Among the other speakers was the Rev. Richard Washington, lineal descendant of "Lighthorse Harry" Lee, of Revolutionary fame, and of John Augustine Washington, eldest brother of the first President.

Father Washington, pastor of the Shrine of the Sacred Heart at Hot Springs, Va., is also related to Gen. Robert E. Lee.

The third speaker was Joseph M. Proskauer, justice of the appellate division of the New York Supreme Court.

John McCormack, noted Irish tenor, sang.

Reception Given Ritchie.

The celebration began a Nation-wide campaign in preparation for the national observance of the Maryland tercentenary in 1934.

Michael Williams, president of the Calvert Associates, presided. A reception was given Gov. Ritchie.

Earlier today Gov. Ritchie said he saw a strong drift of Republicans to Democratic party policies. First concrete evidence of this movement, he said, was in the primary votes in Wisconsin and North Dakota.

These observations were made by the governor in an interview after he had turned over to John W. Davis, general chairman of the Democratic victory campaign, a check for $36,690, Maryland's contribution in the party's drive for a $1,500,000 preparedness fund.

Jefferson Letters Given to U. of V.

18 Letters to Gen. Cocke Relate to Founding of Institution.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 8.—William A. Clark, jr., of Los Angeles, Calif., who recently gave $350,000 for the erection of a new law building at the University of Virginia, has presented the university library two sets of Jefferson manuscripts which are of unusual historical interest because they are intimately connected with the beginnings of the university.

The first set consists of eighteen letters written by Jefferson to his friend, Gen. John Hartwell Cocke, from 1813 to 1826. Gen. Cocke was one of the founders of the university and a member of the original board of visitors, and these personal letters comment frankly on the problems involved in the establishment of the institution. The letters were recently in possession of the Cocke family and have never been published.

The second set consists of the manuscript specifications drawn up by Jefferson for the erection of the first buildings. These contain a description of each proposed structure, illustrated by sketches, and give with meticulous care the measurements, the materials, the amounts of brick or stone, and all the other details necessary for the creation of the buildings. Notes which were evidently added from time to time suggest that these specifications were carried by Jefferson on his almost daily trips from Monticello to the university.

Central Nine Wins From Business

Buscher Hits Two Homers, Goes Route to Win, 10-5.

Stenogs Trail After Shaky First Frame as Series Opens.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE high school baseball series opened yesterday at Eastern Field with a right decent game of ball, in which Central defeated Business by the score of 10-5. It was a game in which hitting predominated from the opening gong. It was rather free from errors, as high school baseball goes, but inclement weather and public apathy held the crowd down to a hundred or so.

Central, playing for the first time in the series under the coachship of Jackie Ray, a young man who used to do much of the work and receive none of the credit of the Eastern High teams, showed a good enough cohesiveness afield and downright strength at the tee. The club rapped out 12 hits in all, but three of them went for homers, another for a triple and, still another for a double.

Emmett Buscher pitched the limit for Central, being nicked for 11 safeties, but strengthening in the face of every crisis. He issued seven free excursions to first base and set five of the Businesses to punching the ozone on the final strike. He had difficulty keeping his delivery low enough throughout but worked easily and carefully and showed good promise of being one of the important cogs in the threat that is Central.

Buscher Hits Two Homers.

Buscher covered himself with glory still further by clouting two authentic home runs, one of which cleared Larry Flynn's head in deep center and the other the right field fence.

The game started in typical high school fashion when Central went to 3 to 0 in the first inning, caused by Bryant's lusty home run to right center, which scored the bandy legged Chumbris and young Charlie Moran. Buscher made it 4 to 0 an inning later with his first homer. Buscher held Business down well until the third when Jimmy Garner clouted a homer on the first pitched ball and his colleagues amassed two more runs on hits by Schneider, Fraydin and Silverman.

Central came back with another batting rampage in the fourth to boost their total three more and knock Garner out of the box. Buscher cleared the right field wall during the melee. Business was allowed two more runs before the game, but Buscher's support was more than reasonably good, particularly on the part of the Central infield. Central rapped out two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh off Silverman. A sad downpour had long since emptied the stands.

Schneider's Catch Features.

One sparkling fielding performance was turned in during the game when Andy Schneider ran far into the territory of left field to stab a blow that was tagged Texas leaguer from the moment of concussion with the hickory. The most amusing incident of the afternoon cropped up when Curtain, Business third baseman, "scored" from second on a long fly off Steele's bat. It was a nice run, but there were none out at the time.

Eastman Aiming At Half-Mile Mark

Holder of 440-Yard Record to Try Today to Lower 880 Time.

Stanford University, Calif., April 8 (A.P.).—Big Ben Eastman, lanky Stanford boy who bettered the world's quarter-mile record two weeks ago, tomorrow will try to exceed the best recognized time in the 880-yard run.

Eastman will seek to overthrow the record of 1:51.6 for the half-mile, established by Dr. Otto Peltzer, of Germany, in 1926. The tall, blond youth has been training for the event for two weeks, and will make his threat during the Stanford-Olympic Club-University of San Francisco meet.

It will be his sixth half-mile run against competition. He won the event in the National Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. last year in 1:54.4. His best times for the race are 1:52.4 and 1:53, both made last year, the former in practice and the latter in competition on a muddy track.

G. U. Prep Downs Rockville Nine, 7-2

Garrett Park TeamClinches Game at Start With Six-Run Attack.

Georgetown Prep's baseball season started auspiciously yesterday at Garrett Park when the team defeated Rockville, 7 to 2. The victory was largely the result of a first-inning batting rampage, in which six runs were scored. Don McNamara twirled for the winners and held Rockville to one hit and struck out thirteen.

After the disastrous first inning Rockville more than held its own throughout the rest of the battle, playing good ball behind the fine pitching of Becker, who struck out eleven of the winners.

George M. Cohan, jr., started the Georgetown Prep first-inning attack by getting on base through Butt's error. Heekin and Ragland rapped out doubles, McNamara was hit by Becker and Allan singled. "Raps" went completely around, and Cohan singled in his second appearance at the plate in the first inning before the rally subsided.

Ragland caught well.

WARNER AND RYERSON IN FINALS

North-South Amateur Title at Stake in 36-Hole Battle.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 8 (A.P.).—A veteran of the amateur links and a youthful university golfer today won their way to the finals of the annual North and South amateur tournament. The two, neither rated among the favorites at the start, will meet in a 36-hole match tomorrow for the title.

M. P. Warner, Pine Orchard, Conn., 21-year-old Yale junior, who was not good enough last year to make the Eli team, came through in fine style today to down J. M. Robbins, Merion, Pa., former Princeton linksman, 2 and 1.

In the other semifinal, J. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., who has participated in many tournaments since he played for Yale in 1921, had his putter working like magic to defeat Halbert J. Blue, Aberdeen, N. C., another veteran, 3 and 2.

The first eighteen holes of the final round will be played tomorrow morning and the second eighteen in the afternoon.

Warner obtained a two-hole lead on the outward nine, and held to it tenaciously. He dropped one on the tenth, but regained it on the twelfth and held it to the end.

Ryerson and Blue were all square at the turn, but the New Yorker forged into the lead on the twelfth. He saved the tenth and eleventh for halves by sinking putts of about 14 feet on each.

Generals Win, 21 to 3, Over Bridgewater

Lexington, Va., April 8 (A.P.).—Washington and Lee went on a wild hitting and scoring spree against Bridgewater College nine here this afternoon and piled up a 21 to 3 victory. The Generals used three pitchers during the melee and they allowed only six hits.

Mattox led the attack with five hits in six trips and scored four runs.

Both teams started the scoring in the first inning but in the third the Generals started their steam-roller tactics and piled up five runs, added five more in the fourth, and then called it a day by counting nine in the sixth. Craun was the first victim with Myers the second.

TURN RULE

J. E. Davis to Sell His Stable of Horses

J. E. Davis, long prominent as an owner of extensive racing stables, will dispose of his horses on May 1, it was said yesterday at the Bowie race track.

Mr. Davis has notified Matt Brady, trainer of the Davis stable, to sell his horses, which include Colossal and Era, both winners at Bowie, according to a report at the track. Davis has long been identified with the New York Jockey Club in the capacity of steward.

Virginia Ace Wins Two Bouts

Bobby Goldstein Is Survivor in College Olympic Trials.

Stops First Foe and Gains Decision in Second Bout.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 8.—Bobby Goldstein, of the University of Virginia and Washington, D. C., made his debut in the 135-pound division by scoring two easy victories here today to reach the semifinals of the National Collegiate Olympic boxing tryouts.

Goldstein, winner of the Southern Conference 126-pound championship the last two years, knocked out Clifton Dill, of Bucknell, in his first bout, and outpointed David P. Ketcham, of Harvard, in the second.

As the semifinalists in each division automatically become eligible for the San Francisco tryouts July 20, 21 and 23, Goldstein thus took a long step toward his goal, an Olympic boxing crown.

Doyless Hill, of Tulane, twice Southern Conference champion, had little difficulty knocking out Richard Woolbert, Penn State freshman, in the only heavyweight bout of the afternoon. Hill, a southpaw, floored Woolbert for a short count in the first round and finished him in the second.

Mike Tardugno, Columbus University's clever little 126-pounder from Washington, D. C., knocked out Jim Bralsford, of South Carolina, in the third round, after knocking Bralsford down twice in the second.

The Associated Press' summary of the results follows:

112-POUND CLASS SEMIFINALS—John Miller (Penn State) defeated Fred Snell (New Hampshire), three rounds, decision. Peter D'Alessandro (Temple) knocked out Fred Vitulla (Duquesne), 2:57 of the third round.

Phar Lap Autopsy Reveals No Poison

San Francisco, April 8 (A.P.).—Preliminary examination of the remains of Phar Lap, Australian race horse which died suddenly at Menlo Park last Tuesday, has failed to show any trace of poison.

Dr. Karl Meyer, of the Hooper Medical Foundation of the University of California, made this statement today.

"That does not mean," he said, "that there is no poison present in the organs. I have many tests to conduct and it will be several weeks before I know definitely."

Department of Agriculture representatives who are analyzing samples of grain and grass eaten by Phar Lap have not completed their investigation.

Veterinarians attributed the thoroughbred's death to colic induced by eating green feed or dampened barley.

Swavely Hurler, in No-Hit Game, Fans 18 Gonzagans

MANASSAS, Va., April 6.—In a game featured by the stellar performance of Pitcher Paul York, Swavely Prep, turned back Gonzaga High School, of Washington, by a score of 11 to 0. York held the visitors hitless and runless, fanned eighteen and issued only one free pass. So baffled were the Purple batters by his slants that only one ball was hit to the outfield.

York retired the first six men to face him on strikes. In the fifth inning he fanned the first three men to face him, but the last of these reached first on a catcher's error. He then proceeded to strike out the fourth man ending the inning. Not a single Gonzaga player reached second base throughout the entire game.

Swavely pounced on the offerings of a trio of Gonzaga hurlers, Bell, Carr and Mills, for thirteen safeties. It drove across six of its markers in the fifth inning to stow away the decision.

Griffith Intent on Adding Extra Infielder; Weaver, Fischer to Face Orioles Today

Powell, Phelps Sent to Youngstown Club by Nats.

THE Nats today encounter their pet victims of the exhibition season, the Baltimore Orioles, whom they have whipped on five previous occasions.

Montie Weaver, Baltimore ace of last year, who was to have opposed his old mates in Baltimore yesterday, is a holdover nominee to start today's game for the Nats as a result of the cold weather which forced the cancellation of yesterday's contest.

Weaver will not be asked to go the route today as Manager Johnson desires a final look at Carl Fischer before the season opens on Monday and this stalwart lefthander ranks with Weaver as one of the most promising pitching recruits to come to the majors in recent years.

The Orioles will present a powerful line-up against the Nats today, with either Beryl Richmond, their clever southpaw, or Harry Gumpert, winning righthander, due to hurl. With the Orioles are two former Nats, Outfielder Johnny Boyle, who was turned back this spring, and Baxter Jordan, first baseman, who was released last season.

With the Orioles, too, will be big "Buzz" Arlett, baseball's mastodon, who will be batting in the clean-up role.

Johnson Unworried By Sore Arms

Manager Johnson is not worrying about his two young southpaw pitchers, Lloyd Brown and Bob Burke, who have been bothered with sore arms. Brown, after showing up well in the game at Knoxville Monday, was granted permission to return to Chattanooga to undergo some treatments at the hands of a muscle manipulator in whom he has great confidence. His work Tuesday was impressive and the Nat leader is confident that he will be as good as ever when he returns here tomorrow.

Buke has been treated by Trainer Mike Martin and likely will be able to let out within the next few days. He was not even asked to toss a ball during the three days preceding the team's departure from Chattanooga, took a workout there Monday afternoon with no ill effects, and has been speeding up by easy changes since.

With this pair of left-handers ready, Manager Johnson will breathe more easily, as he frankly admits that the fate of his team in the coming pennant race depends absolutely upon the showing of his mound staff.

Powell and Phelps Sent to Youngstown.

The Chattanooga Club has released two former Nationals, Catcher Gordon Phelps and Outfielder Alvin (Jake) Powell, to the Youngstown Club, of the Middle Atlantic League.

Washington fans who remember the latter as a heavy-hitting right-handed batter with the Takoma Tigers, will be interested to learn that Powell is being converted into a left-handed hitter. The Nationals still have a string tied to him and President Griffith is convinced that Alvin will hit better from the wrong side of the plate.

"He was not using his left hand at all when hitting right-handed," said Griffith, "and the shift will make him use both hands in his swing, which should almost double his power. In fact, I'm so certain that he will make the grade as a southpaw batter that I've offered to pay part of his salary if the Youngstown Club will allow him to bat left-handed."

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Detroit, April 8 (A.P.).—Hal Schumacher won a pitchers' battle from Wicklow Wyatt today as the Giants defeated the Tigers, 2 to 1, to clinch their spring series. The victory was the Giants' fifth in seven starts against the Tigers.

Schumacher shut the Tigers out in the first seven innings, allowing only two hits, while his teammates were getting to Wyatt for two runs, one in the first inning and another in the third. The Tigers threatened in the ninth, but the rally was stopped short when Critz threw Gehringer out at the plate.

After being touched for five hits Wyatt was replaced in the eighth by Goldstein, who allowed the Giants one hit in the ninth.

Kansas City, April 8 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs, with the help of a double play in the ninth, today defeated the Kansas City Blues of the American Association, 4 to 3.

Charles Root proved himself ready for the opening day National League assignment by holding the Blues to three hits and no scores in five innings, but Burleigh Grimes, who followed him on the mound, was wild and in constant trouble. In the ninth the Blues had one run in and two on base, but Woody English halted the threat by starting a fast double play.

Bob Osborn, former Cub, pitched a fine game for the Blues, but errors by his mates were costly.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 8 (A.P.).—Manager Lew Fonseca wants another look at Ted Lyons before he decides on his starting pitcher for the lid-blowing game against St. Louis Tuesday. Lyons was impressive in his early games this spring, but was hammered easily in his last start. Cold weather forced the White Sox to cancel their exhibition with Terre Haute today.

Geisler, of Villanova, Joins Squad for Tryout.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

PRESIDENT CLARK GRIFFITH, of the Nationals, who has been pulling strings for the last day or two trying to line up a utility infielder—either old or young—of some major league experience, has made little or no headway, the result being the taking on, for trial, of Harry Geisler, the property of the Youngstown Club, of the Middle Atlantic League.

Young Geisler was to have played the entire game at short in Baltimore yesterday against the Orioles, but he lost this opportunity when the Nats showed up at Dunn Field ready to play only to learn that the game had been declared off about noon because of cold weather. The temperature probably was 15 degrees colder than here and, although the athletes could have played, it would have been most uncomfortable both for them and for the spectators, if any.

Geisler, 22 years of age, is a right-handed hitter of no professional experience. He played semipro ball on the sandlots of Pittsburgh, his home town, and performed with the Villanova University nine last season. He is said to be a flashy fielder and a consistent hitter, although not of the slugging type.

He will remain with the Nationals for a while and probably will see action in part of this afternoon's game in Griffith Stadium against the Baltimore Club.

Cronin, Improving, May Miss Opener.

Just when Shortstop Joe Cronin will be able to play is uncertain. Reports from the hospital last night were to the effect that he is making good progress. If the weather is favorable between now and Monday, there is a possibility of him getting in the season's inaugural against the Red Sox day after tomorrow, but the chances are that he will not make it and that Johnny Kerr will draw the assignment to cover the territory between second and third.

Meanwhile, President Griffith is casting about trying to get the infield protection he needs. The American League teams have until June 15 to

Schmeling Arrives in U. S., Nearly Fit, and Confident

NEW YORK, April 8 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, heavyweight boxing champion of the world, arrived from Germany today to begin an exhibition tour preparatory to a defense of his title against Jack Sharkey, of Boston, in New York June 16.

Tanned darker than his usual Teuton cast and weighing only 194 pounds, 2 above his usual fighting weight, Schmeling appeared ready to step into the ring tomorrow.

He was asked to comment on the question of foul blows and the referee, since the fight is to be held in New York, where fouls are not a cause for disqualification and where the referee is selected without consulting the preferences of the boxers.

"I will not be fouled," Schmeling said. "I have protection against that. As to the referee, the best referee I can have is this fist," and he exhibited his formidable left hand.

Schmeling won his title on a foul from Sharkey in the final bout of an elimination contest staged in New York in 1930. The legislation against fouls has since been enacted.

The German champion will make an exhibition tour of the country and then will go into training near Kingston, N. Y., on May 10.

Schmeling indicated he hoped to keep on fighting for several years. He said he would have enough money after the Sharkey fight to retire if he wished, but then added:

"No one ever has enough and as long as he is young, healthy, and strong he will be 'in there.'"

Schmeling said he spent most of his time in Germany at his country home, outside Berlin, and hunting deer in Muencherburg. He said he did only enough boxing to keep his timing right.

38 Pick Mackmen, 28 Select Yankees as Flag Winner.

None See Washington in Second Division; Giants Rate High.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, April 8.—For the third successive year, the champion St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics have the backing of the majority of experts to win the major league baseball pennant races.

The most striking feature of the sixth annual Associated Press pennant poll, compiled today, is the apparent conviction it will be mainly a two-club contest in each circuit. The two Manhattan entries, the Giants and Yankees, are named as the only real challengers to the present rulers of baseball's big league roosts.

In the balloting by sports editors and writers of the major league baillwicks, the world champion Cardinals prove much stronger favorites than the Athletics to repeat. This coincides with the opinions of professional betting commissioners, who rate the Red Birds an even money choice and the Athletics at 6 to 5.

Two Champions Poll Bigger Votes.

Of the 67 predictions on the 1932 order of finish received in the Associated Press poll, 48 favor the Cardinals to make it three in a row while 38 pick the Athletics to set a new American League record of four consecutive victories. Last year 35 experts picked St. Louis and 41 named Philadelphia out of 64 ballots.

All but one of the remaining American League ballots goes to the Yankees, who, as the choice of 28 critics, muster the strongest backing they have had since they were toppled off the baseball throne in 1929. Cleveland gets one pennant vote for the coming campaign.

Washington's improved team failed to get a single first-place vote, but was picked by ten of the 67 critics to finish second, and by 48 to finish third. None selected the Nats to finish worse than the first division.

15 Select Giants, 3 Pick Cubs.

The Giants have the support of 15 observers who think they will surge back to the National League peak for the first time since 1924. The Chicago Cubs, second choice last season, get only three pennant votes this year. The remaining National League ballot goes with a load of optimism to the Phillies—one of the most improved outfits in the league, at that.

The failure of the Cubs to rate more highly in the poll comes as a surprise specially as the advance dope points to the team being greatly strengthened by the addition of Burleigh Grimes, plus the development of sensational young infielders in Hack and Herman.

The widespread belief that the league races will be tightened up seems to be confined almost exclusively to the second division groups in

YANKEES WIN 3-1 DUEL AT BROOKLYN

Byrd Hits 4th Homer in 4 Days as Each Club Gets 6 Hits.

BROOKLYN, April 8 (A.P.).—Sam Byrd, hitting sensation of the spring exhibition season, connected with his fourth home run in as many days as the New York Yankees defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 1, in the first of a three-game series today.

The weather was cold and damp, but the four pitchers—Herb Pennock and Charlie Ruffing for the Yankees, and Waite Hoyt and Bill Clark, of the Dodgers—hurled midseason ball.

Each team made six hits.

Hack Wilson, making his debut in Brooklyn, slugged to a draw with Babe Ruth. They each got one single, struck out twice, and were retired on outfield flies once.

CALGARY KAY AND NEGOPOLI IN VICTORIES AT BOWIE

8,000 Watch Featureless Program

Entry of Tred Avon Scares Stables Out of Holly Beach.

Neck, Nose Decisions Mark Battles for Claiming Purses.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

WHEN Racing Secretary McLennan arrived at his office yesterday morning he found a lineup of horsemen waiting to scratch their charges out of The Holly Beach, the scheduled feature race. The move was a surrender to S. W. Labrot's Tred Avon by the Handlers of horses foaled in Maryland. When McLennan found the contenders unwilling to meet the 1931 star, he wisely tossed the race in the waste basket, substituting a claiming contest that sent 11 platers to the post.

This race and the fifth shared chief interest for the crowd which was thinned out somewhat due to the chilly, damp day, but kept the average high for the meeting. Some 8,000 were in the stands, on the lawn, in the clubhouse and down under, betting, cashing and eating hot dogs.

The substitute race proved a victory for Calgary Kay and Jockey Gilbert by a neck decision over the combination of Sun Memory and Coltiletti. This pair was some two lengths ahead of Dunlin's Lad and Sonny Workman.

Sun Memory Sets Pace.

Sun Memory, followed by Dunlin's Lad, led the parade up the back stretch, with Calgary Kay far back. Calgary Kay was sent after the leaders on the stretch turn and as Dunlin's Lad slowed took up the battle with Sun Memory. Gilbert was pounding his mount with heels and elbows as they finished.

They made it even closer in the fifth race. This time it was Negopoli which nosed out Stone Martin for major honors with Don Tasker third. It looked like Jockey Elston had waited a little too late to make his move, but the judges ruled Negopoli the race.

Stone Martin took up the pace-setting where White Lightning left off and Don Tasker did most of the threatening until Negopoli came along.

Nomin Shows Speed.

Nomin, the Nevada Stock Farm's daughter of Noah, ran the same style of race that made her daddy famous, leading from start to finish in a field of twelve 2-year-olds. Super Purchase, Robertson up, was second, and Half Saint, Workman up, third. Nomin exhibited a world of speed to hop out in front, gain a five-length advantage and instead of rolling over the fence, as Wise Kid did, came home to win by two lengths. Jockey Hanford did the riding.

Sonny Workman kept his high average of winners by piloting Vishnu, another entry from the Nevada Stock Farm, home in front of a field of 3-year-olds in the second race. Like its stablemate, Vishnu had enough speed to swing out in front when Starter Milton pushed the button. The Ladkin colt drew away to an advantage of five lengths at the stretch turn and won by three lengths. Jib Boom was chasing Vishnu, the favorite, at the start and was hard at the same job at the finish, beating Tortway for the place money by four lengths.

Wise Count Wins Third.

Wise Count, gelded son of Wise Counsellor and Grace Troxler, proved the vehicle for another winning ride by Jockey Albert Robertson, the leading Maryland pilot. Wise Count was hustled along the back stretch accompanied by Regula Baddun and Don Romiro. On the swing for the stretch the Trueman-trained horse widened the gap, but Regula Baddun, with Hank Mills riding hard, managed to cut down the advantage near the finish. Gay Party, far back for half the distance, moved up with a rush to take third money.

Bill Southam came up in the last few strides to beat Twisted Threads in the sixth race. Fife was third, Hank Mills had the mount on the winner.

The seventh race brought the day's long shot when Gayola, Jockey Osborne up, beat the favored Cholla to pay off at $55.10 for $2. Cholla was second, with Flying Atom, of the Pedone & Snyder entry, third.

MACKS AND CARDS CHOICES TO REPEAT

each league. The experts manifest extreme uncertainty in rating the lower half of the brackets, and wind up, surprisingly enough, in the American League by picking the Detroit Tigers to finish fifth, two notches higher than in 1931.

Chisox and Braves Cellar Choices.

Observers figure there will be at least a three-club scramble in each circuit to keep out of last place. The Chicago White Sox and Boston Braves are nominated for the cellar positions, analysis of the vote shows, but the experts see very little to choose in this part of the field.

The order of finish predicted by the poll in each league:

National—St. Louis, New York, Chicago, Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Boston.

American—Philadelphia, New York, Washington, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Boston and Chicago.

BLACKBURNE TO COACH.

Philadelphia, April 8 (A.P.).—Russell Blackburne, former manager of the Chicago White Sox and last year's coach of the St. Louis Browns, will coach the Penn Athletic Club baseball squad for 1932, the club's baseball committee announced today.

JOE AND ASBESTOS —By Ken Kling

Asbestos tried to beat a hot favorite with a long shot yesterday and lost two bucks. The roll is now $12.85. They scratched our code horse again yesterday, so it goes right back today, 10, 8, 2, 18, 5, 16, 7, 6.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NOMIN, $7.00, $4.90, $3.70; SUPER PURCHASE, $5.80, $4.20; HALF SAINT, $2.70.

NOMIN, displaying extreme early speed, went into a long lead in the opening furlong and, steadied thereafter, held away until the end. SUPER PURCHASE, a stout factor from the start, saved ground during the stretch run and outstayed HALF SAINT. Latter rushed hard for the entire trip, weakened slightly in the closing furlong. DANGER ZONE, breaking from outside the stall gates, showed a good effort. SONSY, unable to race with the leaders early, was held safe in the final test after swinging wide into the home stretch. BRILLIANT GIRL was crowded back leaving the back stretch. STROLLING TIME was in tight quarters rounding the turn. AUTO CAUTERY displayed brief early foot.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:31. Off at 2:34. Winner, Nevada Stable's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VISHNU, $3.90, $2.50, $2.20; JIB BOOM, $3.30, $2.50; TORTWAY, $3.00.

VISHNU, going into command after the opening sixteenth mile, drew clear when reaching the turn out of the back stretch and was well in hand during the closing furlong. JIB BOOM dropped back after the first three furlongs, swerved to the inside when placed to punishment entering the home stretch, but easily held the others safe. TORTWAY worked his way up on the outside, finished gamely, but could not threaten the first two. BRANDON PRINCE had speed in spots. CONTRIBUTE had no mishaps. LIGHT PAM quit badly after three furlongs.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:02. Off at 3:08½. Winner, Mr. Spalola's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WISE COUNT, $9.60, $4.80, $4.70; REGULAR BADDUN, $3.40, $2.90; GAY PARTY, $7.10.

WISE COUNT, quick to get going, raced under mild restraint in the early stages, was shaken up when straightened into the home stretch and, kept under pressure, had enough left to stall off REGULAR BADDUN. Latter, kept close up, responded to punishment and was wearing the winner down steadily. GAY PARTY improved his position on the outside and came willingly for the final test. DON ROMIRO met with slight interference when leaving the back stretch and was unable to stay with the leaders thereafter. HAPPEN could not reach the leaders at any stage. CLEAR KNIGHT stopped after a fast half mile.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. Substitute race. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:38. Winner, Mrs. R. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CALGARY KAY, $9.30, $3.70, $2.70; SUN MEMORY, $5.70, $3.60; DUNLIN'S LAD, $2.80.

CALGARY KAY, reserved off the early pace, moved up fast when approaching the home stretch, came to the inside of the leaders and won SUN MEMORY drown in the last eighth mile. SUN MEMORY, hustled to the front, was rated along until challenged, then continued gamely for the final drive. DUNLIN'S LAD, hard ridden the entire trip, weakened in the final furlong. BILL LOONEY finished with good speed. WATER LAD made up ground early, but was not good enough when the real test came. BLACK TYRONE was forced out at the stretch turn. FAIR LAD, on the inside and blocked in the opening furlong, was taken very wide entering the home stretch. BLIMP displayed early speed and was not persevered with when he tired.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:05. Off at 4:07½. Winner, G. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NEGOPOLI, $4.50, $2.90, $2.40; STONE MARTIN, $5.10, $3.50; DON TASKER, $3.20.

NEGOPOLI, forced wide at the first turn, gained a forward position midway of the back stretch, came through a narrow opening between the leaders into the home stretch and, finishing in determined fashion, was up in the last strides. STONE MARTIN, showing improved form under intelligent handling, raced reserved until leaving the back stretch, took command and held on stubbornly for the closing drive. DON TASKER stumbled badly after going the first furlong, recovered gamely, but lost a lot taken out of him to reach the leaders and tired at the end. TARNISH was unable to improve her position after racing forwardly. HOGAN'S DANCE could not keep pace. WHITE LIGHTNING quit badly.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 4:36. Off at 4:40. Winner, O. P. BILL SOUTHAM, going in his best form and rated close to the leaders, was placed to punishment in the final drive and, finishing fast, won. TWISTED THREADS down in the last seventy yards. TWISTED THREADS, crowded going to the first turn and blocked midway of the back stretch, went to the leaders entering the home stretch, disposed of FIFE, but was unable to withstand the winner. FIFE, rated in front while under steadying restraint, saved ground but tired as if short. WAN HILL raced evenly. BESSIE B. broke slowly. She closed a good gap. SKIDMORE could not keep pace. LADY GENERAL lacked speed.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:11. Off at 5:11. Winner, L. GAYOLA, outrun for the first six furlongs, reached contention with good courage, came through on the inside of the leaders during the stretch run and, closing fast, was up in the last fifty yards. CHOLLA, hurried to the front and going in her best form, stalled off keen early opposition, but could not resist the winner's rush. FLYING ATOM, slow to settle in his stride, finished full of run in the final drive. WILD KITTY was used up racing with the pace. EXCURSION was in tight quarters all during the running down the back stretch. MISS MYRTHA was unable to reach the leaders. HOW quit badly after five furlongs.

HIRSCH LIKES ON POST'S CHANCES

Derby Hope Keeps Up With Tick On, Co-favorite, in Trial.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, April 8 (A.P.).—Tick On is the cofavorite with Top Flight to win the Kentucky Derby, but Trainer Max Hirsch has a "hunch" that On Post may be the horse to beat at Churchill Downs May 7.

Hirsch, trainer of both colts, has had the 3-year-old aces of Mrs. Louis C. Kaufmann's stable working side by side all winter, but he can't decide which is the better. Tick On is quoted at 7 to 1 and On Post at 40 to 1 in the future books.

Tick On has by far the most formidable record, including a victory in the $50,000 Hopeful and a second to Top Flight in the Pimlico Futurity, but he could not shake On Post loose in a 5-furlong speed trial yesterday. They broke from the barrier and raced side by side for the entire distance, being clocked in 1:00 3-5.

Both Gain Weight During Winter.

Both colts, sons of On Watch, are picture horses. Despite many days of weather unfavorable for training, they appear to answer the bugle call at the word of their trainer. They have taken on many pounds during the off season. On Post resembles the mighty Twenty Grand in conformation.

Hirsch also is undecided where he will start his crack pair in competition. He may ship to Havre de Grace for the meeting opening April 16, or he may decide to stay on Long Island and race at Jamaica, which opens on the same date. Both, however, will run in the Kentucky classic.

Might Run One-Two, Says Trainer.

"Who knows, they might run one-two in the Derby," said the popular trainer in discussing his charges. "Bradley's stable has done it. Maybe luck will be with me this year."

If Hirsch decides to race at Jamaica, Tick On and On Post probably will get their Derby prep in the $10,000 Wood Memorial, the race in which Gallant Fox and Twenty Grand started their triumphant 3-year-old campaigns.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

Mate will run at Bowie, I learned yesterday from a reliable person. Save your pennies and see if you can get 3 to 5 when the Bostwick ace goes. Our horses are being battled. Going to make a tour of the stables this morning and try to find some long-nosed animals for future reference.

The James Rowe Memorial Handicap, with $5,000 added by the track, is the magnet today for all the fancy sprinters. With all hands trying this time a horse race is promised.

SNOBFUL will be a hatful in this classy field, but I expect the son of Snob II to be on top at the finish, and I don't mean on top of the quarter pole. Clockers investigating that victory of the other day find that fast 6 furlongs was not an accident. Hebert timed the ride beautifully. I see SNOBFUL bettering that effort today. Needs a fast break from No. 2 post to turn the trick, however. A heavy track would help.

AIR PILOT takes on 12 pounds after breaking the 5-furlong record, at which few good horses have had a chance. The Mereworth Stud colt is favored with No. 1 post and gets away quickly. I expect the added weight and distance to prove a hazard near the finish. TOWEE ran a fine race in the mud opening day, closing with a rush to take the purse. Nertney will sub for Bejshak today and a good ride seems assured. Mud will enhance the chances of the Sagamore Stable's colt.

FIRST RACE—ROKEBY did not like that route the other day and may be back today to defeat these 3-year-old maidens. Did some smart work around Chicago last year, including a second to Jolly Pilot. BURNSIDE ran a swell race here and finished second after setting the pace. That race makes BURNSIDE a serious contender here. SINGLE KAY has had a lot of races and is consistent, if he is cheap.

SECOND RACE—FOUL TIP served notice of good form by taking that farewell race in Florida. This filly is sharp now and ready to win. HELL DIVER has little chance of getting in the race due to bottom position in the also eligibles, and must break from the outside if he faces the barrier. May overcome both those obstacles. The Middleburg-Ziegler entry of STRAPHANGER and CATTAIL for third.

THIRD RACE—JAZ AGE again. Picks up weight but has carried a load with success before. Won the Inaugural handicap by a length and did not appear to be ridden out. Has won 8 out of 9 sprints. Of course, TRED AVON is the horse to beat. Makes 1932 debut here and I still contend, the Labrot miss will need a race, despite all that the clockers say in her favor. TRED AVON certainly has the best of the weights here, however. VACILLATE was beaten by JAZ AGE when they met before.

FOURTH RACE—OPEN HEARTH may go in the feature, where he would have some chance but, if the Labrot interests decide to concentrate on this purse, it looks like a lock. OPEN HEARTH has shown brilliant form here in two races, losing by a nose to Jolly Pilot and then coming back to win all the way. That last by ROYAL RUFFIAN was all a mistake. Expect a different performance here. IMPISH, off that victory here, for third money.

SIXTH RACE—JUDGE CAVERLY, cheap but honest, gets the call here. Always under played, I expect this veteran to lead WRACKELL and TINITA home. The last named may improve that last one, but a slow track would be a hinderance.

SEVENTH RACE—GULLY JUMPER, the horse that couldn't run less than a mile and a quarter, is the choice. GARLIC is the one to beat, with ESSARE my other money pick.

80 Horses Entered Today In Deep Run Club Races

CURLES NECK, Va., April 8 (A.P.).—Eighty entries from several States are expected to start in six races on the program of the Deep Run Hunt Club here tomorrow. Tonight prospect of rain threatened to add to the difficulties of negotiating a steeplechasing course regarded as severe at best.

An attempt by Primero, 6-year-old gelding owned by Mrs. T. H. Symington, of Baltimore, to repeat his victory last year in the Deep Run Hunt Cup, will face stiff opposition from a field of seven other starters, including Buddy Clarke, Racketeer II, Imp, and Licorice.

The cup event, to be ridden in colors over about 3 miles of posts and rails, will follow a new course this year. The old figure 8 has been altered to a dumbell layout, and the turf, benefited by the open winter, appears in excellent condition, while the fences are thoroughly adequate.

Licorice had not arrived late this afternoon, but even if one or two entrants should be scratched, a tight race appeared in prospect for the $500 trophy, which will become the permanent possession of an owner winning it for three years. A $100 replica is given to the winner each year.

Other races on the program will be the Malvern Hill Steeplechase, for 4-year-olds and upward, maidens and win

CREDIT HEAD FINDS TRADE UNCHANGED

Manufacturing and Sales Fail to Reap Rewards of Spring Upturn.

By THOMAS H. CAHILL.

In his monthly business review received yesterday by members of the Washington Association of Credit Men, Henry H. Heimann, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, states:

"The last 30 days have shown no very material changes in the general business picture. There has been some improvement in certain lines of retail trade, but for the most part the situation in manufacturing and distribution has not shown the advancement which had been hoped for. However, it is encouraging to see that our basic financial conditions, which are so necessary as a foundation for progress, have an improved aspect. Bank failures in recent weeks have not been more than normal. The bond market has shown a greatly strengthened position, and the Government projects designed for the betterment of business conditions are being put under way and are already showing good results."

Mr. Heimann, who will address the conference of the Fifth District of the national association at Wardman Park Hotel April 15, reminds that "in a nation as young as ours we not only naturally develop a spirit of aggressiveness that is most praiseworthy but it at times seems to carry us on to seemingly impossible accomplishments. Because of this very fact of our aggressiveness, any retroaction, however temporary, is magnified until it is soon interpreted by a great many as marking the passing of our unusually favorable experiences."

"Similarly," he concludes, "when the sky seems most overcast we fail to remember that out of the very darkness and behind the clouds, factors are busily at work correcting the situation and preparing to dispel the gloom. The extreme deflation of inventories can not be anything but a favorable factor for the future, irrespective of the injury it has wrought at the present. Inventory write-offs in 1932 by reason of low commodity prices prevailing, ought to be at a minimum.

"A slight stiffening in commodities may well spell added profits, assuming proper accounting in these deflationary years. The contribution toward a restoration of confidence by way of a commodity rise is scarcely realized, so vast are its potentialities. The greater diffusion of stock holdings may well reflect an immediate restoration of hope if we but experience a 25 per cent advance in the present subnormal and insane market value of securities."

$10,000,000 IN GOLD SHIPPED TO EUROPE

France to Get $9,000,000; Bankers Pledge Support to Aid Dollar.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Gold aggregating some $10,000,000 is slated to be shipped tonight aboard the liner Ile de France.

While definite figures were not available, it was understood about $9,000,000 of the total shipment would go to France and that the remainder of the metal was destined for Belgium.

With the French franc holding firm today around 3.94 15-16 for cables, which is just above the gold point, further shipments from New York were regarded as probable.

An increase of $1,399,700 in gold under earmark for foreign account reduces the country's gold stock that amount and was the only new transaction reported in the metal today.

International bankers here said today they would leave no stone unturned in their effort to protect the American dollar in foreign money markets against the insidious spread of false rumors, such as the rumor published yesterday in Paris that a large American bank had suspended payments.

While bankers here were not prepared to say an organized attack had been instituted against the dollar, using false propaganda for its ammunition, they did not hesitate to express irritation over the Paris article, which coincided with other specially written articles purporting to show the dollar is in weak position.

Bankers also said the publication of the false bank report had some reassuring aspects. For one thing, they said, it showed part of the recent selling of the dollar which had come from France was based on misinformation rather than fact.

Some influential Wall street bankers now are expressing the view that it would be helpful if the United States were to get entirely rid of French balances.

BUSINESS RESPONDS TO SEASONAL UPLIFT

Moderate Expansion Seems Near as Retail Sales Mark Increase.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Industry and trade felt the stimulus of seasonal developments during the past week, but improvement was hardly great enough to encourage belief that a substantial revival is under way, according to the weekly mercantile reviews.

"The beginning of the new quarterly period is giving promise of a moderate seasonal expansion," said Dun's Review. "A general, though slightly upward trend is noticeable, and constructive adjustments are progressing favorably. The first entire week of real spring weather stimulated general retail sales. At wholesale, the physical volume of sales this week was ahead of that for the comparative period a year ago."

Reports to Bradstreet's from leading cities reveal only a slight seasonal increase in retail trade and none as yet in the heavy manufacturing lines.

Some of the reports mention the lively public interest in the new displays of low priced automobiles and in some cases note an actual buying response.

New bond offerings in this district for the past week totaled $37,855,500 compared with $6,042,000 in the preceding week and $204,373,000 for the same period in 1931.

Stocks.

Despite some encouraging trade reports, the tide of liquidation swept on with only feeble rallies of short covering. The 90-stock index closed at $48.90, against $70.30 a month ago. Steel again violated the 1908 low and the list as a whole dipped into new low ground for a decade.

Bonds.

The apparent scurrying of investment funds for tax exempts, in the face of uncertainty over the new Federal levies, advanced U. S. Governments to new 1932 highs, but the industrials, rails and utilities penetrated new lows.

Grains.

Wheat and corn sold off 3 cents a bushel in the face of bullish crop-damage reports and better Liverpool cables, the market apparently having been dominated by the unprecedented weakness in securities.

New Low Prices Recorded on Market Leaders as Selling Mounts.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Depression of stock prices continued without important abatement today.

Short covering rippled over the market soon after noon and again toward the close, but neither flurry carried conviction and in the last few minutes quotations slumped to within fractional distance of the earlier lows.

As for bonds, few but U. S. Governments could withstand the prevailing desire for liquidity. Volume of stock sales expanded to 2,143,680 shares, the largest total since February 19.

Dispatches from Washington mentioned increasing senatorial resistance to the stock transfer tax and also told of progress toward cutting Government expenses. But none of these mildly encouraging symptoms could arrest the pressure against shares and brokers went home wondering when the expected "selling climax" was to materialize.

Utilities again made a dismal showing, but some of the industrial leaders fared no better. Preferred stocks were offered for what buyers would pay and that, in many instances, was 3 to 10 points below previous quotations. Several rails which had been selling well above current averages had their market adjusted to prevailing conditions.

Crude Prices Break.

United States Steel, American Can, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Chase, American Tobacco "B" and Sears Roebuck lost a couple of points or more. General Motors heavily sold on its March sales statement. American Telephone touched 105 and closed at 106¼, off 2⅛. Public Service of New Jersey and Peoples Gas were down 3 and North American nearly as much. Detroit Edison slumped 7 points.

In the preferred, Columbia Gas & Electric dropped 10, then recovered half its loss. Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New Haven, General Motors, United Gas Improvement and Allied Chemical preference shares declined 3 to 5 points. Central Railroad of New Jersey common, an inactive, broke 12¾. Norfolk & Western lost 4 and Union Pacific common 2¾. Pennsylvania closed at 12⅝, off 1¾.

Oils were soggy on news that differences of opinion over crude prices had affected quotations. Humble announced it would pay 83 cents for East Texas Oil, 15 cents under the level recently established by two important competitors, and there appeared to be some doubt as to whether other producers would try to hold the recently established advances.

Bonds Lower.

Today's bond market developed into a flow of capital into Government securities and a desertion of all classes of corporate loans. While every Liberty and Treasury obligation climbed to new high levels for 1932, in the most active market since January 14 last, the railways, industrials and utilities sank to record depths for the year, with support absent except in isolated cases.

The contradictory movement of the Federals and corporation liens was attributed generally to the discouragement of investors with the tax and budget situation at Washington and the fear that the "pick-up" in industry may be delayed thereby much longer than has been expected heretofore.

Although the shifting of commitments from preferred stocks and speculative mortgages was quite pronounced, the Government list was also aided materially by the steady buying of banks. The Federal Reserve banks have added some $140,000,000 of Treasury issues to their portfolios since February 24.

Curb Trade Larger.

The industrials bore the brunt of today's liquidation. Substantial losses were recorded by American I. G. Chemical 5½s, American Smelting 5s, American Water Works 6s, Armour & Co. 4½s and 5½s, Dodge Bros. 6s, International Paper 6s, Morris & Co. 4½s, National Dairy 5½s, Paramount Broadway 5½s, Paramount Famous Lasky 6s, Paramount Publix 5½s, Shell Union Oil 5s, Tobacco Products of New Jersey, 6½s and Warner Bros. Pictures 6s.

Power and light company bonds were particularly soft among the utilities. Even some of the American Telephones, unusually steady heretofore, weakened. Consolidated Gas 5½s also lost a point. All of the International Telephones sank to new lows for the year.

Some of the railroads tried somewhat freely to rally at one time, but most of them ended with minus signs. Losses of 1 to 4 or more points were usual throughout the carrier section.

Sales totaled $15,799,000 par value.

Selling continued to pour into the curb market, and sales swelled to 450,000 shares, the largest turnover since December 31. Cities Service was the latest target for active selling, declining to a new low, at 3½, and closing at 3¾, off ½ net, in a turnover of 87,300 shares.

NEW SHORTS RULING ADJUSTED TO SALES

Volume Reported Greater as Fears of Opposition Gradually Disappear.

By FRANK H. McCONNELL.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—At the end of the first week of trading under the new stock exchange rules restricting short selling brokers report the market's machinery has been fully adjusted to give effect to the change.

In fact, some leading wire houses report there probably has been a modest increase in short selling during the week. Fears felt by the short interest as to their ability to borrow sufficient stock from customers to permit them to function on the bear side have largely disappeared. This is reflected, brokers point out, in the steady decline in premiums commanded for loaned stock.

Under the regulations put into effect April 1 brokers must obtain written consent from customers to loan the latter's stocks to back short transactions.

Difficulty in obtaining as many of these consents as were necessary caused a flurry last Friday when loan premiums were bid up sharply. The premium on U. S. Steel stock was bid up until short sellers had to pay $50 per day for every 100 shares they borrowed. The premium has since dropped to 1-16 point, so they can now obtain that accommodation for $6.25 per day on 100 shares.

Brokers report they have received many additional "consents" this week. Nevertheless, they find some owners of stocks adamant against granting permission to loan them.

No further flurry of short covering is expected to result from the new regulation, although some brokers say any turn in business conditions might bring a short squeeze whose severity would be emphasized because of the new handicap on bear operations.

Latest stock exchange figures show that about 20,000 shares of stock were bought in open market on April 1 by shorts for covering purposes. For March, the short interest increased by 176,000 shares, amounting on April 1 to 3,279,398 shares against 3,102,876 shares on March 1. The maximum swing during the month was about 500,000 shares, or from a low point of 3,018,470 shares on March 2 to a high of 3,560,231 shares on March 22.

Depression Hits Beer; Canadian Profits Drop

Montreal, Quebec, April 7 (A.P.). Net earnings of $1.73 a share on the common stock, 13 cents more than dividend disbursements, were reported today in the annual statement of National Breweries, Ltd.

The company showed net profits at $1,981,630, compared with $2,456,699 in 1930. The profits provided an increase writeoff for depreciation, took care of both prefererd and common dividends, and left $91,237 for the surplus account.

General Motors Sales Drop to 59,696 Units

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Total March sales of General Motors Corporation cars and trucks to dealers were 59,696 units compared with 119,195 in the same month a year ago and 62,580 in February, 1932.

March sales to American consumers totaled 48,717 against 46,855 in February and 101,339 in March, 1931. Sales to American dealers were 48,383 last month compared with 92,539 in February and 98,943 a year ago.

Engineering Contracts Reach $16,607,000

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Heavy engineering contract awards in the United States for the first week of April aggregated $16,607,000, according to the Engineering News-Record. This compares with an average weekly valuation of $17,211,000 for March, 1932, and $63,381,000 for April, 1931.

German Bank Reduces Rate to 5½ Per cent

Associated Oil Income Declines to $3,112,388

San Francisco, April 8 (A.P.).—Net income of $3,112,388, or $1.36 per share, was reported today by the Associated Oil Co. for 1931, after deducting $1,516,856 for inventory losses.

GRAIN PRICES SLUMP ON SECURITIES NEWS

Wheat Closes Nearly 3 Cents Off, With Corn Lowest Since 1900.

Chicago, April 8 (A.P.).—Jolted by breaks in securities, the grain markets collapsed 3 cents today both for wheat and corn, with corn reaching bottom prices unmatched since 1900.

Prices moved apparently in complete disregard of predictions that the Government crop report issued after the close of trading would prove bullish. It was shown by the report that the 1932 harvest of domestic winter wheat would probably total 42,000,000 bushels less than the average of recent unofficial estimates, and that the condition of the crop was also well below private returns.

Wheat closed at the day's lowest level, 2¾ to 3⅛ cents under yesterday's finish. Corn was down 2½ cents and oats were ⅝ to ⅞ cent off.

The shadow of the stock market darkened the wheat pit from the start, and in the late dealings led to a flood of stop-loss sales.

Kansas and Nebraska wheat crop reports, which were even more adverse than are previous estimates, failed to make an impression on the market.

458,000,000-BUSHEL WHEAT CROP LISTED

Government Places Yield at 42 Per Cent Below 1931 Output.

(Associated Press.)

A winter wheat crop of 458,000,000—42 per cent below the bumper crop of 787,000,000 bushels in 1931—was forecast yesterday by the Agriculture Department on the basis of April 1 conditions.

The prospective sharply reduced crop for 1932 is 17 per cent less than the average of 551,000,000 bushels produced during the five-year period, 1924 through 1928.

The condition of winter wheat on April 1 was reported at 75.8 per cent of normal, compared with 88.8 per cent a year ago, and a ten-year average of 80.9 per cent. The April 1 condition and preliminary reports to the department indicate an average abandonment of nearly 14 per cent for the United States, against a ten-year average of 12 per cent.

Last year 787,465,000 bushels were produced, and in 1930 production was 601,840,000 bushels.

The area sown to winter wheat in the autumn of last year was 38,368,000 acres, or 10.4 per cent less than sown in the autumn of 1930.

The department said the condition of winter wheat was below average in the great plains area and in the South Atlantic and Gulf States, and above average in all sections from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast. Weather conditions during the fall and winter were generally favorable except in the great plains area, where there was marked shortage of moisture.

At the same time the department estimated the stocks of wheat remaining on farms for all purposes, including seed, on April 1 at 158,942,000 bushels, compared with 115,673,000 a year ago and a five-year average of 97,129,000 bushels. On March 1 of this year about 207,323,000 bushels remained on farms.

Rome, April 8 (A.P.).—When the books were opened today on an internal nine-year loan of 1,000,000,000 lire (about $50,000,000,00) the issue was oversubscribed by approximately two and a half times.

LIQUIDATION DRIVES COTTON PRICE DOWN

Slump in Grain Is Blamed Also for Losses; May Closes at 5.99.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—A further decline in cotton, attributed to continued liquidation and selling on the weakness of the grain and stock markets, was followed by rather sharp rallies on covering in today's late trading.

May contracts, after selling off to 5.89, or 7 points net lower, advanced to 6.03 and closed at 5.99, compared with 5.96 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 4 points higher.

All positions made new highs for the day near the close.

Liverpool cables reported Bombay buying and some Liverpool buying on easier sterling, and said there was a moderate demand for cotton cloths from India, but a poor demand from China.

Exports today were 31,233 bales, making 7,097,147 bales so far this season.

FRENCH PLANNING MISSION TO ARCTIC

Will Participate With 25 Other Nations in "Polar Year" in June.

Paris (U.P.).—Dr. Jean Charcot, French explorer and meteorologist, has announced that the French mission participating with 25 other nations in the 1932-1933 "Polar Year" would sail from Saint Severan, in June, and would pass the winter in Greenland, at Scoresby Sound.

Dr. Charcot will lead the mission to Greenland in his yacht, the Why Not? Because of his age, he will be unable to spend the winter with the scientists in Greenland, but will return to France with his ship and sail again in 1933 to pick up the party.

Esquimo Village.

"The Danish government has agreed to allow an official French mission to spend a year at Scoresby Sound, where there is a community of 180 Esquimos maintained by the Danish government for seal and whale hunting," Dr. Charcot said.

"Our mission will consist of 14 men, under the leadership of Naval Lieut. Douguet, and will include two professors of the University of Strasbourg, Dr. Rotte and Dr. Dauvilliers. We have asked the navy to send along the ice-breaker Pollux.

"This 'polar year' should fill in the blank spots in our knowledge of meteorological conditions, and particularly the origin of storms. The knowledge gained by 26 national missions will be correlated and this may advance the science of meteorology 50 years.

Huts Built.

"An observatory and huts for the scientists will be ready by late June. There is an Eskimo village there and one Eskimo already has been trained as a wireless operator.

"The mission will take two years' supply of food, a ton of canned meats, 5,000 quarts of wine, a half-ton of sugar. From September through the next winter until July, 1933, the mission will remain in the winter camp, blocked in by ice, with the wireless as the only communication with the outside."

Curb Lodges Complaint With Senate Against Tax

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—The New York Curb Exchange announced today that it had lodged with the Senate finance committee formal complaint against the proposed tax on stock transfers.

A memorandum, submitted by Howard C. Sykes, president, states that the tax is particularly burdensome to the curb market, since the average value of shares listed on that market is less than $4, so that a minimum tax of 4 cents a share is more than 1 per cent.

"The action of the public since this sales tax feature was approved by the House is eloquent," said the memorandum. "Security prices have fallen to new low levels, and the recuperative power and hope of the country has been given another blow."

Patrick J. Sullivans Upset Voting District

Pittsburgh (U.P.).—There are six Patrick J. Sullivans in the Thirty-second voting district here, confusing enough in itself. Augmenting the confusion is the probable entrance of two of them in the race for representative from the district.

The best known "P. J." is the present representative, who will seek reelection. Opposing him will be another, who once was an elevator operator, but is now unemployed.

New candidate P. J. Sullivan so far has refused to explain the significance of the initial "J." All of the others admit their middle name is Joseph.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WHEN THOSE THREE-CENT STAMPS APPEAR.

Scene—Postoffice stamp window. Characters—A postal clerk. A shopper.

* * * *

SHOPPER—I'd like to see something in postage stamps.

Clerk—What price?

Shopper—Twos, please.

Clerk—I'm sorry, but we don't carry those any more.

Shopper—You don't carry them any more?

Clerk—No, they've been discontinued.

Shopper—Why, I really can't believe it. They were my favorite stamp.

Clerk—A lot of people liked them.

* * * *

Shopper—It seems incredible that you don't handle them any more. Everybody I know preferred them over any other kind.

Clerk—They were one of our best sellers, I'll admit. We used to get more calls for two-cent stamps than for all the others put together.

Shopper—What happened?

Clerk—The Government decided to abandon the line and put out something new.

Shopper—How much are the new ones?

Clerk—Three cents, lady.

Shopper—Are they any better?

Clerk—Well, they look about the same, but they wear better. Like to see 'em?

Shopper—Yes, but I think you're making a terrible mistake dropping the twos. They were so well established. It's poor judgment to discontinue anything that's selling well. Once the people get accustomed to something and you drop it they're apt to stop buying entirely.

Clerk (Exhibiting a tray of 3-cent stamps—I know it. There hasn't been nearly so much demand for stamps since they raised the price.

* * * *

SHOPPER—What does it do that the old 2-cent stamp won't do?

Clerk—I can't exactly say, but they tell me it will outlast the old stamp. After all, it isn't the initial cost, lady; what you want is a stamp that will stand up.

Shopper—I always found the old one all right. Of course, it wouldn't stand any hard usage. Did you have any complaints?

Clerk—No, but it's the old story . . . . the public gets tired of the same model of anything. You've gotta make a change if you want to keep up the demand.

Shopper—Well, you can tell Herbert Hoover that he's lost one customer. I certainly can't see an extra cent's worth in those new stamps.

Clerk—I'm sorry, lady.

Shopper (leaving in a huff)—And what's more, I'll never patronize your postoffice again.

NO WONDER seats on the Stock Exchange are down to another new low. They don't need a seat there; they need a glass-bottomed boat.

President Hoover will throw out the first ball at the opening of the baseball season in Washington. Whether this is his last season in the majors remains to be seen.

America's most embarrassed citizen must be the fellow who was mainly instrumental in putting those high-speed tickers in Wall Street to take care of five-million-share days without getting behind the market.
